TIME FOR PEACE

An Italian military expert makes the estimate that the total number of men lost by all nations in the war is 9,950,000 and that the sum of $8,400,000,000 has been expended. He says further that a complete military victory for either side is not possible, but that nine or ten months more of war will exhaust the resources and the reserves of men of all the countries, and that Russia will suffer least from this exhaustion.

This expert's figures may be close to the truth or far from it. But it is certain that, whatever the actual loss thus far has been, it is enough. And the view that the only result that can come from a continuance of the war is mutual exhaustion is probably correct. It is hoped that there is sound basis for the growing expectation that peace is not far off. The horrors of war have lasted long enough.—Anacanda Standard.

INVESTIGATING AS TO TURTLE BAY

Washington, April 17.—"No report had been received late today from Commander Noble E. Irwin of the cruiser New Orleans, detailed by Admiral Howard of the Pacific fleet to investigate reports stating that Japanese warships had established a base in Turtle Bay, Lower California.

"I telegraphed Admiral Howard, said Secretary of the Navy Daniels today, "the substance of what the press had said concerning the Japanese warships and asked him to make a report. We did not tell him to do anything but to pay a visit of courtesy and report what he found."

Officials manifested great interest to learn exactly what the activities of Japanese vessels have been in Lower California. While believing nothing of a permanent character is being established by the Japanese, American naval officials have no doubt that the big warships have made rendezvous of the quiet waters of Turtle Bay while engaged in scouring the seas for German vessels. The bay, it was said, is large enough for them to anchor outside the three-mile territorial limit and still enjoy the protection of the jutting land.

The cruiser New Orleans was due at Turtle Bay today and a radio report is expected tomorrow.

TOO BROKE TO GO

The following is a contribution from our friend Joe, and is descriptive of that lonesome feeling that overtakes a man when he deserts the Treasure State for the effete East:

When you're longing for the hills,
For the mountains gray and white;
When your heart just brims and fills
With hunger for the sight
Of a peak whose jagged crest
Stabs the clear sky of the west—
Well, it hurts, it hurts to know,
That you're broke—too broke to go!
When your very lungs are keen
For a breath of Western air,
Blowin' cool and sharp and clean
From the snow-topped ranges there;
When your whole soul fairly cries
For the Western sun and skies,
Well, your eyes will mist and blur
When you're broke—too broke to stir.
Man, I'm fairly sick for home,
Sick to see the hills again,
(Craggy peaks as white as foam),
Sick for Western ways and men,
I'm so tired of bud and bloom,
I want barrenness—and room,
And it's hell, it's hell to know,
That I'm broke—too broke to go.

—Joe Thompson.

"JOE" AULD DIES

Death of Prominent Citizen Yesterday Afternoon—Funeral Services Tomorrow Afternoon.

Though the dread summons that was served upon our friend and neighbor yesterday had sent its messenger, ahead, the call was no less sudden, for in the gradual return to health and strength after the first warning, there grew, in his friends, the belief that there might be some mistake, and that sentence had not yet been written. But the Hand of Fate severs the thread of existence at the appointed time, and it is left for those who remain, to mourn for what they know not, nor can ever know, save by treading the same road themselves. Think as we may, no one of us can realize, that the man who shared with us all the doubts of this clouded existence yesterday morning, had, before sundown entered into the full understanding of our brief sojourn here upon earth. It is human to mourn for him; to miss him and to feel sorrow in our hearts because he is gone, but it is the indication of being more than human, to think and feel that all is well with him, as it will be with us, when the bony finger of Death beckons.

Joseph C. Auld, a much respected citizen of Miles City for the past thirteen years, and a resident of Montana for over thirty years, died at his home at 1417 Palmer street yesterday afternoon, following a sudden collapse on returning from a leisurely trip up town, meeting and greeting old friends who were in attendance at the stockmeeting. Depleted of strength and energy by an attack of paralysis that was experienced some weeks ago, he had been gradually regaining in these respects, and for some days past had been taking outdoor exercise. Yesterday as usual he came up town, but feeling that he was becoming tired he started for home in an auto, but failed rapidly on the short journey, and a short time after reaching his home he relapsed in unconsciousness from which condition he never rallied and died at 4:30. Early in the winter Mr. Auld was stricken with paralysis and it was only within a few weeks past that he has been able to come up town. The trip of yesterday was one of several that he has made since the weather grew more warm and his condition improved.

Joseph Auld was born in Boothby Harbor, Me., September 16, 1856, and was the son of John and Mary A. Auld of that place, who were of Revolutionary stock. Shortly after completing his school days, he went to Boston and secured a place as clerk in a wholesale boot and shoe store in that city, and was afterwards employed in the dry goods trade in the same city.

In the year 1878, he removed to Greenfield, Iowa, where he spent the next three years farming and early in 1882 he moved to Montana, which remained his home until his death. He located at Glendive, and for a time worked on a cattle ranch, homesteaded near Glendive and later went into the general mercantile business in Glendive with Douglas & Mead.

In 1886, Mr. Auld was elected county treasurer of Dawson county and re-elected serving six years in all. While in office he conducted a drug store which he purchased a year after his first election. He afterwards engaged in ranching for a time. In 1894 he was elected to the Fourth legislative assembly as joint representative of Custer and Dawson counties and two years hence was elected state senator from Dawson county. 1897 he resigned from this office, to accept an appointment on the United States mineral land commission, to examine lands within the Northern Pacific land grant, continuing in that capacity for four years.

After engaging in the coal business in Helena for two years, he removed to Forsyth and became cashier of the State bank of that place. In 1903 he was appointed receiver of the United States land office in this city and took up his residence here, serving as receiver for nearly nine years. Following his terms as receiver, he opened an office for real estate, insurance and land attorney business.

August 20, 1886, Mr. Auld was married to Miss Lillian A. Chapin of Kentucky, the daughter of Joshua L. and Fanny Low Chapin, natives of Massachusetts, who, with one son, Philip, survives him.

Among other surviving relatives are four sisters: Della, the wife of Charles P. Gilbert of Greenfield, Iowa; Sarah the widow of Freeman Hodgdon, of Boothby Harbor; Mary E., wife of Arthur L. Hayden, of Milrose, Massachusetts; Harriet W., wife of James B. Austin, of Pittsburg, Massachusetts. For thirty years "Joe" Auld was a resident of Montana and for much of that time was prominently identified with the growth of the state. His life was an active one and his activities made for him a wide circle of friends and acquaintances, not only in his own section but all over the state. His life as a public official and as a private citizen was an open one, and he was highly respected by friends and business associates. The news of his death yesterday was received with universal regret and he will be greatly missed in the business life of the community.

Funeral services will be held from the residence tomorrow at two o'clock. —Yellowstone Journal, April 22.
