New York Bond Market Dull

By Associated Press.

New York, Nov. 30.—The bond market opened dull and listless on the New York Stock Exchange to-day, the first full day of trading of any sort since the exchange was closed on July 30. Unusual interest was manifested among brokers who thought the two-hour session of Saturday did not afford a full test of conditions and feared there might be a general tendency to liquidate by foreign holders.

Nothing of this sort developed during the first quarter hour of trading. For a full minute after the opening the ticker remained silent. Five minutes after the opening gong only nine bonds, with a face value of $9,000, had been sold. The market appeared to be in a state of stagnation.

U. S. Steel 5s rose ½ to 99¾; Souther Pacific Convertible 4s and Distillers' Securities 5s were off ½s, selling at 80¾ and 55½, respectively. Westinghouse Convertibles declined 3½ points.

All fears of a flood of liquidation from abroad seemed to vanish within the first quarter of an hour. Indications were that the second day of restricted trading in bonds would be much like the first.

As the day progressed the bulk of

As the day progressed the bulk of the trading was in small lots, but occasionally twenty or thirty bonds changed hands in one transaction. Prices were irregular with a better inquiry for a limited number of industrials and specialities whose products have been in greater demand by reason of the war.

in greater demand by reason war.

Notable declines of the early session ranged from 3 to 7 points in Central Pacific 4s, Chicago, Rock Island and Pacific railway 5s, Oregon Short Line 6s and Lorillard 7s. Among the few advances interborough 4½s, Pennsylvania 3½s and Lackawanna Steel 5s.

Altogether 46 different issues were traded in up to noon. At that time sales approximated $550,000.

Coffee Exchange Reopens

Coffee Exchange Reopens
New York, Nov. 30.—The New York Coffee Exchange reopened to-day for unrestricted trading after having been dark for four months as the result of the European war situation.
Opening prices were 120 to 149 points below the closing bids of July 30, but they were also 7 to 14 points above the quotations made through the liquidating commiftee on Saturday. The above the quotations made through the liquidating committee on Saturday. The market's tone was steady and there was little coffee for sale. Offerings were readily absorbed by houses with European connections. It was evident that Europe was attracted to the local market by the low prices.

Sweeping the Seas With Their Wireless Between New York and Panama Canal

KEEPING CHECK ON ALL SHIPPING

English War Vessels Causing Great Inconvenience to Commercial Work of American Vessels, Say Wireless Operators of Ancon, at New York

New York, Nov. 30 .- At least twelve British warships are now patrolling the Atlantic between New York and the Panama Canal, sweeping the seas with their wireless, crowding ordinary commercial radios from the air, and keeping close check on all forms of shipping, according to wireless operators on the steamship Ancon, that arrived here to-day from Cristobal. The wireless activity of these war vessels, the operators said, is causing great inconvenience to the commercial work of American vessels as the high powered waves of the men-of-war are heard continually in utter disregard of commercial business.

"These warships," the Ancon's operators said, "pay no attention to laugh the rules governing wireless operations. With their high power apparatus they cut into the middle of a message and absolutely disregard all requests to keep out. We have no means of iden-tifying the ships as they use code ex-clusively—code that appears to be made up of a combination of numbers. We counted twelve different warship that jammed our wireless on the up.''

The Ancon brought from the canal The Ancon brought from the canal zone ten members of the Congressional committee on appropriations who have been making an official inspection of the great waterway. The party left New York on November 7, and on the outward trip, when about thirty miles out of Colon, they passed the British cruisers, Suffolk and Essex, taking coal from a naval callier. coal from a naval collier.

The Ancon had as steerage passen-gers a party of twenty-four United States soldiers, prisoners who were brought to the United States to serve western Galicia near the boundaries of Russia and Germany. An Italian correspondent at the front states that Cracow is now being bombarded by heavy Russian siege guns and that one of the suburbs is in flames. The capture of this fortress has been one of the main objectives has been one of the main objectives of Russia's campaign against Austria, on the theory that its fall, together with that of Przemysl now under stege, would mean Russian ascendancy in that part of Austria which lies to the north of the Carpathian mountains. Other than this report, there was little new information concerning the situation in the east. The main question, in the opinion of London, was whether the German army which struck at the Russian center would be able to extricate itself and fall back to the border without a disaster. The Russian army operating from Lodz is striking a heavy blow at the main German force, but it is probably that some time must elapse before this phase of the campaign in the east is brought to a close.

Opinions differ sharply as to the intentions of Germany concerning operations in the west. It is reported that Germany is about to embark on a new offensive movement; that the allies are about to assume the offensive, that the continuous of the carpathian of the discovery of the murder of the aged grandfather for which Smith has been indicted. When the court ruled out that part of the questioning, Mr. Weiss read from his individual legal brief what sounded like an appeallate court ruling

"came under the act of the Legislature of 1860."
"What case is that?" asked Judge McCarrell.

"it is no case. It is our conten-tion," said Mr. Weiss.

When Knights Were Bold When knights were clad in complete rmor from top to toe it was essential that they should bear some sign by which their followers could distinguish them in battle, and this was the functhe armount of the result of the result of their armorial bearings. Knights who omitted to wear their own arms ran considerable risk, and it is related that at the battle of Bannockburn the last of the De Clares owed his death to his omission to wear his bearings. He was slain unrecognized, whereas had he been known he would have been held prisoner for the ransom or a as hostage.

Pennsylvania Protective Union, which is said to have had charge of the primary and general campaign of Senator Penrose for re-election, to-day filed his report of receipts and expenditures in the State Department. It was expected that in view of the fact that Mr. Campion is likely to be called as a witness in the event of the United States Senate ordering an investigation of the money expended in Senator Penrose's behalf that the Campion account would present many interesting features, but such is hardly the case. His expenditures, beyond $5,000 given to the Republican State Committee, are all for ordinary expenses. He collected $47,679.95 and expended $47,067.72, leaving a balance of $612.23.

The largest contribution was $5,000 from Joseph R. Grundy, made up of separate contributions, including $1,800 from W Parke Moore and $2,500 from George W. Elkins. Other individual contributions of comparatively large sums were as follows: Worsted Spinners' Association, $1,000; Horace A. Beale, Jr., $1,000; John Piteairn, $2,000; W. P. Worth, $1,000; John Bromley & Son, $500; W. H. Folwell, $500; Joseph H. Bromley, $2,000; Harry B. Rosengarten, $500; Charlemagne Tower, $1,000; A. E. Burk, $500; Berks County League, $450; A.
