The Road Law Sustained.

excuse if the statement is not correct,

While we acknowledge the great importance of the financial department of our government, and its establishment upon a hard money basis, we still insist that the first work of the people is to rescue the government from the hands of those who have brought the financial trouble upon us. Indeed we can see no other means of escape from the difficulty; no other means of establishing any solid financial basis, than by taking all the affairs of government out of the hands of those who have proven themselves incapable of managing them, revolutionizing the whole system of finance and civil service, and organizing a new system of retrenchment and economy in the management of the affairs of government.

It is folly-madness-for the people to allow themselves to be duped and lulled into a delusive confidence in future prosperity and security to be evolved from the enunciation of selfevident axioms, of an equalization of the circulating mediums, without even a suggestion of a practical means of bringing about such equalization, continue to exceed the revenue.
