The Montgomery local will leave New Orleans at 7:45 a. m. instead of 7:30 p. m., making a daylight run. The coast train will depart at 3:30 p. m., a quarter of an hour earlier than at present. The limited express will leave New Orleans at 7:40 p. m., instead of 8:25 p. m., and will carry through sleepers for New York, Cincinnati, Atlanta and Jacksonville.

Scranton Left.

The following from the Pascagoula Magnet is self-explanatory:
LOUISVILLE, Ky., May 24, 1892.
Martin Turnbull, Esq.,
Pascagoula, Miss.

Dear Sir:—Further referring to your favor of the 12th, inst., enclosing petition to extend the run of the coast trains to Scranton, beg to advise that the matter has received due consideration, the conclusion reached being that it will not be to the interest of this company to grant the request.—Regretting that it is inconsistent to do so, I beg to remain,

Yours very truly,
M. H. SMITH, President.

WAVELAND ECHOES.

The inward tide of summer visitors continues to rise.

Why don't you register, if you are a Democrat.

Mr. Campe has rented two of his houses for the summer.

Mr. Wm. Blake has put another row of piling in front of his place.

Mr. Lucas E. Moore will soon depart for England to join his wife and two sons.

Mr. R. E. Craig and his son and Miss Josie Craig spent a few days at their summer home.

Waveland is putting her shell road in first-class condition for the summer. Waveland, like Bay St. Louis, has a splendid road.

Mr. J. J. Barr and family are over for the summer at their lovely home.

Mr. H. Schafer arrived this week to spend the summer at their beautiful place.

The people of Ulmanville are complaining about the depot which is in a very unclean condition. It is not fit to sit in while waiting. The people are in hopes that its condition will be attended to.

ADDITIONAL LOCALS.

Always advertise in THE ECHO.

—Have your job printing done at home.—The Board of Mayor and Aldermen meet to-day.

—Job printing done at this office.

—On Tuesday the cannons, ammunition, etc., of dis-banded Bay St. Louis Militia was forwarded to the State headquarters at Jackson.

—Miss Anna Giffney has returned to New Orleans after a delightful visit of two months to Mrs. Sexton, at the Mulberry cottage.

—The Forsythe family, who have rented Dr. Logan's place in Waveland have not yet arrived, but will be over in a short while.

—The crowning of the Blessed Virgin at the Catholic church Tuesday evening was a beautiful exercise and the attendance exceedingly large.

—Mrs. J. J. Foster and mother Mrs. J. Connor, two highly esteemed and pleasant New Orleans ladies, spent Wednesday with the editor's folks.

—Master Edmund D. Ennis seems never to get tired of hustling and doing plenty business. With his enterprise, geniality and shrewdness he is bound to succeed.

—Mr. Howard Sylvester, son of Judge Sylvester, was married on Wednesday evening June 1, 1892, to Miss Cornelia Colley, of Waveland. Mr. Sylvester and bride have the best wishes of the writer.

—On Wednesday the college boys were made to enjoy a day that they will long remember. The steamer St. Peter took them up to Holly Grove, 20 miles from the Bay, and enjoyed the day picnicking.

—Col. Stockdale, who is said to be a candidate for re-election to Congress, was a visitor to this city Tuesday. As the Congressional aspirant did not visit this office, from that we are led to judge that he does not care for THE ECHO's support.

—Among the many pleasant and charming people already here for the summer are Mr. and Mrs. A. L. Cazes, Mr. and Mrs. P. A. Theviet, Misses Lidie, Lea and Aline Lopez-Silva, of New Orleans. They are occupying the Gardebled cottage on Main street.

—Another brass band has been organized in this fast growing city. The band has received several names, but from the last account we are informed that it will be known as the Wenona Brass Band.

—On the 25th, instant, there will be a garden party and festival for their benefit.

—On Saturday last a dispatch to this city announced that the Governor had pardoned Victor Laffagne, who was charged with robbery and sentenced to the State penitentiary some months ago. The petition for his release was made on the ground that he was beastly drunk at the time and did not know what he was doing.

The Shad Fish.

BY J. J. D.

The many queries propounded to me as to shad, their habits, growth, etc., can be best answered by condensed extracts from the articles by Marshall McDonald, now United States fish commissioner, published in volume 1 of the "Fisheries and Fishing Industries of the United States," A. D., 1887. Extracts verbatim: "The shad usually make their first appearance in the Delaware about the middle of March. In early seasons, however, they are occasionally taken in February."

"There is some reason for believing that, like some migrating birds, they return annually to the part of the river in which they were bred."

"There is a scattering run from the middle of March to the middle of April. These are for the most part small in size and not remarkable for flavor. From this period to the twenty-fifth of April occurs the great run, and this is felt at each successive fishery for nearly a week if no storm occurs to drive them into deep water."

"This run generally continues until the first of May, after which period the successive shoals which enter the river are small and scattered until the termination of the season, which is usually about the twentieth of June."

"The final cause of their annual visit is doubtless to suitable place for the deposit of their eggs."

"After having spawned, the old fish soon disappear."

"The young fish remain in the river until autumn, by which time they have attained the size of small herrings, when they in turn disappear."

"The destination of these fish, after they quit the fresh water, is unknown."

"Their term of life cannot be ascertained, but it is fair to infer that they attain their growth in a year, from the size the young attain in our waters, as well from the general uniformity of size observed in each of several runs. Their average weight may be about seven pounds, but individuals are occasionally caught which weigh as high as twelve and even thirteen pounds."

To the above I add the following from other reports about Florida shad: "The St. John's river shad are not so large as those of the Connecticut, the average weight being three to three and a half pounds. In 1874 I was told that they sometimes weighed six pounds; in 1875 they never exceeded five."

"The first shad was taken November 20, 1877, and they were in market some numbers at Thanksgiving. December 15 shad fishing was at its height. April 15 shad fish was still in fine condition."

"The spawning time is apparently from the middle of March to the latter part of April."

BAY ST. LOUIS.

The following is published by request. It has been written and published a number of years ago, but is still interesting and will be enjoyed by our outside readers:

"This is one of nature's chosen spots for rest and recreation, and is only fifty miles away from the heat and turmoil of New Orleans. It being the nearest of the coast resorts, families find it a convenient and most desirable place to sojourn through the heated term, and people come by the hundreds to enjoy our fish and oysters and salt water bathing from June until September every year.

The town is built around the Bay, extending to the lake, for miles along the beach, half hidden by stateliest pines and shadest oaks surrounding splendid residences. The shell road, the pride of our citizens, follows the water's edge for eight miles, making a drive unsurpassed on this of home, and it is "a thing of joy and beauty forever."

Many of our people who have lived here all their lives, underestimate the many natural advantages of our place, but others who have roamed the world over, tell us that its temperature and beauty are only equalled in southern France.

The agricultural interests of the surrounding country are being slowly developed; the vast supply of lumber being harvested first, that the orange and pecan tree may stand instead of our pine forests. Scuppernong grapes yield abundantly. When our hammock land is one green vineyard, our forest land shaded with the orange and pecan, our marshes filled with grazing cattle and sheep, this country will be one vast spot, fit for the envy of the gods.

A few leading minds, realizing this idea, and with an eye to future probabilities and possibilities, have made farms and established manufacturing in and around the town that will attract other undertakings and more capital, to bring about good to themselves and neighbors. Opening channels for independent self-sustenance in one of man's noblest missions on earth, and leads to green pastures of old age. We bless the hand, long crumpled into dust, that planted a tree that bears fruit, luscious to the taste, just so we admire the mind that conceives and undertakes a great work, whose fruits of industry reach into all futurity and blesses alike the giver and the receiver.

The waters of the Gulf and Bay end their tributaries yield continually a harvest of the finest varieties of food for the meat eaters, and the salt sea air is freighted with health and exhilaration, so that half the ills of life, arising from indigestion, are literally unknown in this charming nook.

All these and as many more attractions are what the coast, and especially Bay St. Louis, boasts of; if there's a doubt upon the subject, readers, pray come to our village and be convinced.

A Girl of the Age.

Here is a description of a specimen of this genus in Bay St. Louis.

While in New Orleans she went to the theatre and two parties in one evening, carried on three flirtations at each, and the next day refused three offers of marriage, accepted two and broke off three previous engagements, read THE ECHO and secured for it twenty new subscribers, read five novels, wrote eight love letters to Bay boys and one hundred invitation notes, played on the piano until a policeman was at the door, ate no breakfast but three dinners and supper enough for four, took a walk to the exposition grounds, bought and disposed five pounds of gum drops and three pounds of chewing gum, rode to the West End with one of her lovers and came back with another and was in time to catch the coast train and one of her lovers who paid her fare home.

—Miss Alice Isnardin, who has so many friends in the Bay and in New Orleans, is here for the season and has opened a boarding house, having rented the spacious and commodious building on the grounds of Dr. L. H. VonGohren's elegant residence.

WANTED—To rent a piano for the Summer season. For further particulars apply to Mrs. W. Adler, at "Waldmeier," he old Dugazon place.
