

Hancock Department

CHARGES ARE NOT SUSTAINED

COUNCIL ADOPTS RESOLUTION COMPLETELY EXONERATING JAMES HOSKING OF MCGRATH CHARGES.

Street Commissioner James Hosking was last night completely exonerated by the common council, in executive session, of any wrongdoing as charged by Joseph McGrath. A resolution was unanimously passed, after the hearing of two witnesses summoned on behalf of McGrath, and five who appeared for Hosking, repudiating the charges referred to as follows:

"Resolved, That we, the council of the city of Hancock, acting as a committee on the whole this twenty-eighth day of June, to hear evidence in the case of Joseph McGrath vs. James T. Hosking, do not find evidence sufficiently well-founded to justify us in any further consideration of the case, and we therefore dismiss the claims and repudiate all charges made against said James T. Hosking."

WIRELESS OUTFIT HERE.

Apparatus Arrives for Yantic and Will Be Installed Soon.

The wireless telegraph equipment for the U. S. Ship Yantic of the Naval Reserves was received here yesterday and an expert electrician from the firm leasing the equipment to the navy department is expected to come here in the course of a few days to superintend its installation on the ship. The time when the expert will come is not known definitely to the ship's officers, but he may drop into town at any time. Should he come before Saturday it is likely that the wireless will be installed in time for it to be used on the three days' cruise beginning Saturday night, but it is not generally expected that it will be available so soon as soon as it is in readiness the proper officials will be familiarized with its operation and it will be made use of during the annual cruise of the Yantic in August.

RIDE TO EAGLE RIVER.

The members of the cast of the "Golden Rule" presented last April under the auspices of the Knights of Columbus, will be honored an automobile trip to Eagle River today by the entertainment committee of the lodge. The party will leave here at four o'clock this afternoon for Eagle River where a dinner will be enjoyed at the hotel.

HANCOCK BRIEFS.

Mrs. E. J. Leach and little son left yesterday for Reed City, for a visit with Mrs. Leach's parents.

Mrs. James Maney and family, of Duluth, are visiting at the home of Mrs. Maney's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Fitzgerald at Ripley.

The Hancock Lodge of Elks will this evening hold their final initiation and social session for the season. There will be a good lunch and one of the best entertainment programs of the year.

The Hancock members of the Order of the Eastern Star will hold a moonlight excursion to the canal on Friday evening. The steamer Uarda has been engaged for the trip and will leave the Close and Hodges dock at 7 o'clock.

A meeting of cities Post, Grand Army of the Republic, was held Tuesday night at the Scott hotel at which the question of accepting the invitation to participate in the Fourth of July celebration at Laurium was considered. The veterans have made other arrangements which will prevent their going to Laurium and the committee in charge of the celebration will be so advised.

TORCHLAKE

TORCH LAKE TOWNS ARE READY FOR THE FOURTH

PARADES, SPORTS AND PATRIOTIC EXERCISES PLANNED.

Novel Features to be Introduced in Lake Linden and Hubbell.

for Big Rapids where he will enter the Ferris Institute.

Leo Closs and sister, Miss Eva Closs, have gone to Ogdensburg, N. Y., where they will visit relatives.

Contractor Fred Lechare is building a new concrete block foundation beneath the residence of Henry Dullinger.

The Lake Linden band will give one of its popular open air concerts tomorrow evening, the weather permitting.

The wedding of Miss Louise Corriveau to Eugene Chaput was solemnized yesterday, Rev. Fr. N. J. Raymond officiating.

FRENCH BREACH OF PROMISE CASES RARE.

Breach of promise cases are rare in France, due, so it is explained, to the great expense incurred in bringing suit and the smallness of the amount of damages invariably awarded. The following case, therefore, while not unique, is of sufficient interest to have caused all the Paris papers to report the proceedings at some length.

The plaintiff, a good looking young woman, declared that she had been thrown over from one day to another by the defendant, a commercial traveler, and this after the banns had been published, the trousseau ordered, and all the usual preparations duly made.

Yet, argued her counsel, the defendant seemed to entertain the most tender affections for his client. Thus, on Dec. 1, he wrote: "Ma chere adored! I long to be living with you. I shall love you all my life!" Five days later, however, he addressed a last farewell to her in the following terms: "I have thought the matter well over, and I have given up the idea of marrying."

The defendant, who was in court, asked the lawyer to allow him to explain that he had been led to break off the match by something that his finance had said to him, and had simply acted as his conscience dictated, whereupon the plaintiff's council retorted that as he had such a tender conscience, he might as well give the real reason, adding: "You had, no doubt, also vowed eternal love to that particular woman."

"The case is heard," said the presiding magistrate, and then the judge read out the judgment deliberately and distinctly in serious tones:

"Considering that in ancient times marriage was based solely on love; considering that since those times Christian morals have subjected it to important evolution, and that in these days marriage is regarded as a financial contract to defend the two parties against possible escapades, as the real motive for marriage is money, the man being on the lookout for a dowry and the woman for a protector he is supposed to be more experienced in the management of her property."

"Considering that it is to be regretted that, owing to the new character of marriage, young couples do not get into the habit of drawing up a document at the time of their betrothal with a forfeit clause, as is customary with certain foreign legislations, like the American legislation."

And the judgment continued, since the defendant had not brought any proof that the plaintiff has expressed a wish which had led him to break off the match, and that the plaintiff had on her side sustained manifest loss, therefore, it concluded, "he is condemned to pay 20 cents for the moral prejudice and $7.50 for the material prejudice."

Lawyer C. D. Manville will apply to Justice Mills next week for a commission to take the testimony of Dr. Evans at the asylum, and thus hurry along the insanity proceedings so that Mrs. Harrington may recover the property of her husband.

Professor Harrington was a scientist of world-wide note. He succeeded General Gately, head of the weather bureau in Washington in 1891. He had been Professor of Astronomy in the University of Michigan prior to that for twelve years, and he was the editor of the American Meteorological Journal. In 1871 he was a government astronomer in the United States coast survey in Alaska, being then a young man of 23. He was director of the observatory at Peking in 1876, and introduced the first large telescope used in China. In 1888 he was professor of biological science in the Louisiana state university.

Prof. Harrington had been missing two years when he was found one day in a public park. No one knew him and he did not know himself. In the course of events he was committed to the Morris Plains (N. J.) asylum as John Doe. One day his son was a visitor to the asylum. This was several years after his commitment, and he heard the story of the strange patient there who seemed so intellectual and yet knew nothing of people or events.

He saw this man and was struck with his resemblance to his long-lost father. Returning home, he told his mother about it. She visited the asylum and identified her husband, who did not recognize her. This was three years ago. He has not known her since, nor has he recalled his own identity. It was not until now, when Mrs. Harrington wishes to recover his property, that the history of the missing professor became known to many of his friends and neighbors.

LYNCH FINES UMPIRE.

St. Louis, Mo., June 29.—President Lynch of the National League announced today that following an investigation and the taking of testimony concerning the blow Umpire Klein struck Manager Bresnahan of the St. Louis club at the close of last Friday's game in Cincinnati that he would fine the umpire $50. Bresnahan was complimented for not retaliating when he was hit.

MAY CAN WADDELL.

Louisville, Ky., June 28.—Announcement was made today by Manager Cantillon of the Minneapolis baseball team that unless Rube Waddell wins his next game or shows a decided form reversal he will be released outright or sold. Waddell has been in poor form all season.

CORRESPONDENCE.

DURING COURTSHIP.
Postal cards.
Short notes.
Letters.
Special deliveries.
Night letters.
Telegrams.

AFTER THE WEDDING.
Telephone.
Telegrams.
Night letters.
Special deliveries.
Letters.
Short notes.
Shorter notes.
Postal cards.

—Life.

LAYING CEMENT WALKS.

In compliance with the orders recently issued by the Hubbell council that number of property holders in that town are installing cement walks before their property. It is expected that others will take similar action in the near future. Where the cement walks are not built by the property holders, the council will direct the improvements and the cost of the same will be assessed against the property.

TORCH LAKE BREVITIES.

The steamer Flagg, Warner and Warriner are in port today with cargoes of coal.

Irving Vovey will leave tomorrow.

Species of Bees and Wasps.
About 4,000 species of wild bees are known, and of wasps, 1,100.

Sold Everywhere. In boxes 10c. and 25c.

Be Good to Yourself
and the world will be good to you.
The way is to keep your stomach,
liver, kidneys and bowels right.
And you'll find great help in
BEECHAM'S PILLS

Sold Everywhere. In boxes 10c. and 25c.

LONG IN AN ASYLUM

WHEREABOUTS OF FORMER U. OF M. PROFESSOR ARE JUST MADE KNOWN.

New York, June 29.—When Mrs. Rose M. Harrington of Manhattan applied to Supreme Court Justice Mills at Mount Vernon to be appointed a committee of the estate of her husband, Mark W. Harrington, formerly a professor in the University of Michigan and later chief of the United States weather bureau, it became known that her husband had been an inmate of an asylum for years.

Mrs. Harrington says that in the nine years that he has been confined in the Morris Plains insane asylum he has been unable to tell anything about himself, nor does he know his own name.

Mrs. Harrington says that she does not know what property her husband owns, and for that reason she desires to be appointed conservator of his estate, as she believes he is entitled to large royalties from books of which he was the author.

Justice Mills took a great interest in the story because Professor Harrington was formerly a resident of Mount Vernon. He granted an order allowing a jury in the next term of the Westchester supreme court to pass upon the sanity of the professor, and will also sign an order for the testimony of Dr. Evans, superintendent of the Mount Morris asylum as to the mental condition of the patient.

Dissappeared in 1899.

Mrs. Harrington states that her husband left his home in Mount Vernon in 1899 to attend a dinner in Manhattan. He did not return home, and she did not see him again until 1907, when she found him in the Morris Plains asylum. He had been found in 1902 wandering around Newark in a dazed condition and could not tell his name.

At the asylum she learned that her husband had been sent to that institution from Newark and that he was suffering from an unusual form of mental disease which caused him to lose his entire identity, and he was also unable to recognize any one. Where he had spent the two years unaccounted for no one knew.

He has no specific delusions at the present time except that he believes that his name is "John Doe." That was the name that was given to him by the authorities in the institution before his wife discovered him and revealed his identity. He still maintains his name is John Doe, and when his wife called a few days ago to see him he declared that he did not know her, and gave instructions to the keepers to keep her away from him, as she was a stranger.

Becomes a Musician.

Since Professor Harrington has been in the asylum he has become an accomplished piano player, and devotes most of his time to playing on the instrument for the benefit of the other inmates.

Lawyer C. D. Manville will apply to Justice Mills next week for a commission to take the testimony of Dr. Evans at the asylum, and thus hurry along the insanity proceedings so that Mrs. Harrington may recover the property of her husband.

Professor Harrington was a scientist of world-wide note. He succeeded General Gately, head of the weather bureau in Washington in 1891. He had been Professor of Astronomy in the University of Michigan prior to that for twelve years, and he was the editor of the American Meteorological Journal. In 1871 he was a government astronomer in the United States coast survey in Alaska, being then a young man of 23. He was director of the observatory at Peking in 1876, and introduced the first large telescope used in China. In 1888 he was professor of biological science in the Louisiana state university.

Prof. Harrington had been missing two years when he was found one day in a public park. No one knew him and he did not know himself. In the course of events he was committed to the Morris Plains (N. J.) asylum as John Doe. One day his son was a visitor to the asylum. This was several years after his commitment, and he heard the story of the strange patient there who seemed so intelligent and yet knew nothing of people or events.

He saw this man and was struck with his resemblance to his long-lost father. Returning home, he told his mother about it. She visited the asylum and identified her husband, who did not recognize her. This was three years ago. He has not known her since, nor has he recalled his own identity. It was not until now, when Mrs. Harrington wishes to recover his property, that the history of the missing professor became known to many of his friends and neighbors.

LYNCH FINES UMPIRE.

St. Louis, Mo., June 29.—President Lynch of the National League announced today that following an investigation and the taking of testimony concerning the blow Umpire Klein struck Manager Bresnahan of the St. Louis club at the close of last Friday's game in Cincinnati that he would fine the umpire $50. Bresnahan was complimented for not retaliating when he was hit.

MAY CAN WADDELL.

Louisville, Ky., June 28.—Announcement was made today by Manager Cantillon of the Minneapolis baseball team that unless Rube Waddell wins his next game or shows a decided form reversal he will be released outright or sold. Waddell has been in poor form all season.

CORRESPONDENCE.

DURING COURTSHIP.
Postal cards.
Short notes.
Letters.
Special deliveries.
Night letters.
Telegrams.

AFTER THE WEDDING.
Telephone.
Telegrams.
Night letters.
Special deliveries.
Letters.
Short notes.
Shorter notes.
Postal cards.

—Life.

FRECKLES

New Drug That Quickly Removes These Homely Spots.

There's no longer the slightest need of feeling ashamed of your freckles, as a new drug, ointme—double strength has been discovered that is a positive cure for these homely spots.

Simply get one ounce of ointme—double strength, from Eagle Drug Store and apply a little of it at night, and in the morning you will see that even the worst have begun to disappear, while the light freckles have vanished entirely. It is seldom that more than an ounce is needed to completely clear the skin and gain a beautiful clear complexion.

Be sure to ask for the double strength ointme, as this is sold under guarantee of money back if it fails to remove the freckles.

ALUMINUM.

The increase in the production of aluminum is one of the industrial wonders of the age. Although it is the most abundant of all minerals, it is forming one-sixth of the earth's crust, it was little more than a laboratory curiosity 20 years ago. In 1883 only 12 pounds were produced, and the cost was $15 a pound. In 1899 the production had risen to more than 22,000,000 pounds, and the price had come down to 23 cents.

Modern Kitchens at Sea.

The term "son of a sea cook" is no longer a title of reproach. The highly paid specialist who presides over the kitchens is a chef with an international reputation. The meal at the end of the longest sea voyage gives no indication that the ship has not been supplied from land. Immense stores of fresh meats, vegetables, fruits and even flowers must be carried. The kitchens are incredibly clean, with their tiled floors, glass tables and shelves, as are also the cold storage rooms. To keep a kitchen in order is a far more difficult problem at sea than on land.—Craster's Magazine.

Located It Exactly.

With his jaw swollen so as to nearly close his eye, a sailor rushed into a dentist's office and told the dentist to extract an aching tooth as soon as possible. After getting the man seated in the chair the doctor asked which tooth he wished pulled, and the sailor, nearly crazed by pain, lost no time in saying "Upper deck, second one from aft, port side."
