TEXAS CROPS AND WEATHER.

Mr. Simmons and his two children live in a small house in the city. They have a good supply of other things.

Mr. Rose, a farmer near Whittier, has a sweet potato raised by him that weighed seven pounds. The weather has made Guntown in Stephens county, lower than any other place in the state. The cotton in Guntown is about the same as in other parts of the state. The average is larger than in any other part of the state.

Mr. Rose says that a much larger crop of sweet potatoes is being raised in this county than in any other part of the state. The weather is an aid in securing a good crop of sweet potatoes.

Mr. Rose has had constructed, recently, a large house in the town of Guntown. The house is the largest of the kind in the town of Guntown.

COTTON OUTLOOK.

Atwood, Violet & Co. Think the Market will Show Lower Prices.

Special to the Gazette.
NEW ORLEANS, LA., Nov. 9.—Atwood, Violet & Co. say:

Futures.—General rain in the Mississippi valley to-day had its effect in this market and New York, advancing prices about 5 to 6 points both here and there, but as soon as orders were filled the market was nothing further to give support and prices again weakened.

The expected receipts to-morrow have doubtless had something to do with it, being estimated at 45,000 bales. Port receipts to-day are 25,000 bales against 26,000 bales last year. Memphis and St. Louis show no decline in the movement as compared to last week and weeks in both places are increasing. Taking that as a basis for the total interior for the week, it looks as though we would have another large movement.

The movement between this market and Liverpool, to be on a shipping basis, is entirely against exports at present prices here, as we are 35 points high. We mention all these adverse circumstances as a part of the daily record of our impressions. The market must get to a price at which it will be cheap actually, and we are watching everything closely, hoping to give simple notice to those whom we can reach through this medium.

The New Orleans cotton exchange has unusual facilities for making comparisons in regard to the movement with past years. There is no other market that has anything like the information possessed here, and we propose continuing these comparisons, as we think them valuable to everybody whether bear or bull.

Liverpool improved to-day less than expected and but for the rain to-day New York and this market would have declined.

Liverpool closed at 4-40 advance from Saturday with spot sales 8000 bales. We ask the question if it is not reasonable to suggest that the holders of stock everywhere must get relief before any permanent improvement can be sustained. To-morrow the government report will be issued but it will be confined mainly to giving the average number of pounds of lint cotton per acre and will doubtless enable any one to make a 7,500,000 or 8,500,000 crop out of it. We say this, as last year the report for this month was very confusing. Unless there should be something very bullish in the report we feel that the market must go lower, perhaps considerably. We may be mistaken, of course, like anybody else, but the situation impresses us very much that way.

Spots closed steady. Sales 8000 bales. Quotations unchanged.
F. o. b., 2100 bales.

Interior not so much disposed to meet port prices, in consequence of which the spot offers greater inducements for the moment. Demand is chiefly for Liverpool good middling. The higher grades are becoming scarce.

Fatal Accident at Waco.
Special to the Gazette.

WACO, TEX., Nov. 9.—At 4 o'clock this afternoon C. U. Barton, a carpenter, aged sixty-four years, fell from a scaffolding while walking backward, sustaining injuries on the head which proved fatal to-night. Mr. Barton is the father of T. B. Barton of this city, a prominent contractor and builder. The old gentleman, although aged, was a steady workman, and actively engaged in his work when the accident happened.

SOUTHERN DEVELOPMENT.

The Growth of Southern Shipping Cities to Supplement the Building of Manufacturing Centers.

The Manufacturers' Record of Baltimore of November 7, in reviewing the industrial progress of the South, says:

"The general business situation throughout the South shows no material change, industrial interests continuing to make satisfactory progress. The movement of cotton is still very heavy and foreign shipments active. The indications show a very decided tendency of Western produce to seek outlets to foreign markets through South Atlantic and Gulf ports, and railroads and shipping lines are being created at other points where good harbors can be created at a moderate cost. The development of a larger trade with the West Indies and South America and the construction of the Nicaragua canal will both prove of enormous value to the South by furnishing new markets for Southern agricultural and manufactured products, and by making Southern ports great shipping and trading centers. In every direction evidences are accumulating of the solid growth of Southern business interests of all kinds, and the outlook is very bright.

During the past week the organization of new industrial enterprises has gone on steadily, and among the leading ones reported in this week's issue of the Manufacturers' Record are: Proved iron and steel works to cost $2,000,000 at San Antonio, Tex., to use the Bessemer ores of Liano, and while this has not been consummated yet, negotiations for it are pending; a $2,000,000 development company, Bridgeport, Ala.; $25,000 paper-box company, Richmond, Va.; $25,000 waterworks company, Giddings, Tex.; $100,000 manufacturing company, Covington, Ky.; $400,000 street-car company, Newport, Ky.; $100,000 furniture factory company, Frankfort, Ky.; $40,000 electric light and gas company, Taylor, Tex.; $30,000 grain elevator company, Troy, Mo.; saw-mill, Shenando, Va.; a $300,000 coal and fire-camp company, Hot Springs, Ark., etc. In North Carolina, where there is considerable nickel, there are rumors of a nickel steel-making company; at Greensboro, in the same state, the corner-stone has been laid for the first large modern furnace, and the first one built for coke, ever constructed in that state; the building of this furnace is an event of great importance to the two Carolinas, where high-grade Bessemer ores are found in abundance, the development of which will add immensely to the prosperity of both states."

JEWISH RELIEF.

The Hebrews in New Orleans are Opposed to Colonization.
Special to the Gazette.

NEW ORLEANS, LA., Nov. 9.—The Jews of this city held a meeting yesterday to consider some method of offering relief to the Jewish exiles from Russia.

It was resolved to hold a mass meeting at a later day to consider the matter further, and a committee was appointed to suggest what should be done.

The meeting expressed itself strongly opposed to the colonization idea and cited the Catabola colony of Russian Jews which had been founded in this state some years ago. One hundred and seventy-three Jews were established on a sickly island in the Catabola and more than $30,000 expended in the experiment, which has proved a failure. The opinion was expressed that other attempts at colonization would similarly fail.

What Was in His Coffee.
"Now, sir, I hope we shall have no difficulty in getting you to speak up," said the bartender, in a very loud, commanding voice.

"I hope not, sir," shouted the witness at the top of his lungs.

"How dare you speak to me in that way?" cried the lawyer.

"Because I can't speak no louder, sir," said the hostler.

"Have you been drinking?"

"Yes, sir."

"I should infer so from your conduct. What have you been drinking?"

"Coffee," hoarsely vociferated the knight of the stable.

"Something stronger than coffee, sir. You've been drinking. Don't look at me like that, sir," furiously. "Look at the jury, sir! Did you have something in your coffee, sir?"

"Yes, sir."

"What was it?"

"This man is no fool, my lord—he is worse!" stormed the counsel.

"Now, sir," turning to the witness, "look at me. What besides sugar did you take in your coffee this morning?"

The hostler collected his forces, drew a deep breath, and, in a voice that could have been heard half a mile away, belted out:

"A spume! A spume, an nothing else!"—London Tit-Bits.

A Modern Beau Brummell.
In the three rooms of an apartment in the district called, by a gigantic euphuism, Tenderloin, lives a Beau Brummell in rags. His white hair and thin mustache are dyed by a cheap chemical process; the soles of his shoes are undone; his clothes are threadbare. He puts in a cup of milk drops of oil from sardine boxes to obtain the sensation of an almond milk soup. He eats a raw sausage in the dark that he may imagine that it is a duck liver patty.

He borrows money, which the lenders know he will never repay, for his rent. But he is not miserable, for he wears in his scarf of satin, once white, a tea-carat diamond, which he bought forty years ago in London. He has suffered from cold and hunger, he has slept in abandoned lots and alleys, and he has never pawned, he will never sell, his diamond, which everybody takes for the glass stopper of a cologne bottle. He says that as long as he wears it the glory of his past life will be to him a reality.—New York Times.
