WILLIS GAYLORD CLARK'S "OCTOBER."

Solemn, yet beantiful to view,
Month of my heart, thou dawnest here.
With sear and faded leaves to strew
The Summer's melancholy bier;
The meaning of thy winds I hear,
As the red sunset dies afar,

And bars of purple cloud appear, Obscuring every western star.

Thou solemn month! I hear thy voice,
It tells my soul of other days,
When but to live was to rejoice,
When earth was lovely to my gaze.
O. visions bright; O. blessed hours;
Where are those living raptures now;
I ask my spirits evaried powers,
I ask my pale and fevered brow.

Alas I for Time, and Death and Care,
What gloom about our way they fling,
Like cloud's in autumu's gusly air,
The burlal pageant of the Spring.
The dreams that each succeeding year,
Seemed bathed in hues of living pride,
At last, like withered leaves appear,
And deap in darkness side by side
