managers of the Republican can ced a deep sense of relief hen they read Judge Parker's speech of acceptance. There appears to have been something of a jubilee at the White House among President Roosevelt and personal friends. Judge Parker ha been an unknown quantity, and since he broke silence by his gold standard telegram there has been some uneasi er he had a reserve force whose mani tions would give the campaign a acter yet to be disclosed. The sch of acceptance has ended all such rehensions. Judge Parker's capacity initiative statesmanship was evident-completely exhausted when he wed his courage up to the point of ing that telegram. In this age we are coming more and e to require an enlarged amount of dge on the part of those who unessional work of any kind. Not only lawyers and physicians must states even barbers, must pass scrutiny before they are permitted to ply their calling. This is entirely proper. We have not yet reached anything like an advanced stage of knowledge concerning human life and disease, but we are beginning to understand how little we know and how necessary it is to compel those who attempt to treat the sick to ome as proficient as possible. For a sands of years the credulity of mankind has been played upon by those who have had a certain amount of personal magnetism and little skill.—Ex.
