KEEP IN STEP.

"Those who walk together must keep in step." Ave! the world keeps moving forward

Like an army murching by: Heard you not that beavy footfall That resounded to the sky? Some bold spirits bear the banner-Souls of sweetness chant the song-Lips of energy and fervor

Make the timid-hearted strong! Like brave soldiers we march forward: If you linger or turn back You must look to get a justling While you stand upon the track.

My good neighbor, Master Standstill,

Gazes on it as it goes: Not quite sure but he is dreaming In his afternoon's repose! "Nothing good," he says, "can issue From this endless moving on, Ancient laws and institutions Are decaying or are gone; We are rushing on to ruin

With our mad new fangled ways." While he speaks, a thousand voices As the heart of one man say-Keep in step!

Gentle neighbor, will you join us, Orreturn to "good old ways?" Take again the tig-leaf apron Of old Adam's ancient days, Or become a hardy Briton-Beard the lion in his lair And lie down to dainty slumber Wrapped in skin of shaggy bear; Rear the but amid the forest, Skim the wave in light cance? Ahl I see you do not like it. Then, if these "old ways" won't do.

Keep in step!

Be assured, good Mr. Standstill, All-wise Providence designed Aspiration and progression For the yearning human mind: Generations left their blessings In the relics of their skill, For a greater giory still; And the shades of our forefathers Are not jealous of our deed, We but follow where they beeken, We but go where they do lead! Keep in step!

One detachment of our army May encamp upon the hill, While another in the valley May enjoy its own sweet-will, This may answer to one watch-word, That may echo to another; But in unity and concord They discern that each is brother! Breast to breast they're marching onward In a good new peaceful way, You'll be jostled if you hinder, So don't offer to let or stay -Keep in step!

1-8"A London letter of the 4th inst., in the New York Commercial, says:

The news from the Continent, during the week, from the attempt to murder the Emperor of Austria having fallen as harmless as was originally alleged, it has been followed by very dangerous symptoms, and that at times a fatal termination has been considered fatal, while upon the cerebral function the effects of the blow have been such as tolead to an apprehension that, even in case of recovery in other respects, some permanent mental alienation might be looked for. Dullness and heat are the prominent symptoms, and the most strict repose seems to have been enjoined. Temporary blindness was one of the effects that manifested themselves shortly after the attack. The most recent bulletins, however, intimate a general improvement; and as the telegraphic quotations from the money market show an increase of confidence, it may be presumed that up to the present time this tendency to convalescence has been maintained.

The culprit, Lebeny, from the time of his seizure, was subjected to heavy beatings, to induce him to confess if he had any accomplices. Although his examinations, however, were continued every hour without intermission, so as to deprive him of rest. and thus wear out all remains of physical power, he steadily asserted to the last that he had been alone, admitting, nevertheless, that his object was to avenge the wrongs of Hungary. It being found hopeless to obtain anything more from him, at the end of about a week he was hanged. The weather at the time was very cold and tempestaous, and the deadly paleness of the would-be murderer's features, coupled with a determined bearing as he was taken to the place of execution, are said to have produced a strong impression. The clergy allege that he died penitent for his crime.

THE SUIT OF THE COURT.—This is the third week of the Session of our Circuit Court, Judge Davidson presiding. On last Friday morning the great trial of the term was taken up. It was a suit brought by Miss Elizabeth Hall against William C. Fletcher for an alleged breach of a marriage contract. The novelty of the case, together with the circumstances connected with it, has given it unusual interest. The parties both reside in this city. The case has been ably conducted by able counsels, for four days; in a crowded house, Messrs, Martin, Ellis, Jones, Burton and Hancock appeared for the plaintiff, and Messrs, Ready, Keeble and Avent for the defendant. At the hour of going to press the last argument in the case is being made. We may be able in our next to give the verdict of the jury .- Murfreesboro News.

The Journal of Commerce says the most exaggerated and improbable stories have been circulated in regard to the calorie ship Ericsson, since her return from her southern trip :

A commonly received rumor (we are told) is to the effect that the cylinder-bottoms have burned out-a result which was predicted by some-and this is looked upon as explaining the silence and accounting for the fact of the Eriesson being at Williamsburgh. Others speak unreservedly of the "probable failure." It is not best to arrive at conclusion too hastily on any subject. As un lerstood by as, the main difficulty hitherto encountered has arisen from the want of a perfect connection of two sections of an air pipe, near the bottom of one of the cylinders. Though connected by rivets, the working of the engine prevented such a perfect union of the parts as to allow of the fullness of the power otherwise available. It is said that it has been determined to substitute a single easting for the defective parts, and that the difficulty will be obviated at once. This change is now being made, The other engine has been perfect throughout; and when both are complete, it is believed that the a gentleman handed to Mr. GEO P. WATKINS, the Ericsson will be in much better condition to prove gate-keeper at the first gate on the Nashville and her capabilities.

NASHVILLE, TENN.

SATURDAY MORNING, APRIL 2, 1853.

DEATH OF AN EDITOR.-We regret to learn from the last number of the Favetteville Observer that A. H. Berry, Esq., the senior editor of that paper, died on the 26th uit. Mr. BERRY had a very large circle of friends who admired him for his many manly qualities, and who mourn his loss as irreparable. During the past two years, Mr. Brany has rendered able service to the democratic party of the State through the columns of his paper, and we truly regret the dispensation of Providence which has closed his earthly labors. We hope he has found the rest of the good man beyond the valley and shadow of death.

The Observer will hereafter be conducted by Mr. WALLACE, the co-editor. Mr. W. is a gentleman of talents, and wields a ready pen in the good cause. We cannot doubt that the Observer will continue to be a valuable auxiliary to the party.

RAILROAD IRON.

We find the following short article in the Hartford Tones. It is on a subject of much practical interest at present, and shows, pretty conclusively, that railroadiron is destined to reach even a higher figure than it now commands. In 1847, there were about him 3000 miles of railway in actual course of construction; and yet, in consequence, railroad iron advanced in Great Britain, from $25 to $50 per ton. sion, involved in anarchy, and in imminent danger Now, according to this article, (and there can be no doubt of the correctness of the statement) over 20,-000 miles of railroad are in progress, and more in contemplation. If the same cause pro-luces a proportional effect now, it will be readily conceived that iron at present commands a moderate figure to what it will at no distant day. But we do not suppose that the effect will be in this ratio. It will be safe to say, however, that, in the next twelve months, railroad iron will advance in England to $80 per ton, a higher price than it now commands in the United States.

If the whig protective system was now the law of the land, railroad iron in this country would soon of April.' command $100 per ton. Such a price would indefinitely delay many important railroad enterprises. and thus would this favorite hobby of our opponents truly hang like an incubus over the general prosperity of the country. At the present price in this country, $70 per ton, the cost of the nake i rail at the manufactory is over $9,000 per mile. To this must be added the cost of clamps, transportation, &e., making the entire cost of the iron probably not | for the iniquitous sale of a great part of our terri- in the city papers. less than $10,000 per mile. But at the price to tory? What has it done with the revenue it has which our whig friends would soon raise it by the aid of their favorite system, the iron for every mile of railroad constructed would hereafter cost not less than $14,000. The country may truly rejoice, then, that it is under democratic rule:

THE ADVANCE IN THE PRICE OF IRON.-The sudden and great advance which has recently taken place in the price of railroad iron is a circumstance of unusual importance to the various interests of this country. In less than a year, the price of railroad iron in Great Britain-which is the principal seat of its manufacture and its controlling market-has ad-There is every reason to believe that it will continue to rise, and not stop short of £12 or £14 per ton. has been of much interest. It appears that so far | Six years ago, iron went up in much the same way, rising in a very brief period from £5 to £12 per ton. This advance then was produced, as it is now, by the projecting and constructing of a great number of railroads, with the essential difference that the mania at that period was confined chiefly to England, whereas it is diffused over many countries, raging most furiously in our own, and embracing a much vaster aggregate of projects.

The railroads in progress which produced the great advance in iron in 1847 did not exceed 3000 miles in aggregate length, though a much larger amount was projected, and afterwards partially abandoned. The investment of capital in these British railroads caused the most disastrous coumercial revulsion ever experienced in Great Britain. It ruined many hundreds of her richest merchants, and produced a long-continued prostration of every industrial interest from which it required years of patient labor and economy to recover.

From the best information accessible to the publie, it appears to be quite certain that there are now . in progress, and actual course of construction, in Europe and America, at least twenty thousand miles of iron railroad, besides a vast amount of projected railroads not yet begun, which we do not take into the account. Of this amount of railroad in progress, 5,000 belongs to Europe, and 14 000 at least to this country, exclusive of more than 1,000 more now constructing in Canada. We have seen a list made out of the railroads now under way in each State, which amounts in the aggregate to more than 13, 000 miles, and which list has understated rather than overstated the truth, for in this State alone it omits 60 miles of railroad in actual construction, and has made similar omissions as to other States. However incredible the aggregate may appear at first sight, it is impossible for the most careful scrutiny to make any deduction from it.

Railroads require at least one hundred miles of ron for a single track, and of the roeds in progress n Europe at least 4,000 miles will be a double track road. It follows from this that the railroads now in the course of construction in Europe and America will require for their completion no less than two million and four hundred thousand tons of iron. To make this quantity will occupy all the rolling mills in the world, which are engaged in the manufacture of railroad iron, at least six years-those of Great Britain furnishing three-fourths, and the United States, France, and Belgium the remaining fourth. The best authorities do not estimate the largest quantity of railroad iron made in any one year even as high as 400,000 tons, yet even at this rate it will take six years to furnish iron for the roads

The necessary consequence of this state of things is, that the price of railroad iron will not only keep up, but further advance, and be maintained at very high prices for a long time. This will make monufacture of railroad iron the best manufacturing business that can be undertaken in this country for some years, for it is affirmed on the best authority, that the article which is now selling at $70, with every prospect of advancing to at least $80 per ton, pays a fair profit to the maker at $50 per ton. The advance in iron will nearly double the cost of many of the railways at the west and south for the cost of grading upon some of them was less per mile than the cost of the iron, even before it advanced. The profit to a few of the companies which have secured their iron at low prices, will be very large. The English railroad companies are now compelled to pay $10 per ton more for their iron at home, than the price at which our railroad compa-nies were enabled to obtain it about a year ago, freight and duties included .- Hartford Times.

Interesting to Somebony .- A few weeks ago a Gallatin Turnpike, a $50 bill, thinking it a $10 bill and received the change. Mr. WATKINS has since $40 erroneously received; but does not know the name of the gentleman, or where he resides. He thinks he lives in Giles or Maury, and was going to and Cubbrets in them all. PROM THE N. O. PICAYUNE, OF MARCH 20TH. SANTA ANNA.

His Reply to the Invitation to Return to Mexico-Vengeance on Arista-Hostile to the United States. The Eco del Commercio of Vera Cruz, of the 5th inst, contains a remarkable document, being the report of Don Manuel M. Escobar; who was sent by the authorities of Vera Cruz to Carthegena on a mission to Santa Anna. Escobar was always a warm friend and political adherent of this chief, and the present publication may be considered the premonitory trumpet call to his friends and first anathema of his enemies. In the present crisis the riews presented and the tone of the document make it worthy of mature consideration. It is dated on board the steamer Dee, in the Harbor of Vera Cruz, on the 4th inst., and is addressed to the Governor and Legislature of Vera Cruz. Senor Ecobar states that he left Vera Cruz on the 5th of January, and arrived at Carthegena on the 1st day of February. He found Gen. Santa Anra osiding at Turbaco, five leagues from Carthegena. Here he had given prosperity to a half-ruined town, ebuilt the church, began a fine acadamized road to Carthegena, built new houses, turned the surrounding wilderness into a garden, and protected the people who blessed him as their benefactor. Seor Escobar found Santa Anna in his study, and after an exclamation of surprise at this unexpected visit, the General's first question was, "What happens in our republic? What say the Mexicans?"___ He then asked if it was true that another American invasion was threatened, to which Escobar replied that "The question of Tehnantepec would force Mexico to cede without fighting!" Senor Escobar states that he then went into a long account of the course of the Tehnantepec affair, of the administration of the Government, and such other subjects as present themselves when and the resolution of the Board of Directors in contwo personsmeet who love each other. He then inded to the General the letters and papers he had brought. The next morning Santa Anna said to

"Your coming has made me pass a very bad night. How have I been affected by this unhappy ituation of our beloved country, the victim of pasof losing her nationality. Unhappy Mexico! With-out revenue; owing a million and a half of back dividends on the English debt and unable to pay the last year's interest, or even the salaries of her officers; without an army, the frontiers abandoned and suffering the greatest disasters from the at- core regret on my part, and I shall ever remember our astacks of the savages; the frontier States under- socialation with feelings of sincerest pleasure. mined by traitors influenced and protected by Americans; all this tolerated for five years by inept leaders, who are traitors and only worthy of miversal execration. Lower California, too, threatened in such a manner that it may be invaded and overrun without resistance. Yucatan sustaining an Indian war in which it cannot triumph. Tehuantepec threatened and its military occupation by our natural enemies delayed until the coming month

Senor Escobar here puts a note to his report stating that on his arrival at Vera Cruz he had learn-"The question of Tehuanteper had been settled in tinged for two or three days, and finally Senor Escobar invited him to return to the Republic. Santa Anna spoke of his disinclination to leave the tranquil life he was leading, to enter the labyrinth opened to him in Mexico; of his vivid recollections temporaries; of his readiness to abandon his residence in Havana at the call of the nation, when his wounds were still unhealed; of his efforts to repel vanced from £5 or about $25 to £10 or $50 per ton. the invaders and save his country; of his great perwounded at Angostura; of his clothes pierced with balls in the Valley of Mexico; of the burning of his estate by the invaders; and of the infamous accusation against him by Gamboa which had been suffered to lie for five years upon the table of Conthough many of them had been with him and know | tendance. The Hall will also be open to-night at of his great labors.

"Words cannot define such conduct, and it indicates clearly what can be expected from such citizens. A society thus accustomed to the physical and moral assassination of the leaders in its war of independence, that does not respect an observing world, cannot be otherwise than in the unhappy condition of our country. God and man must condemn acts that are so rarely found in the civilized world. Does such a course encourage our young men to give their time and their best years to the benefit of their country, defying danger and forgeting all that is most dear and sweet in life, and abandon all for her safety? * * *

"Besides, it is impossible that I can return, and meet with screnity a set of men who have clevated | Mr. Shrave, states that the City Council of Louistory favorable to them; or him who has never been a good son, a good husband, a good friend, or a good citizen; men who have borne the filthy yoke imposed upon them, and remained impassive even when they saw that nothing was done to save our country from the aggressions projected by the new vandals of the North.

Know they that they will be absorbed by this modern Rome, without any resource but to bend the neck, if they do not change completely their course? Have they the presumption to suppose they will be saved without effort on their part, amid the disorders in which they lie, and when it would seem that patriotism has fled the land of the Hidalgos, of the Iturbides and Guerre-

"Shall I present myself on that scene when no government is possible? When the ties of obedience are torn into shreds? When the wicked and vile-Arista has dissolved every social bond and driven morality and virtue into oblivion? Do they wish me to leave this sweet repose? That I shall again risk the term of life which Divine Providence concedes to me, mutilated as I am, to look upon such misfortune, with the wish, perhaps, to ave, but powerless to remedy because I may not find a loyal and effective co-operation, as occurred when I made front to the American invasion?"

Senor Escobar states that to these powerful truths he could at first reply only with silence, but that gaining courage, he told the General it was all true, but that those times were past, that the hatred to Arista was universal; that fortunately for Mexico there was a great majority of illustrious citizens that had taken no part in those affairs; that every one proclaimed him as the only liberator, and that his presence would cause anarchy to fly, and restrain the counsels of those who wished to convert Mexico

After two days deliberation in silence, Santa Anna told the messenger-That his heart could only be Mexican; that, notwithstanding the past, he wished to show to his compatriots how dear they were to him; that their misfortunes were his and he could never be indifferent to them; that looking at objects from a distance, their deformities were better seen; that he did not wish that history should one day say that he had been deaf to the call of his country when she honored him with a call to meet the common danger and that he had seen with indifference her fate; that he desired to end his days in the spot he had chosen as a residence for his family; that his only wish was to see his country happy, and that casting aside everything tending to detain him, he resigned himself to give the last proof of his patriotism, although history taught him to place no confidence in the passing enthusiasm of the masses. "I hold," he said, "that independence is the greatest of our blessing, and every good citizen should defend it with all his power, and I cannot be deaf to the voice of my countrymen, nor fail to appreciate the high honor they have conferred upon me in calling me to help them out of the labyrinth in which they are involved, and above all to save our nationality, now in such imminent peril from the rasping spirit of our neighbors and the indolence and treason of a few M-xicans. But if my hopes should not find encouragement equal to my desires, which never can be other than the weal and glory of our nation, I will return dis- T.T.
