The Nation's Birthday

It was on July 2 that the Continen Congress adopted the resolution offered by Lee, of Virginia, to the effect:—

"That these United colonies are, and, of right, aught to be free and independent States; that are absolved from all allegiance to the British crown, and that all political connection between them and the State of Great Britain is and aught to be totally dissolved." On July 4 the Declaration was adopted and from that time forth the United States were independent of King George and all his heirs and assigns forever. We washed our hands of him, and it was a pretty hard job, too, for George was not the kind of man to yield gracefully. He thought we could not do without him, but we have nanaged to worry along, and now rank among the great nations of the earth. The ican eagle has a right to scream. The devolpment of this country has been no small thing. It was not done in a corner. From a mere handful of people stretched along the Atlantic coast, only 3,929,214 in 1790, we have grown to a nation of 65,

The one who began or resents the assault? Every child to-day knows who was in fault, and as the national celebration becomes more and more, as the years roll on, the great Summer testival, even in their lightest amusements, child and sage, young and old, exemplify the freedom which they live, secured by the blood of the fathers. The dark days are no more, and the days of lightness are ou own heritage. The thirteen States have increased to fourty-four, and the American has cause to glory in the Stars and Stripes and what it represents. As Washington said in his Farewell Address: "Citizen The names of the Superior Court Judg that country has a right to concentrate your affections. Did you ever here how it happened w te July fourth rather than some later day? For days the members of Congress had differed over the terms of the Declaration. As the hot summer weeks progressed, windows were opened, much to the delight of the mosquitoes and flies of a neighboring stable. The stockinged calves of congressional legs were assailed daily by the diminutive combatants, until day of July. Now that the struggle was over the members became hilarious in their good nature. John Hancock dashed his great signature in such shape "that George the Third might read it without his spectacles." "Now we must hang together." it was remarked. "Yes," said Franklin, "or we shall hang separate

Political Notes.

A merry war is being waged for the Chair nanship of the State Committee, and control of the State Convention, which eets in Harrisburg, Aug., 28th, 1895. Senator Quay announced his candidacy last week; and the Magee-Martin combine favor the re-election of Gilkeson. The rules now provide that the perma

The barn-burning case tried in Kit tanning last week fell through. The Press says: "The interest in this case had been added to owing to the fact that James Stitt, one of the parties accused of burn ing the barn, had hung himself the week before, and many who believed him innocent, after this action, joined in with popular prejudice and were inclined to believe him guilty. A Mrs. Stitt, a cousin of his by mariage, also dropped dead when Constable McCallister went to sub poens her to appear at March court. Thus the greatest interest was taken in the case and we might say that it went to trial with the prejudice of the community against the defendants, we should say defendant, as James Stitt being dead, A Thos. Olinger was the only defendant in the case. After hearing a host of witnesses the evidence produced was of such be till next Monday. McCANDLESS' HEAVE CURE I have a Heave Cure that will cure any case of heaves in horses in forty days, used according to directions, and if it does not do what I claim for it, I will refund the amount paid and no charges will be made for the treatment. The following testimonials are the strongest proof of the medic.nes power to cure:

A. J. McCandless,
Butler, Pa., 1893.

MR. A. J. McCANDLESS:
On the 2nd day of April, 1892, I com menced to use your new cure for one of my rorses that had the heaves very bad, and continued to use the medicine for ab at forty days and the horse did not sh wany signs of erstum of them. It is now about a year since I quit given the madicine and the horse has never sowed any signs of heaves, and I feel stisfied the the is properly cured. MR. A. J. MCCANDLESS: an 7 signs of heaves, and thit he is properly cured.
