John Robinson's Circus at Aberdeen, Wednesday, Nov. 9th.

The Atlanta Journal of Oct. 4th. 1910, says: Robinson's circus has been for three generations a household word in the South, and old John Robinson was a power in the amusement field long before the civil war. His mantle seems to have fallen on worthy shoulders. There were two performances given Monday-one in the afternoon and the other in the evening. Both well attended and both were highly pleasing. There is a wealth of novelties with the show and a berd of trained elephants such as only the Robinson circus carries. This circus owns this wonderful herd of flesh and their work is next to human. Trained dogs, horses and ponies, wonderful acrobats, a strong man that holds up an automobile loaded with people, pretty women, races that make the nerves tingle, and scores of other things that, when put together compose a program of varied amusements that astound and delight.
