HUNTED DOWN,

The news has reached town of the capture of Thomas Ormoud, better known as "Real," who has been warted for some time by Sheriff Downing.

Ever since the robbery of flarris' store on the 37th of January that daring crime has occupied the attention of Sheriff Downing and City Marshal Swemmy, Slowly but rirrely they gathered information until they had a full clue to the per-protector of the daring deed which at the time caused so much alarm.

When the proper time came Sheriff Downing and City Marshal Sweeney set out on the trail of the binglar. The earch was full of adventure, for the "Red" was an old hand and left little clue to his wherealouds. But Downing and Sweeney pursued him with the perstacency of slowth hourds. In the Missoula valley, through the Cour d'Alenes, and among the busy towns of the Pacific slope they followed the track of the fugitive, fluctling the trail at one plane and losing it at another. Finally by a sombination of circumstances they hanted down the game. On Sunday last Sheriff Downing arrested Ormond in Seattle and is now on his way here with him, City marshal Sweeney has already arrived in town. He was seen today by a Thiruxix reporter but is reticent on the affair, which will create a sensition when the prisoner is placed on trial. The city marshal says that he does not feel at liberty to give the debatis, but to all appearance he is well pleased with the reality of this long quest.

ance he is well pleased with the result of this long quest.

Mr. Harris is greatly gratified a the good news and says that Pa Sweeney has done brase work in un raveling the mysterious orline.

He says that Sweeney never let us isince the birginty occurred and deservement and credit for his pluck and skill.
