—A large crowd attended the meeting of the Congregational Men's club at the home of Mr. and Mrs. James Menhall last Friday evening. The address was given by Mr. Kleist, sales manager of the Continental Axle company, who chose for his topic "Ancient Religions and Modern Christianity." He introduced his talk by saying that he did not speak as a theologian or as an orator, but as a man who has traveled a weary road in a search and believed he had found it. As a young man he discovered that he could not adhere to the doctrines to which his parents gave allegiance. He went down the depths to atheism, but was still more unsatisfied. Through study and wide reading, the research of a man who wants to know, he has come to believe Christianity the final religion and the solution of our difficulties. Mr. Kleist reviewed the doctrines Buddhism and Confucianism and spoke briefly of the religion of pagan Rome. He pointed out that the Nirvana of the Buddhists and the "Heaven" of Confucius were in their essence thoroughly selfish, which is the exact opposite of essential Christianity. Mr. Kleist frankly confessed that he did not know how the numerous denominations were going to resolve their difficulties and admitted that he did not believe that the ritual and "trappings" of churches were able to make any one a Christian, but concluded as he began, by saying that because it taught Brotherhood and Universal Fraternity, therefore Christianity would endure. The address was received with absorbed attention and everyone was impressed with Mr. Kleist's sincerity, no less his study.

Obituary.

MRS. W. H. MORRISSEY.

Miss Delia Commons was born in Pittsfield, Mass., Aug. 19, 1856. When eight years of age she came west with her parents who settled near Edgerton. She received her education in the Edgerton public schools, and on Jan. 28, 1875, was married to W. H. Morrissey. Mr. and Mrs. Morrissey went to Colorado to live, staying for seven years, when they returned to Edgerton. They then built the house on West Fulton street where they resided until Oct. 22, 1919, when Mr. Morrissey died.

Mrs. Morrissey has been afflicted with a very severe type of rheumatism for 20 years and has been practically helpless for the past 10 years, yet she possessed a shrewd intellect to the last, was well read and could discuss all the questions of the day with an understanding which was astounding. Her quick wit, clever sallies and good humor could be excelled by none, and her genial disposition won for her a host of friends who were always glad to be in her presence. She made her home one of cheerfulness and kindness, all nature delighted her, flowers and birds being her particular hobbies. During her 20 years of suffering she was never known to complain, but bore her cross most bravely. Since Mr. Morrissey's death she has failed in health quite rapidly and when pneumonia developed last week her overtaxed strength could not battle the disease, so she lived only a few days.

Mrs. Morrissey died on Saturday, Jan. 17th, at 10 o'clock in the morning. Besides the wide circle of friends who will mourn her loss, she leaves five daughters—Mrs. P. H. Donovan, Albert Lea, Minn., Misses Mary and Rose Morrissey of Racine, Miss Alice Morrissey of Oshkosh, Miss Jessie Morrissey of this city, and one son, Henry Morrissey of Milwaukee. She also leaves three grandchildren, five sisters and two brothers.

The funeral was held at St. Joseph's church Monday morning at 10 o'clock, interment being made in St. Joseph's cemetery. The pallbearers were the Messrs. Henry Johnson, William Bradley, B. C. Willson, James Conway, Chas. Sweeney and Thos. Westlake.

Impressions of the feet

You can be mistaken in the friends you make, your head sometimes misleads you; in other words you are fooled; you get the wrong impression.

You can't fool your feet that way—you can try it but they will cry out; you cannot fool them or give them a wrong impression.

Fitting feet is our business in our shoe department; when you come here for shoes, we do not merely sell you a pair of shoes—we fit your feet.

As an instance of our fitting service we have a dark brown leather shoe, wide toe last, that we carry in 6 widths. That means we can show 6 different size 8 shoes; it means we can fit your feet.

Next time you want a pair of shoes come in and let us fit you to a pair, if we can't fit your foot, you can't buy shoes here, we're not selling shoes merely—we're fitting feet.
