Fear made her a creature of the night, but her innocence and her faith made her the instrument of justice. It is a strong, pulsing story of a big city of today; of people you know—a triumph of right, a victory for good over evil.

Lightning Destroys Reed Buildings.
Austin Reed's farm buildings were destroyed by fire early Sunday morning after being struck by lightning, the bolt striking the west end of the cow stable and setting fire to the straw.

The community was awakened about 4.30 o'clock, a general alarm being given on the telephone that the Reed barn was afire.

Mr. Reed and son-in-law, Fred Cobb, were at the barn milking when the lightning struck. They thought the house was struck, but upon looking saw it was all right so went back and finished the milking. When they discovered that the barn floor was filled with smoke, they aroused the other members of the family, who gave the alarm while the men got busy to save the stock, which consisted of 12 cows and five calves, all of which had to be driven toward the fire which made progress slowly. All were turned loose, but the smoke filled the stable so rapidly that the men had to get out of the barn the best way they could to save their own lives.

Mr. Cobb was obliged to jump from the stable window, a distance of 12 feet or more, to the yard below. The grandson, Carroll Cobb, was so nearly prostrated by the smoke that he had to crawl on his hands and knees to locate the scuttle, which he opened, and went down head first. The light from the open scuttle attracted the attention of Mr. Reed, who also was looking for an opportunity to escape, so he went out that way.

Two calves also went down the scuttle, two were burned and one was burned so it had to be killed.

The barn fell about five minutes after the men escaped.

All the buildings were connected. The garage, which connected the horse barn and wood shed, was torn down and it was thought at one time the house was safe as the fire was under control.

Some of the people had started for home to do their own chores when it was discovered that the garret was filled with smoke and in a few minutes the house was in flames.

The larger part of the household goods were saved and all of the stock, except the two calves and 29 hens. The thrashing machine, manure spreader, ensilage cutter and grist mill were burned, also about 20 tons of hay.

The family consists of Mr. and Mrs. Austin Reed, their daughter and her husband, four grandchildren and a niece, Miss Stella Reed, who had made her home with them since a small child.

Mr. and Mrs. Reed had lived on the place more than 40 years.

Much sympathy is felt for them by their many friends and neighbors who so readily responded in their time of need.

The family has moved into the house on Leon Stocker's farm for the present.

WEST DOVER.

R. S. Carrier of the state highway department went down a 40-foot bank in the Smuggler Notch section on the Jefferson side of the mountain last Friday, in his Dodge car which rolled over once or twice. Mr. Carrier, who was alone, was shaken and bruised by the accident but managed to walk a mile and a half to the state camp. The accident was caused by some bad holes in the road following a rain storm. One wheel was broken as well as the wind shield and top.

Eugene Sargood, who was convicted in Bennington in 1903 of poisoning stock and of attempting to poison two of his neighbors in Arlington, and who served eight years in the Vermont prison, crossed the state line from New York yesterday and was placed under arrest. In December, 1919, he was convicted of assaulting a Bennington truck driver, was fined $800 and given a suspended sentence of two and one-half years. In January last he was convicted of violating the Vermont law in New York state, which broke his parole, and a warrant for his arrest has since been in possession of Sheriff Perry B. Gardner of Bennington county.

The residence of Hubbard McGowan, of Fair Haven Center, was entirely destroyed last night by fire which was discovered about midnight. The people in the house were awakened by the blaze and escaped only with their night clothes. Everything else in the house was burned. The residence was one of the finest in the village and was elaborately furnished. The origin of the fire is unknown, but it is thought that the blaze caught from the chimney to the fire place as last evening the fireplace was used for the first time in a long while. The property and furnishings was partly covered by insurance.

Ernest J. Hewitt of South Royalton, a feed merchant, filed a voluntary petition in bankruptcy in the United States court yesterday, placing his liabilities at $108,408.87 and assets at 4,034.43, of which $1,500 is household furniture, claimed exempt. John H. Hewitt of South Royalton holds a mortgage of $20,000 on the real estate, which has an estimated worth of the same amount, and is the only secured creditor. There is due him the sum of $25,330.06, while the next largest listed is the National White River bank of Bethel, which loaned $12,951.18 to the petitioner. There are no other Vermont creditors.

ANDOVER HEAD 20 YEARS.

Dr. Stearns Has Seen Academy Make Wonderful Strides.

ANDOVER, Mass., June 15.—Dr. Alfred E. Stearns tomorrow completes 20 years as the head of Phillips academy, Andover. Under his administration the oldest preparatory school in the country has made wonderful progress.

Dr. Stearns was elected ninth principal of the school, and it had in 1901 a small and inadequate equipment and a meagre endowment of barely $300,000. During Dr. Stearns' administration the academy has added immensely to its material resources, its endowment has enlarged nearly 10 times, its housing facilities have more than doubled and its efficiency has increased to a marked degree.

It has not been Dr. Stearns' policy to build up the largest American school. When he took charge there were approximately 400 students. Today there are a few short of 600. If all qualified applicants were accepted in any given year, the academy would have at least 2,000 enrolled.

In 20 years the school valuation had been increased from $250,000 to $1,720,000. The endowment, from $300,000 in 1902, had grown to $1,800,000 before the endowment fund campaign in 1917-18 was started. A country-wide drive, headed by Dr. Stearns, resulted in the
