Waco Daily News.

THE PEOPLE AND THE LAW.

The St. Louis Republic is making it warm for the mobs that have in several instances of late taken the law of Missouri in their teeth and made two crimes where one was enough. It larrups the citizens who thus permit themselves to become anarchists because some beast in human form has broken the law. The Republic recognizes the fact that the execution of the law lies with the people and a disrespect for the law on the part of the people is fatal to society. There is no influence that has more power to create a healthy sentiment than that wielded by the press, and the Republic, in its present war on mob law, or anarchy as it terms it, will do more good than all the official power of all the governors in Christendom. Texas has been disgraced by several mobs of late and our governor, thinking that with the state treasury at his back and his commission as ruler over all Texas in hand, attempted to execute the law himself. He has made a signal failure in every case and his demagogic efforts has perhaps caused an increased contempt for the law as an engine for the punishment of crime. If the theory of the administration is correct and the execution of the laws is with the governor, his failure in several notable instances can have no other effect than to destroy all faith in legal methods and create a spirit of the rankest anarchy. No, the people themselves must execute the laws, and any action on the part of the governor that assumes to take from them this responsibility is fraught with hurtful results. A healthy law abiding sentiment must be inculcated where it does not exist and the people must bear in mind constantly that the preservation of society under the law rests with themselves.

Mayor Fulton evidently recognizes George Clark as the man he will have to beat for the nomination for governor if he gets there at all. His latest reminder consisting of four columns in the Dallas and Galveston News is directed against Clark. The mayor don't like it because the papers ignore his candidacy. The News really does not see how Galveston could get along without Fulton for mayor and one exchanges from that city seem to be of the same opinion.

Governor Hogg says he will advise the people against the elective commission, but if nothing else will do them, no objection will be interposed by him. Can't trust you Governor. Our representatives wanted an elective commission and you said it must be an appointive commission or none at all. You are altogether too much of a governor, you must get off of Texas.

We hope the members of the legislature will each demand his prorata share of the governor's message, 10,000 copies of which was ordered printed for free distribution. We also offer Representative Gerald and Senator Harrison free access to our subscription list for names, that those receiving the message may have a tonic in the shape of THE NEWS to take weekly.

A Boies-Russell ticket would perhaps bring a majority of men into the Democratic fold. The Massachusetts kid has never known defeat and Iowa has the "beatenest" Boies on earth.

To Governor Hogg: Turn the treasury loose, and pay your own campaign expenses.

If our neighbor a few miles west doest let up with its Hoggishness we'll turn a few skunks loose in Tyler.

For governor: R. L. Fulton. Platform: If you wont let Hogg have it give it to me. Dadblame that Waco Warwrik.

It would be well to bear in mind that the $130,000 Waco bonds are still unsold, and some honest debts are unpaid also.

Commissioner Foster slaughtering cattle shipping rates to catch votes for Hogg, is taking the commission out of politics with a vengeance.

A. W. Terrell was once one of the most popular men in Texas with the people. He will stump the state this year for Hogg. How the mighty have fallen.

Senator Hill warbled a protection lullaby to the Birminghamians, but no silvery notes, even in a minor key, were heard to escape him in his southern meanderings.

The legislature has tapped the public till to pay for Hogg's campaign literature. Ten thousand copies, double any previous issue during the regular session even.

The calamity howler is the fellow who thinks the country will go to the demnition how-wows, unless government throttles every institution that he cannot control himself. He wants the government to say to the citizens, "Where two or more are gathered together for business purposes, there will I be in their midst."

When Governor Hogg gets out on the stump howling keep the railroads out of politics the people should remember Commissioner Foster's visit to Fort Worth while the cattlemen's convention was in session and the wholesale reduction in shipping rates on cattle without former notice, and for the express purpose of winning the cattlemen of Texas over to Hogg.
