

SILVER WEDDING HELD AT THE WHITE HOUSE

Social Event in Washington Is Most Brilliant.

Great Company of Notables Is Entertained by President and Mrs.
Taft—Handsome Gifts for Happy Couple.

The Taft silver wedding reception at the White House was unique in the annals of the national capital.

Twenty-five years ago William H.
Taft married Miss Helen Herron at her father's home in Cincinnati. Mr.
Taft was a young lawyer; Miss Herron had been a teacher. The celebration began in the morning with the arrival of a delegation from the Commercial club of Cincinnati, 350 strong, but the big event was the White House reception at night.

The illumination of the White House and grounds was the most elaborate ever attempted. The historic structure itself was outlined in streaks of fire, thousands of incandescent lamps glowing in the oaks and elms about the executive mansion, flooding the lawns with light, and searchlights on the roof of the state, war and navy buildings threw colored beams of light on the playing fountain directly in front of the great portecochere of the White House.

The White House conservatories were practically cleaned out and the interior of the White House decorated with wagon loads of cut flowers.
The shops of Washington had been swept clean of Japanese lanterns that, enclosing incandescent globes, were strung in a great square around the grounds just inside the iron fence that divided the guests from the interested public. Dozens of tables scattered here and there among the trees bore the bowls of punch and light refreshments. On the lawn the marine band played, and in the east room the engineers' band played.

The presents which had been sent to the president and Mrs. Taft form the most splendid collection of silver Washington has ever seen. They were banked in the red room of the White House and the pile grew higher and higher every hour. Some of these gifts have come from foreign countries, but the great majority of them were given by friends in Washington.

Those presents which were sent by organizations are particularly handsome. The tea set presented by the United States senate, the three dozen silver plates from the house of representatives, and the silver service from the United States supreme court are the first gifts ever made by these bodies to an individual, be he president or private citizen.

From Cincinnati came numerous gifts. The Commercial club of that city, which came in a body to attend the celebration, sent a gorgeous collection of silver. The people of Maryland have presented a silver punch bowl, tray and ladle, while many organizations have remembered the distinguished couple with gifts.
The members of the cabinet sent individual presents, as have many others in Washington intimately associated with the Taft administration.

The Philippine party of 1905, called "The Tafters," presented two solid silver Grecian ewers, twenty inches in height, and a solid silver waiter with the monograms of the president and Mrs. Taft marked "From the Tafters." The Washington correspondents sent a solid silver fruit dish and the Gridiron club a solid silver pitcher and waiter engraved with the mark of the dates 1886-1911.

The army officers in Washington who served with the president in the Philippines sent a unique silver piece.

The celebration began at noon when the president was entertained at the Chevy Chase club by the Commercial club of Cincinnati, composed of old-time friends of the Tafts.

The invitation list for the celebration was interesting. It included nearly 5,000 people, some of them from the Pacific coast. First of all, the president invited all the surviving members of the family of former presidents of the United States, beginning with Robert T. Lincoln, son of President Lincoln.

Then Mrs. Taft invited the class of Yale '78, of which the president is a member, and the members of the Skull and Bones society of Yale.

The members of the cabinet, of course, with their families were invited and all the members of congress and the congressional press galleries.
Other officials were included.

Prominent clergymen from all parts of the United States were included in the invitation list, the Republican national committeemen from all the states, members of the federal judiciary, and hundreds of personal friends scattered in every state of the union were bidden to come.

BURNS IS INDICTED

Indiana Grand Jurors Charge Him with Kidnaping McNamara.

At Indianapolis, Ind., Saturday Detective W. J. Burns and James Hossick, a city detective of Los Angeles, Cal., were indicted on charges of kidnaping John J. McNamara, secretary of the International Association of Bridge and Structural Iron Workers.

McNamara was indicted on charges of conspiracy to dynamite in connection with the Los Angeles Times building explosion.

LYNCHED AFTER QUARREL

Nebraska Ranchman Is Strung Up by Four Youths.

Charles Sellers, a young ranchman living near Cody, Neb., was taken from the home of Jack Hutch, a neighbor, with whom he was passing the night, and hanged to a telegraph post by four young men, sons of neighboring ranchmen.

Hutch attempted to defend Sellers, it is stated and was driven back at the point of a shotgun.

The lynching is alleged to have resulted from a quarrel between Sellers and a member of the quartet over a sister of another member of the party.
Sellers' body was left hanging to the pole until late in the day, when the sheriff and coroner arrived.

Following an inquest the sheriff arrested George and Alma Weed, Kenneth Murphy and Harry Heath, who were charged with the killing. The prisoners were rushed to Valentine in automobiles to prevent any attempt of their friends to rescue them from the officers.

KNOX BEFORE COMMITTEE

Secretary Throws No Light Upon Day Portrait Voucher Case.

Secretary Knox was before the house committee on expenditures in the state department. Secretary Knox testified concerning the so-called Day portrait case. He thereupon laid before the committee the long-lost voucher for $2,450 and other documents in the case that have mysteriously reappeared after having been missing for five years.

The documents submitted by Secretary Knox throw no definite light upon the final disposition of the $1, 600 that was paid out by the treasury on the voucher over and beyond the $850 charged by Albert Rosenthal, the Philadelphia artist, for painting the portrait of William R. Day, then secretary of state and now associate justice of the supreme court.

KING GIVES BIG FEAST

Royalty and American Envoy Guests at Dinner.

King George and Queen Mary were the hosts in London at a grand state dinner, the largest and most pretentious function of the sort ever held in England.

All the visiting princes and princesses and lesser members of the royal families, with the duke and duchess of Connaught and John Hays Hammond, personal representative of the president of the United States, were present. The dinner was one of the most notable events of the coronation fetes.

On all sides there is rejoicing over the festivities, but the general feeling is apparently not shared by James Keir Hardy, socialist and independent labor member of parliament. In an address to miners at Barnsby, he said:

"The workers ought to have sufficient self-respect to spit at the coronation procession and all its hollow mockeries. What will be seen in the coronation procession is not humanity, religion or industry, but the forces that oppress the common people. The workmen should see that kings, czars, emperors and all the unholy brood are put in their proper places."

TRAIN BANDITS ROB MAIL CAR IN OREGON

Shasta Limited Is Held Up by Two Desperadoes.

One of the Robbers Covers the Clerks While the Other Rips Open the Sacks and Ransacks
Their Contents.

The Shasta limited, which left Portland at 6 o'clock at night, was held up and the mail car robbed by two highwaymen at 11:15 p. m. between Drain and Yoncalla, Ore. The robbers entered the mail car, held up the clerks and looted the car. They stopped the train at Yoncalla and made their escape.

The mail clerks found themselves helpless before the weapons of the highwaymen. One held them covered while the other ripped open the mail sacks and ransacked their contents.
It is not known how much booty the desperadoes secured.

As the train neared Yoncalla one of the highwaymen pulled the emergency signal and the train stopped. The robbers then leaped from the mail car and disappeared down the village street. The conductor is positive that the men boarded the train at Drain, but whether they crawled on the roof or swung to the platform he could not say.

The first intimation the mail clerks had of the attack was when the door of the car swung suddenly open and they found themselves faced by the highwaymen. None attempted resistance as the intruders proceeded to the looting of the sacks.

The conductor and engineer of the train had no inkling of any trouble until the signal to stop at Yoncalla was sounded and the mail clerks raised the alarm.

Officers here and Sheriff George K.
Quine at Roseburg were notified and posses were immediately started in pursuit of the robbers. The mail car was the only one disturbed by the robbers. The passengers and train-men were not molested.

Both robbers are described as about five feet seven inches tall, smooth shaven and dressed in dark clothes.
They wore black hats; neither wore a mask. They were about twenty-eight years old. They were armed with automatic pistols and revolvers.

DARING ROBBER SHOT

Man Who Thought Chicago Robbers' Paradise Captured.

Revolver shots fired at a fugitive in Chicago Friday following a daring robbery at the Jackson Jewelry company store, 142-44 North State street, startled pedestrians at 3:30 a. m., dozens joining in the chase, which ended only after the thief had been shot in the leg and ran for more than a block, leaving a trail of blood and stolen jewelry behind him.

The prisoner gave the name of Bon-fact Moncuse and his age as twenty-one. He told the police that he had come from Denver only six hours before, and that after reading the newspapers he was convinced Chicago was a robbers' paradise.

According to the police, Moncuse was walking through State street when his attention was attracted by the jewelry in the windows of the Jackson company, and, picking up an iron standard he sent it crashing through a plate glass window, making a hole two feet in diameter.

Reaching in he took thirty band wedding rings from a tray and started on a run south on State street.

RULING HITS PACKERS

Judge Carpenter Denies Motion for Rehearing at Chicago.

Judge Carpenter at Chicago Monday denied the motion of the packers for a rehearing of their motion to quash the indictments against them.

"The motion for rehearing is denied."

In six words the judge brushed aside the latest plea of J. Ogden Armour and the other indicted packers.

The packers based their right to the rehearing on the ground that the criminal provisions of the Sherman act were not definite enough to warrant the return of indictments or prosecution for an alleged violation of its inhibitions. They also argued that the restraint alleged was "reasonable," and referred to the United States supreme court decisions in the Standard Oil and tobacco cases.

MORE POSTAL BANKS NAMED

Incomplete Reports Show $400,000 on Deposit in These Institutions.

Chicago Heights, Ill., is to have a postal savings bank. It is among the fifty postoffices designated to have a depository on July 13. Among the other offices selected are Granite City and Madison, Ill.; LaPorte and Whiting, Ind.; LeMars and Waverly, Ia., and Hancock and Ishpeming, Mich.

Incomplete reports received at the postoffice department indicate that on June 1 the deposits in postal saving banks in the ninety-three offices then in operation were approximately $400,- 000. This is regarded as a remarkable showing, in view of the fact that all the offices were in small towns.

Spoiled It All.

A farmer went to hear John Wesley preach. Wesley said he would take up three topics of thought. He was talking chiefly about money. His first was, "Get all you can." The farmer nudged a neighbor and said: "This is strange preaching. I never heard the like before. This is very good." Then Wesley discoursed on "Industry." "Activity," "Living to Purpose," and reached his second division, "Save all you can." The farmer became more excited. "Was there ever anything like this?" he said. Wesley denounced thriftlessness and waste, and he satirized the willful wickedness which lav-ishes in luxury, and the farmer rubbed his hands, and he thought, "All this I have been taught from my youth up," and what with getting and what with hoarding it seemed to him that "salvation" had come to his house. But Wesley advanced to his third head, which was "Give all you can." "Ah, dear, ah, dear," said the farmer; "he has gone and spoiled it all!"

A Deceptive Fish.

A naturalist who is familiar with Ceylon writes: "In the clear water of Colombo harbor it is not uncommon to see fallen and faded leaves of the jak tree floating a short distance below the surface or sinking slowly to the bottom. Certain small fish, commonly known as sea bats, mimic these leaves both in form and color in order to escape detection. Both in shape and color they look when in the water like waterlogged leaves, but when removed from their native element this resemblance is immediately lost. They float in the water half sideways and all swim in the same direction, turning simultaneously. On one occasion Mr. Willey attempted to capture one of these sea bats in a rock pool and directly he made a plunge with the hand net saw nothing except what he took to be a jak leaf slowly and inertly sink to the bottom. To his astonishment, as he withdrew the net the supposed leaf righted itself and darted away."

Calamities of Authors.

Homer was a beggar; Plautus turned a mill; Terence was a slave; Cervantes, the author of "Don Quixote," died of hunger; Bacon lived a life of meanness and distress; Raleigh died on the scaffold; Spenser, the charming, died in want; the death of Collins was through neglect, first causing mental derangement; Milton sold his copyright of "Paradise Lost" for £15; Dryden died in poverty and distress; Otway died prematurely and through hunger; Lee died in the gutter; Steele lived a life of perfect warfare with bailiffs; Gold-smith's "Vicar of Wakefield" was sold for a trifle to save him from the grip of law; Savage died in prison at Bristol, where he was confined for a debt of £8; Butler lived a life of penury and died poor; Chatterton, the child of genius and misfortune, destroyed himself.

Early Horse Race Prizes.

Prizes for winners of horse races hundreds of years ago took curious forms. The earliest was the "briglia d'or," or golden bridle. After this the prize in England was a bell. This idea was taken from the custom among owners of pack horses of decorating the best horse, which led the cavalcade, with a bell, so that on dark nights and in dangerous places the whereabouts of the leader might be known and the others follow boldly.
At Carlisle silver bells were raced for by the moss troopers and dalesmen, and specimens of these bells are still retained in the town hall.—St. James' Gazette.

GOOD WORK

Done Daily in Edgerton. Many Citizens Tell of It.

Nearly every reader has heard of Doan's Kidney Pills. Their good work in Edgerton still continues, and our citizens are constantly adding endorsement by public testimony. No better proof of merit can be had than the experience of neighbors and friends. Read this case.
John Koch of Edgerton, Wis., says—"I have taken Doan's Kidney Pills and my experience has proven that they are a valuable kidney medicine. Last spring I had a great deal of trouble with my back. I was so lame that I could hardly stoop and I noticed that my kidneys did not do their work as they should. I got a supply of Doan's Kidney Pills from Atwell's Drug Store and it did not take them long to relieve me. My kidneys are now in a normal condition and my back does not bother me." 47
