Captain J. E. Gray; chairman of the executive committee of the State grange, writes to the Brenham Ban-

Having been sent out to South Caro lina by the Texas state grange for the purpose of examining into the construction and operation of the machinhaving made my report to the office of great consideration. said organization, I propose to give the membership and the public the benefit of the information thus obtained, through your valuable and widely circulated paper, provided you can afford the space. I feel that I cannot describe fully everything connected with said machine in this article, hence I will confine myself to the principal parts of the machine, and the effect of its work.

Then as to the machine, and just before I describe the parts, I will remark, that there is no doubt about its working, as there is no new principle involved in it, every operation is as well established as gianing and spinning, and done with exactly the same machinery that is now in ordinary use with the exception of the gin, (which varies in construction but not principle,) being much smaller; the saws are about 7 inches in diameter the teeth cident in life. much fiver than the ordinary gin, and run at a slow rate , just fast enough to gin the cotton as fast as the card can a white powder, and whon placed in water, foams, receive it, and work it off into sliver or continued roll, there being a small very cooling and pleasant, acts gently upon the brush well covered with bristles, used to pass the list from the gin saws to the cards, and upon these constructed druggists. and combined with the cards that are in common use for carding lint, or balal cotton, was the patent for this ma chine obtained, and not for any new i vention. The True Secret.

How many take a wrong view of life, and waste their energies and destroy their nervous system in endeavoring to accumulate wealth, without thinking of the present happiness they are throwing away. It is not wealth or high station which makes a man happy. Many of the most wretched beings on earth have both; but it is a radiant, sunny spirit, which knows how to bear little trials and enjoy comforts, and thus extract happiness from every in-
