UNVEILING OF A MONUMENT.

retary Wilson, arrived at 11:10. There also were in the party General Nelson A. Miles, his chief of staff, Colonel Milcher, General Joseph Wheeler, former Adjutant General Ruggles, who was colonel of the President's old regiment during the war, and the Marine Band.

The train was met at Quantico by a reception committee from Fredericksburg, consisting of Hon. Horace F. Crisman, Major T. P. Morris and Postmaster John M. Griffin, who accompanied the Presidential party to Fredericksburg, where they were turned over to the hospitalities of the local committee. The procession formed at the depot and headed by the Marine Band moved at once to the courthouse, where the public exercises were held, and an official welcome delivered by St. George R. Fitzhugh and the response was made by General Martin T. E. McMahon. The oration of the day was then delivered by General Daniel E. Sickles, who said in conclusion:

SOUTH'S DEVELOPMENT.
"Let us spend a few moments, before I leave you, in a glance at the South of the future. Let us assume that popular education and the systematic support of philanthropic, benevolent and educational undertakings shall have moved forward on lines not essentially different from those established in the North. In this direction, the recent educational convention at Hampton, in Virginia, is a notable incident. Popular education will quadruple the resources of the new South. The strength of the North is found in its schools for boys and girls of all races; they have created the most intelligent mass of workers in the world.

Educated labor is the most inspiring resource of the new South.

It will regenerate all her industries. It will double her untold reserve power. Let us assume that her demonstrated capacity for manufactures shall keep pace with her advance in that path during the last ten years. Let us assume that Southern agriculture, profiting by its recognized advantages of climate and soil, improved by scientific methods, and expanded by a widened range of products already visible, shall proceed in the ratio already gained since the employment of free labor began. Let us assume that Southern means of communication—roads, rivers, railways and harbors—shall be improved according to the requirements of her producing and trading. Let us assume that the surplus capital of the North, always seeking employment in profitable fields of investment, shall be drawn to the new South by awakened enterprises, pushed by Southern emulation of Northern success. Let us assume that your laboring population, no longer confined to the African race by tradition or prejudice, shall be doubled by emigration from Europe and Asia. With these reasonable assumptions, all of them justified by recent experience, nothing is hazarded in the declaration that the census of 1910-1920 will reveal to the world a new South, rivaling the North in all the elements of progress and power, and challenging competition in all channels of industrial progress—in education, commerce, manufactures, mining and agriculture."

MR. FITZHUGH'S ORATION.
Mr. Fitzhugh's oration was a striking piece of oratorical work. He paid the highest tribute to the Army of the Potomac and to their Confederate opponents, saying that to erase the names of the Spotsylvania battle-fields from the history of the American army would be to rob it of half its glory. The same blood shed on the Fredericksburg fields, he said, still flowed in the veins of the American soldiers. Wherever the American arms might be in the future, whether those who bore them were ex-Federals or ex-Confederates, or descendants of the two, they would stand shoulder to shoulder, and their record would be one that would take no lustre from the glory won by the Stars and Stripes on the bloody battle-fields of Virginia.

President McKinley and his cabinet officers applauded this sentiment heartily, and the speaker was lustily cheered by the audience which packed the house.

The exercises at the court house were followed by a luncheon served in the opera house to the members of the society, the ladies and invited guests.

After the reception at the Fitzhugh residence the Presidential party drove to the National Cemetery where the foundation of the Fifth Corps monument had been laid. On a grassy slope overlooking the valley of the Rappahannock the stars and stripes flew from a rustic flag pole. Opposite the President and General Butlerfield were the members of the Masonic Lodge under whose auspices the stone was to be laid, Fredericksburg Lodge, No. 4, of which George Washington was a member. The ceremonies were opened by the full Marine Band with "Nearer My God to Thee" in which all the audience joined. The corner stone was then laid by the President, and the ceremony was concluded by the singing of the national anthem.

Secretary Root in accepting made a touching reference to the heroism and sacrifice of both the Federal and Confederate soldiers who contested the field of Fredericksburg.

At the close of the ceremonies the Presidential party returned to Washington, but the re-union exercises of the Society of the Potomac were continued at night in the Opera House where addresses were made by a number of the veterans including General Joe Wheeler.

Troubles in China.

UNCLE SAM TELLS CHINA SHE MUST RESTORE ORDER AND SAFETY.

(By Telegraph to Virginian-Pilot.)

London, May 25.—A special dispatch from Shanghai says: Advice from Suichuan, province of Hu Peh, report that "Boxers" have destroyed two villages and massacred many converts of the French missionary stations. The General commanding at Shi' Nan Fu, it is added, sent a regiment to the scene of the disturbances. The soldiers were ambushed by the malecontents and lost twenty-six men killed. Reinforcements have been dispatched from I Chang.

UNCLE SAM STEPS IN.

Washington, May 25.—The United States Government has taken a hand in the suppression of the "Boxers," the famous Chinese secret society, which is engaged in the massacre of native Christians in China, and to which is attributed numerous outrages upon the foreign missionaries. United States Minister Conger has been instructed by the State Department to inform the Chinese Government that the Government of the United States expects it to properly and thoroughly stamp out this pest and to provide proper guarantee for the maintenance of peace and order and the protection of the life and property of Americans in China, and now threatened by the operations of the "Boxers."

PRICE, O'CORMICK FAILURE.

TOTAL INDEBTEDNESS NOT OVER $200,000.—ONLY ONE CLAIM FILED.

(By Telegraph to Virginian-Pilot.)

New York, May 25.—At the Cotton Exchange this afternoon, it was said the indebtedness there of Price, McCormick & Company is hardly likely to exceed $200,000. It was said also that the greater part of this sum had been placed on deposit for the Cotton Exchange creditors with the Farmers' Loan and Trust Company, the Colonial Trust Company and the Trust Company of America. This money was put up as extra margins before the failure. Just how great it is can only be conjectured. The opinion prevails on the Cotton Exchange that all the firm's contracts there will be settled satisfactorily. Cotton Exchange creditors have thirty days to file claims and only one small claim was filed against the fallen firm up to the close of today's business.

New York, May 25.—Following the extraordinary excitement in yesterday's cotton market more pacific times prevailed on the exchange today. There were no further failures, and accounts reaching the exchange regarding the outcome of the settlements of the Price, McCormick & Company accounts were of a reassuring character, although still leaving the trade in uncertainty. The interests of the firm being so vast and almost worldwide. There was a rally of 32 points on May contracts, which yesterday declined 78 points. The rest of the list recovered 6 and 21 points, with the market generally showing a gain of 3 and 22 points, including May. Trading continued to be sensationally heavy, with the Southerners calling on continued favorable crop accounts, while the operations of foreigners were heavy on both sides of the market, though they figured chiefly as buyers. The local contingent showed a disposition to even up their accounts for an unproductive view in a glance of re-entering the market on a large scale.

ATLANTIC CITY.

The death of Miss Elsie V. Nelson, daughter of Mrs. Mary E. and the late John V. Nelson, which occurred at the home of her mother, corner of Avenue B and Pool street, at 2 o'clock Thursday morning, after an illness of two weeks, has created a painful void among a large circle of friends and acquaintances in the community. The young lady was in the 15th year of her age, and was possessed of a sweet and gentle disposition that won for her the love and admiration of all who knew her. In her own home she was the joy and comfort of the entire household. The deceased was a member of Central Avenue Baptist Church, from which her funeral was held at 4 o'clock yesterday afternoon, in the presence of a large concourse of sorrowing friends and relatives. The services were conducted by the pastor, Rev. E. E. Dudley. The floral tributes were very handsome. The entertainment was in Elmwood Cemetery.

Despite the prevailing storm last night, a large and highly appreciative audience attended the entertainment given at Odd Fellows' Hall for the benefit of the Silver Cross Circle of the King's Daughters. A double program was presented, entitled the "Box of Monkeys," and the amusing drama, "Uncle Jack." The entire cast in both plays showed excellent training, and the entire performance was roundly applauded. It is the desire of those who witnessed the entertainment last night that it be repeated one evening next week.

Armor Plate Amendment.

(By Telegraph to the Virginian-Pilot.)
Washington, May 25.—The conference of the two houses on the naval appropriation bill today decided to report a disagreement on the armor plate amendment relating to the terms of Annapolis cadets and ocean and lake surveys. An agreement has been reached upon all other items of the bill, and a partial report probably will be made tomorrow.

Spring
Humors

It doesn't make any difference whether you believe in the modern theory and speak of the cause of diseases as referable to germs, microbes or bacilli, or whether you use the older and better understood terms of "humors" and "blood diseases"—Hood's Sarsaparilla cures them all JUST THE SAME. It cures those eruptions, boils and pimples which are so likely to appear in the Spring; cures scrofula diseases in their most tenacious forms; cures salt rheum or eczema and relieves the itching and burning; adapts itself equally well to, and also cures, dyspepsia and all stomach troubles due to generally weak condition and thin, anemic blood; cures nervous troubles, which, in nine cases out of ten, exist because the impure blood cannot supply proper nerve food; cures debility and that tired feeling, which just as surely indicate that the blood is lacking in vitality and the elements of health. This is not merely modern theory but it is solid, up-to-date fact. Hood's Sarsaparilla has had such remarkable success along these lines that it is not too much to say it is the best Spring Medicine, blood purifier, stomach and nerve tonic that money can buy.
