Washington, May 8.—The cruiser Montana, bearing seventeen sailors and marines killed at Vera Cruz, is due to arrive in New York harbor Sunday afternoon.

Memorial services, at which the president will voice the tribute of the nation, will begin in the navy yard at 11 o'clock Monday morning. The services will be brief and simple. Chaplain Cassard, of Annapolis, will deliver the invocation. The president will then deliver his address. Prayer by Rabbi Wise of New York, will follow, and the benediction by Rev. Father Chadwick, who was chaplain of the battleship Maine when she was blown up in Havana Harbor.

The music will be by the Marine band, and either a rifle or artillery salute will be fired. The bodies will be landed at the Battery Sunday afternoon, where they will be placed on caissons to lie in state until 9 o'clock Monday morning when the procession, under military escort and other escort provided by the city, will march to the city hall and thence across Brooklyn bridge to the navy yard.

Whether the president will join in the procession has not been determined.

Senator Lewis Eulogizes Victims. Senator James Hamilton Lewis today spoke in eulogy of the Americans who fell in the first fighting in Vera Cruz.

"The first four," exclaimed the senator, "completing the ever present mystic square, personify all Daniel Hazegerty, Irishman, descendant of those who marched with Patrick Clonburne from the south and Sheridan from the north; John Schumacher, German, descendant of those who fought for the United States under Steuben; George Poinsett, of the generation of those who marched with Lafayette; and Samuel Mendenberg, Jew, child of a people without a country, but now a son saluted by every nation."

"We call to the watching world to attest to the civilization of men, the attachment of America for her children, and for the praise and triumph she ever pays to a hero, who serves her cause."

READY FOR BIG DEMONSTRATION OF SUFFRAGISTS

Washington Police to Protect Women Marchers Tomorrow

Washington, D. C., May 8.—If the elaborate arrangements now perfected and the number of participants registered at headquarters may be accepted as reliable indications, then the woman's suffrage parade which is to take place in this city tomorrow will go on record as the most impressive demonstration in behalf of "votes for women" that American has ever seen. The parade will march from the White House to the Capitol, the purpose being to call the attention of Congress to the petitions signed by women throughout the country asking the Federal lawmakers to pass a measure granting women the full rights of suffrage.

Full Police Protection.

Precautions have been taken to prevent a repetition of the disorderly demonstrations on the part of spectators that marred the suffrage parade of last year. Major Sylvester, head of the Washington police department, has assured the committees in charge that they will have ample protection for the marchers. Any suggestion of rowdiness or mobbing of the parade such as happened last year will be summarily dealt with, Major Sylvester says.

According to a statement given out at the headquarters today the marchers will include representatives of the equal suffrage organizations in every state of the Union, without exception. Some of the states will have a comparatively small representation, while the states within easy distance of the capital, including New York, Pennsylvania, New Jersey and Maryland, will be represented by delegations of several hundred women. The suffragists of the District of Columbia, among them thousands of women employed in the various departments of the government, are preparing to turn out in full force.

Cavalry Division.

The procession promises to be remarkable for the number of well known women who will take part. Marching side by side with the store clerks and factory girls will be women of wealth and the highest social standing. Social workers of national reputation, presidents and professors of women's colleges, women well known to the literary world, actresses whose names always appear at the top of the bill, and women who have been conspicuously successful in business and the professions—all will be in line for the cause.

One of the most attractive features of the procession will be the cavalry division. Many of the best known young horsewomen in Washington will take part. Among the organizers are Miss Mary Morgan, a niece of Clifford Pinchot, and Miss Elizabeth Kent, a recent debutante, daughter of Representative William Kent of California. Riding at the head of the parade as grand marshal will be Mrs. Juliet Barrett Rublee, who will have as her chief assistant Mrs. George Odell of Illinois.

TURTLE SERUM NOT EFFECTIVE IT IS DECLARED

Friedmann Vaccine Cannot Be Recommended Says Expert

Washington, May 8.—In a paper entitled "Subsequent Report of Patients Who Received Injections of Friedmann Vaccine a Year Ago," Dr. George Mannheimer of New York declared emphatically before the Clinical Section of the National Association for the Study and Prevention of Tuberculosis here today that the Friedmann vaccine had exhibited "neither curative nor preventive powers" and that it could not therefore be recommended. "In March 1913," said Dr. Mannheimer, "eighteen patients were treated under my supervision. Of these, fifteen can be followed up, and of that number three are dead. The number of injections in these cases were one, two, and four, respectively. Of the remaining twelve patients, ten received one, and two received four injections. Five of the ten patients who received one injection developed abscesses at the site of the injection and were therefore unavailable for further injections, according to the inventor. The other five patients were not re-injected, either because they did not see the improvement they had been led to expect or because they had become worse and had lost confidence in Friedmann. As to their present condition, five of them are now unchanged and five are worse than a year ago."

No Good Effects Noted.

"One patient, who had four injections, feels well and presents signs of an arrested lung process, but he has not gained in weight and has developed a new tuberculous process in another part of the body. The second patient with four injections has tuberculosis of the knee-joint and is now decidedly worse than before. The infiltrate of the fourth injection broke down and discharged pus."

"Where abscesses resulted at the site of the first injection, the vaccine apparently produced no additional harmful effect. The disease remains uninfected. Friedmann neglected to prevent abscess-formation, although he claimed to know how. To be very charitable, one might judge from one single case, that decided natural healing tendencies, aided by common-sense treatment, will not be hindered by the remedy. When in a quiescent case the first subjective and objective symptoms of a new outbreak appear and one wishes to check it, the remedy is absolutely worthless for that purpose. It cannot prevent the tendency to spread, if a case is so disposed. The method of its administration has been anything but careful and intelligent. For these reasons, and on account of the absence of curative and preventive powers in this series, it cannot be recommended."

New York Attorney and Wife Are Arrested in Boston

Boston, Mass., May 8.—Francis Griffin, a New York attorney, and wife, were arrested today, charged with obtaining between three hundred thousand and half a million by the fraudulent use of the mails. Mrs. Griffin, it is said, represented she had contracts for stenographic work in connection with anti-trust prosecutions by federal and state authorities, and that owing to the secrecy attending the investigations she was unable to obtain from the banks the funds she needed to carry out the contracts. She represented that the expenses were heavy and the profits large. One man supplied one hundred thousand and two others, forty thousand each, it is asserted, both were held in bail of $15,000 for trial in New York.

While awaiting word from the Lloyd's, the underwriters to whom the steamer Waldo was abandoned, Capt. Cunningham with the wrecking tug Favorite, is at Copper Harbor repairing the steamer Turret Chief which was driven ashore in the disastrous sale last November. ## HUERTA DECLARES ARMISTICE HAS BEEN BROKEN BY U. S.

War Department Resumes Activities and Governors of Several States Are Asked How Long It Will Take to Mobilize Militia

Galveston, Texas, May 8.—Orders from the war department caused the hurried loading of supplies on the transport Kilpatrick today. It probably will sail tomorrow. The transport Saltito is loading with permanent camp equipment for the army at Vera Cruz. The transport McClelland has been ordered to New Orleans to be converted into a beef ship.

Washington, May 8.—The Mexican situation assumed a more warlike aspect today.

War department activities, begun last night on the receipt of confidential advices from General Funston at Vera Cruz, were renewed this morning and brought to the attention of the president and cabinet at their regular meeting.

While the activity disclosed that every preparation is being made for possible eventualities, yet Secretary Garrison said: "No additional troop movements have been ordered."

In the midst of military preparations came the word that the mediators had received from Huerta, and submitted to the United States government, the complaint that the landing of American troops and war material at Vera Cruz amounted to a breaking of the armistice. This also was one of the subjects before the cabinet.

It is learned authoritatively that the mediators are of the opinion that they will be able to persuade Huerta that the United States has not been violating, in spirit at least, the armistice agreed upon. Otherwise a stumbling block will be placed in their way which might render virtually useless their future efforts at mediation. They were in conference during the day discussing a plan, which will include, it is learned, the Constitutionalists' side of the Mexican problem and the pacification of all Mexico.

In support of the contention that the military preparations are for a possible forward movement, it became known that the war department has been in telephonic communication with the governors of New York, Pennsylvania and Ohio, in an effort to determine how soon the militia organizations of those states could be mobilized and sent to the sea board for shipment in transports.

Bryan admitted that this government has received a note from the South American mediators, in which complaint is made by Huerta that the American operations at Vera Cruz are in violation of the armistice. Asked for details, Bryan said:

"It simply sets forth what Huerta says. A reply will be made."

None of the mediators would discuss the Huerta protest, which was forwarded through acting Foreign Minister Ruiz. It is expected the subject will be considered at today's cabinet meeting.

Officials here point out that neither the United States nor Huerta has yet entered into any formal armistice. What occurred was this:

The mediators suggested that hostilities be suspended during the negotiations. Bryan replied it was assumed there would be a suspension of hostilities, except to repel attack. Huerta's answer was understood to be an acceptance, but the exact terms have not been given out. Bryan several times pointed out that this did not constitute a formal armistice, but only an assumption that hostilities would be suspended except to resist aggression. Leading authorities on international law hold that an armistice, truce or suspension of hostilities should be definite and not implied.

It was learned on high authority that the war department had under consideration today the early and adequate reinforcement of the command of Funston at Vera Cruz, to carry out a movement that might be necessary into the interior of Mexico. The question of placing a large force of Americans in Vera Cruz that would be strong enough to defend that port against any attack, or to undertake a possible campaign against Mexico City, was later laid before the president and cabinet by Secretary Garrison.

Reinforcements Deemed Necessary. The war department officials, it is stated, decided at a conference with Secretary Garrison and staff late last night that reinforcements are needed at Vera Cruz. A cipher telegram from Vera Cruz was delivered to Garrison while he was attending the wedding of the president's daughter. He left the festivities and hurriedly summoned his aides to the war department.

Secretary Garrison declined to discuss the situation further than to say he had laid before the staff officers last night the report from Funston.

"All I can say is that no additional troop movements have been ordered," he said.

He would make no prediction concerning possible future movements.

Funston's report, it is said, embodied accounts brought to Vera Cruz by refugees from Mexico City concerning the situation in the capital.

After the cabinet meeting Bryan said Huerta had raised the question of sending the army to replace the naval forces at Vera Cruz. Other members of the cabinet said it was understood that the entire question of the situation at Vera Cruz had been left in the hands of the war department and that the United States was fully within its rights to reinforce the troops. Tumulty, secretary to the president, declared emphatically that as far as known at the white house, there is no "serious crisis at Vera Cruz." He added that the dispatches from Funston, which detailed conditions described by refugees, were confirmatory of information already received.

The exodus of foreigners from Mexico City continued today. Six hundred American refugees are on their way to Puerto Mexico, under the protection of the Brazilian flag. It was yesterday.

NO GENERAL STRIKE TO BE CALLED BY MINE WORKERS

Indianapolis, Ind., May 8.—"That it is not the part of wisdom for the miners in the organized states to engage in a general strike at this particular time," was the report of the special committee to the international executive board of the United Mine Workers of America in session here. It decided, however, to pass the strike in Colorado and an appeal for financial aid was issued.

John D. Rockefeller, Jr., could have prevented the loss of life in Colorado by favoring a settlement of the strike through a meeting of the operators and miners, according to a statement by the executive board. "There will be no twining back. The sacrifice already is too great," the statement also declared.

Surrender Arms by Tomorrow. Trinidad, May 8.—All persons in the strike district in southern Colorado, under a federal military proclamation, issued today, must surrender the firearms of all classes by tomorrow.

Washington, May 8.—Two hundred firearms were surrendered to the federal troops yesterday at Louisville, Frederick and Lafayette, Colorado.

Dr. Hatfield reported that in the states of South Carolina, Oklahoma and South Dakota, the sale of seals had been stimulated by the campaign against tuberculosis.
