

Roundup Public Schools

Brief History Showing the Rapid Development of the PUBLIC SCHOOLS of ROUNDUP

DURING the spring of 1908 Roundup opened her first school in a one-room building where one teacher taught 26 pupils. This term continued for only three months. A four-room building was erected during the summer of the same year and school opened in November with two teachers and an enrollment of 100 pupils. In December, the following month, a third teacher was employed for the remainder of the school year. At the beginning of the school year in 1909 two more rooms were secured and three teachers added to the corps, making six teachers in all. There were 200 pupils enrolled during the year 1909-1910.

In 1910 the present eight-room building was begun, being completed in January of the following year, and occupied about the first of February, 1911. For the year 1910-1911 seven teachers were employed, besides the principal, and 250 pupils were enrolled. The present year, 1911-1912, has shown a marked increase over last year with an enrollment of almost 350 pupils and one additional teacher. The building is now crowded and plans are already being formulated for the completion of the building during the coming summer.

The high school has an enrollment of 30 and is doing very good work. There will be another high school teacher employed for the coming year and an increased enrollment is expected. The management is looking forward to making it a State Accredited high school during the coming year.

Another primary teacher will be employed for the ensuing year. Much interest is being manifested by the pupils throughout the school, as well as by the teachers, patrons, and Board of trustees. The outlook for the Roundup public schools is quite promising and bids fair to continue to hold its own as one of the most promising institutions of the "Miracle of the Musselshell."

SCHOOL NOTES

Manual training has been started in the primary and intermediate grades in the form of basket weaving and cap making. Educators all over the country are advocating more and more a thorough system of manual training. The idea of this system is to train the hands as well as the mind, to make the pupils' education more practicable and applicable to his every day life. Nearly all the city schools have their work shops, beginning with the primary where they make many things that surprise the observer. The little tots show skill in their baskets, raffia, parashols, doll houses, etc. Through the grades the work is made more difficult. They learn to weave more intricate designs, learn the uses of various tools and exhibit their simple carpentry with pride. At last the high school has its regular manual training department, with carpentry, wood carving, furniture making, brass craft and sewing and cooking for the girls. Directing the superabundant energy of growing boys and girls into useful channels, co-ordinating hand and brain. As yet but little of this work has been done in the Roundup schools owing to the lack of means and time. But on Patrons' day, those interested in the progress of the school will be more than pleased at the exhibits of various kinds of work in the primary room and the baskets, picture frames and relief maps in the Fourth grade room, thus showing the possibilities of this work in education.

On April 12 the high school will have charge of the program for the Literary club. Six high school boys will give "Pyramus and Thisby" from "A Midsummer Night's Dream" by Shakespeare. This little comedy is full of fun and the boys are working hard to make it worth while. The high school girls will give a farce in one act called "The Sweet Family," which will bring out many undreamed of talents in the performers. After the program all of the rooms will be open for the inspection of Patrons' day exhibits.

About 85 new books have arrived for the library and are being catalogued.

With only one more examination grades are making extra efforts for better work in order to make their grades.

RYEGATE

The people who pass through on the trains need not be very much open to criticism if they get the impression that Ryegate is the headquarters of all the farm implement companies doing business in the country. There are ten new rigs recently received in Ryegate and when these were unloaded from the train there was no thought given as to where these should be put, consequently, they were scattered all over town. Some bright mind later devised the scheme that they should all be transferred to the park and given honorable abode until such time as their owners headed them for the country where they are to figure prominently in the development of the Ryegate country.

The school board met Tuesday afternoon in the offices of Attorney Carothers and after several minor things were taken care of, bills allowed, etc., the sale of the bonds as advertised was taken up and the different bids compared. Before any decision on the part of the board was made, however, an injunction from the federal court at Helena was served on the members and the clerk of the board restraining them from further procedure in the matter. The injunction was given by the court to Keller Bros., of Denver, Col., who had previously purchased the bonds at private sale and which sale was called off by the board for the reason that County Attorney O'Neill instructed the county treasurer not to file the bonds hereby tying the matter up so that the bonds could not be delivered to Keller Bros. at Denver as per agreement. The board on Tuesday, in obedience of the injunction of the federal court could not do otherwise than adjourn their meeting to a future date or until such time as the papers setting forth the nature of the Kellers' case were received. These will probably be here in a day or two and then the board will be informed as to what course to pursue. In any event the district will receive the money for the bonds as there were a number of bids and in case the court injunction is dissolved the bonds will be sold to other parties.

LISTEN, YE LEAP YEAR LASSIES.

The lady out in Illinois was not the first one to set down a code of morals for the young girls who selected leap year to propose to her sons. There is a careful mother in Brooklyn, the widow of seven handsome daughters and eight handsome sons, who says she knows from experience what qualifications a woman should have to get married. Mrs. Rice is her name. She has married off all her daughters, although she admits it was no easy task. But the boys are all at home, most of them of marriageable age, because the girls to whom they have proposed, or who have proposed to them—this is leap year, you know—have not come up to ma's requirements. Now here are the momentous requirements:

No woman should ask or be asked to marry one who—
Smokes cigarettes.
Drinks.
Uses profane or vulgar language.
Reads naughty books.
Falls to go to church on Sunday.
Spends her evenings in dance halls or saloons.
Does not consider her mother or sisters.
Has no business prospects.
When these requirements were put up to a young lady of the footlights who had attracted the attention of the elder Rices, she replied to ma that what she wanted was not a daughter-in-law but a candidate for a deaf and dumb asylum.

FAMOUS COFFEE MAN DIES

New York, March 27.—John Arbuckle, the well known coffee man, died early today at his home in Brooklyn. He was 74 years old. Death was due to a general collapse caused by old age. The body will be taken to Pittsburg tomorrow for burial. Mr. Arbuckle leaves an estate of many millions. He first became a national figure as a coffee merchant. Later he took up the sugar business as a rival of the Sugar Refining Company. Of late years he has devoted much time and a great deal of money to the raising of sunken vessels by compressed air.

THE ADVANCE OF SCIENCE

Washington, March 28.—What the scientific world is doing in various lines is being shown in a remarkable exhibition that opened today in the National Museum, in connection with the annual meeting of the Washington Academy of Sciences. Specimens of scientific instruments from various departments of the federal government and from other institutions like the Carnegie Institution are on exhibit. The Weather Bureau, the Department of Agriculture and the War Department are also represented at the show.

THE COLONEL DOES SOME BOOSTING WHILE IN BUTTE

Butte Inter Mountain Contains Interview With Roundup Booster.
Butte Inter Mountain: Col. E. J. Crull of Roundup is in Butte today on his way home from Helena, where he attended the meeting of the republican state central committee at which he represented the party in Musselshell county. Colonel Crull is a pioneer of Roundup and one of its best known lawyers. In his opinion the outlook for the entire Musselshell country is particularly good this year.

"Already new settlers are beginning to come in, many of them being attracted by the Northern Pacific lands, which were put on sale last year," he said today. "The outlook for the farmers of our section is particularly good. The mines tributary to Roundup have had a notable season, the production of coal being very much larger than last winter. Indeed, we think that operations will be extensive throughout the summer in this field. Business is good, and Roundup and the various towns in the Musselshell valley are growing rapidly. There will be a notable increase in the valuation of property in our county this year. Last year the total assessment exceeded $9,000,000, which was more than twice as large as the valuation of any previously formed new county in the state, I believe, and four times as large as that of not a few new counties. The county is making steady progress in every direction and in a few years we expect to have one of the richest sections of the state."

"As an evidence of the material growth of Roundup I may say that the city's postoffice will in July be made a second class office, its receipts for the year having exceeded $8,000. That limit was reached last week, and the rules of the department are that an office that exceeds that amount in the fiscal year becomes a second class office, with an increase in the salary of the postmaster and his assistant and the addition of a clerk to the office. That, we think, is a very good showing for a town that is only four years old."

SUMMONS—For Publication.
IN THE DISTRICT COURT OF THE Thirteenth Judicial District of the State of Montana in and for the County of Musselshell.
Inga Olson Sievertson, Plaintiff, vs. Andrew Sievertson, Defendant.
The State of Montana sends greetings to the above named defendant:

You are hereby summoned to answer the complaint in this action which is filed in the office of the clerk of this court, and to file your answer and serve a copy thereof upon the plaintiff's attorneys within twenty days after the service of this summons, exclusive of the day of service; and in case of your failure to appear or answer, judgment will be taken against you by default for the relief demanded in the complaint.

The said action is brought to dissolve the bonds of matrimony existing between the plaintiff and defendant, upon the grounds of desertion; also that plaintiff be allowed to resume her former name and that plaintiff be awarded costs of action, and such other and further relief as the court may deem meet and proper in the premises.

Witness my hand and the seal of said court this 29th day of March, 1912.

W. G. JARRETT, Clerk.

ANXIOUS FOR PEACE

Austria, With Troubles of Her Own, Would Like to See Peace Between Italy and Turkey.

Vienna, March 26.—Austria is particularly anxious that the Italo-Turkish war shall be brought to an end without delay. Trouble is appearing and with it is almost certain to come a renewal of the trouble in Albania and this may lead on to war throughout the Balkans. It is known here that a number of conferences have been held between the rulers of the Balkan states and that in all of them preparations are being made for trouble which it is feared may not be longer delayed. Italy at this time does not desire a war which will mean the division of European powers, nor in fact does any one of the great powers.

BOY SCOUTS ENTERTAINED.

The young ladies and girls of the Congregational Sunday school entertained both the senior and junior patrol of Boy Scouts last evening in the Congregational church from 8 to 9:30. The early part of the evening was spent in playing games and tricks after which refreshments were served consisting of sherbet, chocolate and wafers. About 40 were present.
