SAYS SILVER WILL REACH THE DOLLAR MARK

The producer of silver will find in the international silver agitation which prominent public men of this country are now stirring up, substantial grounds for hopes that the metal will be well worth handling in the near future.

A Washington dispatch, under date of December 25, contains the following, which may prove the foundation of an international agreement:

"The publication in Paris of Senator Teller's letter to Moreton Frewen, the English bimetalist, relative to the rate of exchange between American and European countries on one hand and Asia on the other, has served the purpose of calling attention to the fact that Frewen spent some time last winter and spring in Washington, urging upon both congress and cabinet the importance of recognition of the rapidly increasing divergence between the gold prices of the Occident and the silver prices of the Orient.

"He was given a courteous hearing. He was insistent in pointing out the fact that within the last decade there has been an unexampled rise in gold prices, especially in the United States, with an increase in wages and in the cost of living, while on the other hand the silver rupee, the money of 800,000,000 people in Asia, has remained stationary, with the consequence that there has been a marked falling off in exports to Asiatic countries, both from England and the United States.

"During the course of his stay in Washington, Mr. Frewen addressed a letter to Representative J. W. Weeks of Massachusetts, a member of the banking and currency commission of the house, and also of the present congressional monetary commission, in which he outlined his plans for an improvement in the exchange rate. In this letter he urged the adoption by the United States and Great Britain of what is known as the Goschen plan for the purchase of more silver.

"The Goschen plan originated with

Lord Goschen in 1891, when he was chancellor of the British exchequer in Lord Salisbury's government. He was a strong monometallist, but he suggested the establishment of a strong central gold reserve in Great Britain, to be composed of gold collected from the public by the issuance of small paper notes, to be redeemed in silver and to be made legal tender for only $10. The English silver advocates of the time prevented the adoption of the suggestion, but Mr. Frewen admits in his letter to Mr. Weeks that they were shortsighted in this course, and he now urgently presses the adoption of the plan, both in his country and in this. Mr. Frewen's letter was published in the Congressional Record, but at the time attracted no attention. In it he dwelt especially upon the advantages the adoption of the Goschen plan would be to the United States. In part, he said:

"The demand for silver to put behind the small notes would raise the price of silver bullion to $1 an ounce. The effect of this rise in silver would be magical. It would raise the exchange with silver-using Asia; it would thereby greatly impair the ability of Asia to export to Europe such products as wheat, cotton, rice, timber, etc., products which compete with your exports to Asia, which now languish with each fall in exchange—in other words, with each fall in the price of silver bullion.

"You are building the Panama canal, amongst other reasons, to assist your trade with the Orient. A rise of 30 cents in the price of silver bullion, while giving that profit to your mountain states, would; by raising the exchange with Asia, pay and probably many times over the entire cost of the canal."

"In his interview here, Mr. Frewen expressed the opinion that if the government of the United States would make the Goschen plan a basis for a proposal to the British government, the proposal would be accepted with alacrity, and perhaps by Germany also."

"It is probable that Mr. Frewen will be afforded an opportunity to outline his views before the monetary commission."

GOLDFIELD, Jan. 13.—The case against Louis Schloss, a prominent mining operator charged by Tex Rickard with having passed two worthless checks, was dismissed today upon preliminary hearing. NO MORE STATE AUDITOR.

Nevada is not to have a state auditor after the legislature meets, if the recommendation of the governor is carried out. It is reported on good authority that Governor Dickerson has expressed himself as being against the present measure and will ask to have the same repealed and a bill passed that will allow the governor of the state to employ an expert to audit the books of the state or the counties whenever in his opinion he considers the matter necessary. The office of state auditor is now vacant as the governor has never appointed a man to fill the position made vacant by the resignation of Lou Henderson of Elko.—Carson News.

TO TAX STOCKHOLDERS OF HARVESTER TRUST

CHICAGO, Jan. 13.—Circuit Judge Windes today ordered a writ of mandamus ordering the board of review to assess taxes and penalties of $7,000,000 against majority stockholders of the International Harvester company. The suit grew out of the alleged failure of the taxing body to fully assess the stock during the last few years.

ELKS' MINSTRELS TO CAUSE MUCH SIDESPLITTING

The Elks minstrels held a full rehearsal last evening in the Elks' club rooms and a few surprising stunts were witnessed. Every song, dance, monologue and joke on the program was rehearsed and even the ballet dance by Bert Gibbons was tried and declared a success. The antlered actors are showing some class and are leaving nothing undone that will help to make the show a howling success. One of the principal features on the program will be the Lalo Fuller dance, which is better known as the serpentine. This will be presented by four beautiful masculine maidens, attired in long flowing robes of silk. This is also known as the fire dance, but the name makes no difference and the dance will be on the boards with plenty of calcium and the beauties will be shaved for the occasion.

A HOT GAME OF BASKETBALL IS PROMISED

The players of the Tonopah Basketball club team are in no ways over-confident on account of their big score over the Goldfield Blue Diamond team last Saturday night and are practicing daily for the game Saturday night, when they meet the picked team that is coming over from Goldfield. The success of the Tonopah team is mostly due to the efficient coaching of R. S. Davidson and H. Stotesbury, who have both played on a number of eastern teams. The game furnishes numerous opportunities for trick plays and of these the boys have taken advantage and now have the game down to a science. The sport lovers of Tonopah will undoubtedly turn out in force to witness the game Saturday night at the Nevada theater, which will be the first contest with an outside aggregation which has taken place in this city. The price of admission has been placed at 50 cents, which includes skating before and after the game. Time will be called at 8:30 o'clock sharp.
