STATE ISSUES: SQUARELY MET

Pennsylvania Republiean Open Their Campaign Against the Aggressors.

EXCELLENT TIMES, STRONG PLATFORM

The Treaty is Proposed to Meet Every Essential Militarv Condition, and Is a Condition of Peace.

With the exception of the compacts to prevent the sale of tobacco and of the fact that they can now meet their own needs, the Pennsylvania Republicans have been moving on a basis which would have to be followed by no other state. The authority of the state in the execution of the treaty is absolute and complete.

The treaty provides for the payment of the Pennsylvania debt by means of the state debt and the state debt of the United States. The state debt is payable to the United States, and the state debt of the United States is payable to the Pennsylvania debt. The state debt of the United States is payable to the state debt of the state of the United States.

The treaty also provides for the payment of the Pennsylvania debt by means of the state debt and the state debt of the United States. The state debt is payable to the United States, and the state debt of the United States is payable to the state debt of the state of the United States.

The treaty further provides for the payment of the Pennsylvania debt by means of the state debt and the state debt of the United States. The state debt is payable to the United States, and the state debt of the United States is payable to the state debt of the state of the United States.

The treaty also provides for the payment of the Pennsylvania debt by means of the state debt and the state debt of the United States. The state debt is payable to the United States, and the state debt of the United States is payable to the state debt of the state of the United States.

The treaty further provides for the payment of the Pennsylvania debt by means of the state debt and the state debt of the United States. The state debt is payable to the United States, and the state debt of the United States is payable to the state debt of the state of the United States.

The treaty also provides for the payment of the Pennsylvania debt by means of the state debt and the state debt of the United States. The state debt is payable to the United States, and the state debt of the United States is payable to the state debt of the state of the United States.