TRUE-COLOR projection on the screen has made in the last few months marvelous progress as was demonstrated at the Dixie theatre this morning when R. R. Gilchrist, a representative of the Prisma company, gave a private showing of one of their recent releases. Black and white in various tones has been all the movie camera has been able to record thus far, practically all colored pictures shown having been tinted by a separate process. This delay in the completion of the picture, and the inaccuracy of the results obtained are all done away with in the Prisma process of film making, and the opinion of those who saw the film today is that the last great accomplishment in moving pictures is just about realized. The beautiful Catalina Islands off the coast of California was the subject, and it was very vividly presented on the screen. The flags on the vessels gave out a very good idea of how nearly exact the color reproduction was. The most interesting part of the reel was the undersea life off the islands. The pictures were taken through glass, of course, but the results were wonderfully nice. All kinds of fishes and strange water life were shown, and the colors were brought out perfectly. Just how much better the product will be later, is uncertain, but the present degree of success has been attained only through a long series of costly experiments. The finished product, as one would expect is much more costly than the black and white films costing about 87 cents per foot while the ordinary films cost only 5 cents per foot. Much interest has been aroused by the showing and the Woman's club is arranging for a special showing tomorrow at 12:45. Cards will not be issued but all members of the club will be admitted free.

Aeroplane Flight Big Feature.

"Buster Brown" furnished no end of fun last night at the first showing at the Hipp. It is really a four part show. Buster, Schultz the grocer, the policeman and the minister having all the work. Everyone knows there isn't any plot, it's all an unconnected series of happenings in which Buster Brown is the attraction because of his inordinate desire to raise Cain all the time. This part which is the life of the show is taken by Fern DeLacey, and she is a scream. It was her favorite character when she formerly was on the stage, and she seemingly has grown better all the while. Billy Malone was just right as the policeman, who found it easy to take a nibble of about everything in the store, and cap the climax by eating the evidence. Instead of drinking it, a little habit that is indulged in off the stage as well as on. Mr. Lamar, the new member of the company, had the extreme pleasure of playing storekeeper last night, and he is excellent. Russell Hendrick as the minister had a unique character that was responsible for oodles of fun. Whether the hymn books which leaked out of the express package ran up hill or not, there is no denying that the minister slipped down the stage steps in front, much to the delight of the audience, and the discomfort of the person who no doubt is applying Sloan's Liniment today to the spot where it will do the most good. Ruth Dale and Marie Kruger had the song numbers, the latter closing the number with a trio, Kruger, Day and Lamar, which was chock full of harmony, and went over well. The real feature of the evening was the aeroplane flight of little June Hendrick which took place immediately after the first show. The efficient stage corps at the Hipp had constructed a plane which was lowered from the wings, and the little aviator placed in it. The house was darkened and only a little flash light illuminated her pretty countenance as she sang "Mother O' Mine" while her aeroplane swung about over the footlights. Really it required a lot of nerve, but that seems to be the little star's middle name, and she got as much pleasure out of the performance as did a host of friends that were there expressly to see her. As the curtain came down, the applause was deafening, and it went up for the encore. Dick Grady declares he got so interested watching her he forgot to play, but that didn't make any difference, little June sang, unaccompanied in perfect pitch, and again got a good hand. She is going to make the flight again tonight, and Saturday night, and for the benefit of the little folks who will be at the matinee Saturday, she will give an exhibition.

Comedy at Dixie.

The Triangle five-reel special, "It's a Bear," featuring the popular film star, Taylor Holmes, at the Dixie, belongs to that clean comedy type which is always welcome and sometimes hard to find. Its character is principally Western, and what it lacks in the side-splitting quality is due to construction and directing. The work of the star is good—he gets away with the opportunities afforded him in a clean-cut, characteristic fashion. The story on which the picture is based lacks that substantiality which offers by way of situation, scope for comic incident. In following the narrative form of construction the picture has lost some of the "punch" which it should have had, but withal it contains a lot of comedy that will win many laughs.

Bill Hart in Stripes.
They have put Bill Hart in stripes running horizontally for his new Artcraft picture, "The Poppy Girl's Husband" which will be seen at the Nelson theatre today. Bill isn't averse to wearing stripes as long as it is only in pursuit of his art. Also, he does not mind sitting in a cell so long as he knows it is made of wood instead of steel.

He did hate to sacrifice his hair—but it had to be, and he went to the barber's cheerfully and had a close trim. Juanita Hansen, who is known far and wide for her excellent screen work, is leading woman. Capt. Walter Long, late of the U. S. army, has a fine role, and the others in the cast are all well known players.

The Barbary Coast affords a colorful background for the story—the underworld of San Francisco. Yet there
