A BULKY BIBLE.

Scriptures for the Blind Contain 19 Volumes Weighing 200 Pounds.
How would you like to study a Bible that weighed nearly 200 pounds, bound in 19 volumes which occupied over seven feet of the shelf space in your study? In case you become blind you will have no alternative and in addition to handling such a bulky edition of the Scriptures, you will have to read the message of God's Word with the tips of your fingers. For there isn't a drop of ink in the editions for the blind, the letters being represented by groups of dots embossed on very thick paper.
Two interesting processes of printing the Bible in raised type are in use at the publication plant of the American Bible society in the Bible house at Astor place in New York city. In one process, the paper to be embossed which is rather thick and very tough, is dipped in water, and then pressed between a brass plate suitably embossed and a rubber pad which permits the plate to make the corresponding indentations in the plastic paper, which is then hung on a rack to dry. The use of a common cylinder printing press for this purpose has been made possible by an ingenious invention of Christian H. Bremer, an employee of the American Bible society. In the other process, a special grade of paper is employed which does not require the preliminary wetting mentioned above.
Most printing for the blind utilizes but one side of the page. The society has a press, however (the only one of its kind in existence, a gift from the inventor, William B. Wait), which corrugates the paper so as to permit the use of both sides of the page by impressing the lines of dots along the raised portion of the corrugation on either side of the paper, thus greatly reducing the thickness and weight of the volume.
Special methods of binding the embossed type have also been developed and applied so as to maintain as permanently as possible the legibility of the raised symbols.—L. W. Barnard, in Christian Herald.

Settlement of Oklahoma.

After the acquisition by the federal government of the Indian claims, the territory of Oklahoma was thrown open to white settlers, the central part by proclamation of President Harrison on April 22, 1889, a large tract in 1891 and the Cherokee strip or outlet in the north in 1893. The territory was settled with extraordinary rapidity. Oklahoma was admitted to the Union November 16, 1907.

Ingenuous Insects.

When Para rubber trees are tapped, after the gum has run into receptacles and stiffened, a species of large black ant is accustomed to cut out pieces of the rubber and carry them away. Bees also find use for India rubber, and some species in South America actually cut the bark of trees that produce a resinous substance in order to cause a flow of the sap. The gum is employed by the bees as a ready-made wax for their nests.

LAID BY FOR THE WINTER

Housewives of Early New York Dissatisfied With Less Than a Six-Months' Supply.

The eleventh hour, or, rather, six o'clock rush to the delicatessen store that marks the approach of dinner in these days of frenzied housewifery would have seemed a strange madcap phenomenon to the good housewives of old New York. They would have felt ill provided should they have had less than six months' provisions in the larder.

According to the memory of one small boy of seventy-five years ago the thrifty Dutch folk who lived along the west side of what is now downtown New York laid in stores in October and November to last until April or May. They bought a quarter of beef, a hog or a sheep to furnish the pieces of resistance of the winter's meals. The beef was corned or smoked. The pork and mutton was similarly cured and put away. The smoking was done in public smoke houses, maintained for profit.

A barrel of flour, two or three of apples and potatoes added the vegetable content to the menus. Other supplies to lend variety were laid by in lesser quantities. All sorts of farm products were purchasable in the fall at minimum prices, because at that time many sailing vessels and barges came down the river from upstate laden with stores. As winter and the closing of the river approached the farmers and merchants grew anxious to dispose of their stocks and the townfolk consequently bought at an advantage, which they were not slow to take.—New York Evening Sun.

CREED FOR EVERY AMERICAN

Undeniable "Good Thing" to Which All Citizens Should Subscribe and Pass Along.

Nearly every reader is familiar with the expression, "It's a good thing, pass it along." The other day attention was attracted by a "good thing" which is here passed along. It is a "financial creed" for every man, woman and child suggested by the savings directors of the 12 federal reserve districts. Read it carefully. It is as follows:

I believe in the United States of America.
My opportunity and hope depend upon her future.
I believe that her stability and progress rest upon the industry and thrift of her people.
Therefore, I will work hard and live simply.
I will spend less than I earn.
I will use my earnings with care.
I will save consistently.
I will invest thoughtfully.
To increase the financial strength of my country and myself, I will buy government securities.
I will hold above barter the obligations my country thus incurs.
I will do these things to insure the greatness of America's future.

Fish Nets, the First Lace.

Examine a piece of fine and costly lace. What is it fundamentally? It is a net. By origin it is a fish net. The first lacemaker was a fisherman, or perhaps his wife.
All of the beautiful laces we know today are developed from that clever invention, the fish net. They hark back, therefore, far into the prehistoric.

The first white men who came to America found no lacemakers on this continent, but they did find the Indians weaving fabrics of cotton, yucca and other fabrics, with elaborate pattern designs. They were particularly skillful at a certain sort of "draw-work."

The California Indians of today make cotton lace, but the art has been taught to them by white people. The pottery they make for sale is sometimes adorned with this lace.
Which suggests mention of the fact that the early Indians often decorated their pottery with textile patterns by impressing the latter upon the clay while soft.

Women Demand Grit.

If you have the grit you can command respect. The world doesn't want any fawning apologies. That may serve a purpose under some "weak sister" circumstances, but never under the greatest need. Some folks wonder why it is that "all the world loves a lover." The fact is a lover must have grit. Women want their heroes to be leaders, daring, irresistible. They want men who do things. They even like to be made do a few things they protest but enjoy just the same. Weaklings do not dare such audacity. They fear they will lose the maiden's smiles. As a matter of fact it's the daring and the assurance that wins. "Faint heart never won fair lady" we are told. Even in love-making you must have grit. And what's more the fellow that does not have grit doesn't deserve to win. Why should a woman waste herself on a molly-coddle? Be a man if you would win.—Grit.

Appeal to Snobbishness.

"That umbrella repairer has a flattering approach."
"What is it?"
"First asks the lady of the house if she has any golf clubs to mend."
—Louisville Courier-Journal.

The Answer.

"Why do they try so much hot air pressure on witnesses?"
"I suppose it is because they want to pump them."
Chinese girls are, it is said, to be taken to Europe to act as domestic servants.
