GOOD ADVICE FOR THE DRAFTED MEN IS AN EASY

Banquet Was Part of the But Her Choice of Words Farewell Ceremonies At Monongah.

An excellent program was carried out at Monongah on Saturday evening was before Mayor Bowen this morning in honor of the departure of the several young men who will enter the draft army. Dr. J. C. Broomfield was the orator for the evening. In his address Dr. Broomfield told the young men in a most emphatic way why the United States is fighting and what we are fighting for. He proved his statements by telling of actual incidents on the battle front. In conclusion he made it clear that one of Uncle Sam's nardest tasks is to control the young men now in the camps. As they go forward to fight they must first learn to control themseives

Following the address given by Dr. Broomfield an excellent program was carried out consisting of several appropriate musical selections. After the program the young men who were drafted marched into the banquet room followed by other friends and refreshments were served.

A forfeit of the state of the served was placed in the hands of Chief Harr and the woman was permitted to go.

Mrs. Grace Stokes Dies of Typhoid

Mrs. Grace Stokes, wife of Thoma Stokes, of South Brownsville, Pa., gen eral foreman of the Pennsylvania rail-road, died yesterday at Cook hospitai in this city wher she had been a patient for several weeks. Mrs. Stokes entered the hospital for treatment and later typhoid fever developed. The body was taken to McKeesport, Pa. this morning for interment. Mr. Stokes, A. R. white rat caused considerable delay in the making of a com-edy at the William Fox Studios in Hollywood, Cal., recently. The rat had been rented for a scene in one of the laugh-makers Hank Mann is making.

The rat took a sudden desire to see more of life in a motion picture studio so he scurried off the stage to the girl's dressing room. His presence was announced by one shriek after another. Soon the entire building was in an uproar. Girls came running to the stage in all kinds of undress.

While the disturbance was quieting down, Hank Mann was seen in a corner looking as if he were sick.

"What's the matter Hank? That rat didn't scare you?" he was asked. Hank glowly struggled to an upright position and replied: "No. But if I had a camera fixed on that bunch of shricking dames, I could have made Hipp Returns to Musical Comedy.

The Hippodrome is today staging what promises to be the best attraction presented so far this season. Carmelo's Musical Comedy Company has the unstinted praise of every manare quite a list of performers who en-joy wide popularity with the partons of the vaudeville houses on the big circuits. The opening bill is called, "The Beauty Bug," and introduces a captivating chorul and such artists as Theatre. daring of the knights of old, although he happened to be born in Texas in the twentieth century. While traveling with his chum, an English peer, an acident forces him to assume his friend's title valet and monocle and leads to a meeting with a girl whom he has worshiped from afar in Eng-land. He is obliged to court her under false pretense and the complica-tions growing out of this false situation culminate in a stirring fight with a burglar in which the true state of affairs is revealed and Richard restored to his rightful title as scion of a Texan family

Much of the action is pure comedy and for the most part very amusing although a few scenes seem unneces sarily dragged out for the obvous purpose of padding. The story is staged against a background of a fine old family estate with unlimited romantic spots for the sentimental scenes in the action. Alice Joyce the bewitching American girl and Harry Morey as the Texan (alias His Lordship) show a spontaenous ap-preciation of the humor in their respective roles. The cast as a whole is excellent.

Bessie Barriscale as Man-hater.

"Hater of Men", showing at the Princess today, is a clever little satri-cal comedy, which pokes fun at the type of woman who pretends to scorn the entire race of males. It has just enough of a serious purpose under its nonsense to give weight to the entire drama-a purpose which is emphasized by exceedingly apt and amusing lead-The character of the pretty, independent woman who holds em-phatic theories on the superiority of women to men, is drawn true to type and yet treated with a sort of good-humored sympathy. We first see our heorine as a young newspaper woman reporting a divorce case, which so confirms her opinion of the baseness of men that she promptly breaks her engagement with her own particular Billy—"not" she ex-plains, "because he is Billy but be-cause he is a man." Whereupon she launches out on an independent career in which she endeavors to be a "good fellow," but her domestic instincts are stronger than her desire for freedom and she is only too glad to welcome the patient Billy with open arms when a tactful friend affects a reconcilation.

Bessie Barriscale makes a charm ing and vehement little man-hater and Charles K. French is an amiable Billy.

MARY MURRIN'S BETTER HEALTH

Excellent Condition Grateful User Confirms Nerv-Worth Praise Giv en Year Ago.

In March, 1916, Nerv-Worth ads contained the following remarkable signed endorsement:

"I have been sick two years. Doo tored considerable, taken lots of medicine. I had pains in my chest that would keep me from doing my work. Coughed night and day and it was very distressing. Nervous headaches, dizzy spells all the time, bloated award the state of the sta fully, and the gases would smother me until I thought I would die.I was completely down and out when I got my little bit of work done. I did not rest at night and I was completely run down. I'm on my second bottle of Nerv-Worth. I began to get relief after the first week and firmly believe if I hadn't found Nerv-Worth I could not have lived. I think Nerv-Worth is the finest medicine I ever took, as it relieved by terrible suffering and I am certainly a friend of Nerv-Worth.
