LOCKS AND DAMS FOR THE BRAZOS

Forces are Being Assembled for the Surveys.

Special to the Eagle.

Waco, Texas, Sept. 10.—Engineer F. H. Morgan has reached Waco from Dallas, and is assembling forces and will begin within a week on surveys finally locating the locks and dams between here and Hidalgo Falls necessary to give light draft navigation to Waco.

A boat is to be built here, and the engineering crew will then begin just below the city in locating the locks and dams. A great celebration is being planned within the next two or three weeks, accentuating this event which is taken to mean that the government is fully committed to this project.

One lock and dam is now under construction at Hidalgo Falls, and the others will come in regular order. It is hoped to have a lock and dam below Waco under construction within a short time.

BRAZOS RIVER TO BE MADE A HIGHWAY OF COMMERCE.

The Brazos river bounding Brazos county on the west and south and only eight miles from Bryan at the nearest point, is to be made one of the most important inland waterways in the Southwest. The plan adopted and upon which some work has already been done, contemplates making the river navigable for steamboats to Waco.

In the old days before the war the state government maintained an open channel up to Old Washington and steamboats plied regularly between the mouth of the river and this point. In time of high water boats sometimes passed over the shoals at Hidalgo bluff, and ascended to points higher up, but this was rare. Hidalgo bluff is on the west bank just below the old Rogers plantation in the southern part of Brazos county. At this point is located the first in the series of locks, which will enable boats to pass over the shoals at any time. The next lock going up will be near Pitt's bridge, which is nearly opposite Bryan.

Because Bryan is not situated on the bank of the river there are some who do not understand that the opening of that stream means anything to us. But while it is probable that the railroads will continue to do most of our transportation business, if they should ever be too exacting a steamboat landing within eight miles will afford an easy means of relief. It will not be difficult or expensive to build a traction road or an electric railway to the wharf at Pitt's bridge and thus secure water rates. Indeed it is not impossible that Pitt's bridge will some day be in the suburbs of Bryan.

On the subject of Brazos navigation in general Mayor James B. Baker of Waco, who was in Galveston yesterday, said to a reporter of the News: "When I left Waco the last of August, Capt. Waldron and Assistant Sweede wrote me that on or about Sept. 1 they would send a surveying party to Waco to build a boat and start the survey from that city and continue it down as far as Bryan. In that distance the government will locate the other six locks and dams. They requested me to notify them at Dallas when I returned home. As you know, I am one of the directors of the intercoastal canal, which is a part of the Brazos river project. One of the locks and dams is located opposite Navasota and the other is opposite Bryan. When the Brazos and other Texas waterways improvements, for which I am working hard, are accomplished, I expect to see Waco grow to be a city of 200,000. I also expect to see Velasco become an important port. Some day, which I hope is near at hand, we may expect to see coal being brought from Pittsburg, Pa., through the intercoastal canal to Galveston, and from which point it will be shipped to all parts of Texas.

"When the Panama canal is completed Texas will be full of ports. There will be room, business and glory enough for all of them, and we will need them all. Neither one will hurt the other, but, on the contrary, each one can and will help the other. Texas congressmen, and we Texas business men who have this work in our hands, are all working together to make a general success of our various enterprises. I sometimes feel as though I would like to be a boy again in order that I could see the future greatness of Texas materialize."

AN ARBITRATION NOW SUGGESTED

Washington Bureau is Ready to Settle The Matter.

Special to the Eagle.

Washington, Sept. 10.—The coast and geodetic survey will undertake to arbitrate the Peary-Cook North Pole controversy, provided Dr. Cook requests that it should do so.

In view of the fact that Peary has been operating under the direction of that institution to compute his notes without request from any one, and Acting Superintendent Perkins said today that if Cook should desire the survey would go over his papers also.

ALLEN ACADEMY

HAS AN ENROLLMENT OF BOARDING STUDENTS UNPRECEDENTED IN THE HISTORY OF THE SCHOOL.

STRONG FACULTY

Something About the New Men on the Teaching Force.

Allen Academy reports an enrollment in excess of any year yet. Although several days remain for enrollment the school is full, and it looks as though students will have to be turned away before the opening day.

The new members of the faculty will arrive Monday and Tuesday. Several months have been spent in the selection of these men, a number of trips were made by the principals for personal interviews, and it is believed that the very best men available have been secured.

The first new teacher employed was Mr. Morgan Vining of Austin, Texas. He is an A. B. graduate of the University of Texas and is especially strong in Latin and English. Mr. Vining was a prominent Y. M. C. A. worker while in the University; he is also a valuable man in athletics. He has served as captain of Varsity basketball team on their trip to Bryan last spring and while here made a fine impression on all who met him.

The second new man is Mr. Sterling P. Williams. He is a native Texan, a graduate of Polytechnic College, where he also taught two or three years, and a M. A. graduate of the University of Texas. Mr. Williams came with flattering recommendations both from President Boaz of Polytechnic, and from the University of Texas. He will have classes in history, mathematics and English.

Mr. John Roades comes to the Academy from Ohio. He is a graduate of Wesleyan University, and has nearly completed the courses necessary for his Ph. D. in the University of Chicago having studied two full years in that institution. Mr. Roades is especially strong in English and German. He not only reads but speaks the latter language. He will have charge of the classes in German and part of the work in English.

With these additions to the faculty Allen Academy will be better prepared than ever before for thorough work. The record enrollment, in the face of the fact that no personal canvass whatever has been made, is very encouraging to the principals and to the friends of the school.

A BEAUTIFUL ART DISPLAY.

There is in one of the elegant show windows at the book store of Tyler Haswell, an art display, the work of Miss Mihills, teacher of art in the Bryan Baptist Academy. It is an elegant display, including water colors, oil painting and china painting. The work is a credit to the teacher of art in any of our schools or colleges and has been admired, and was the subject of many complimentary remarks by those who saw it today. The display will remain in the window for a few days so that all may see it who so desires.

INDICTED FOR MANSLAUGHTER.

The grand jury made another report to the court this morning, turning in an indictment against Mr. Tom Closs of Edge, for manslaughter, growing out of the killing of Marvin Holland near Edge last spring. Mr. Closs was present and his bond was fixed at $3,000, which he furnished with a large number of signers and was discharged. His case will come up for trial during the hearing of the criminal docket, which will be taken up on the third Monday of the court.

LAUNDRY NOTICE.

Patrons of the Bryan Steam Laundry are hereby notified that all laundry bills must be paid the same week the work is done. If this is not done all bundles will be held the following week until all charges are paid. This is positive and no exceptions will be made. The time required to collect laundry bills and the loss has become a burden too heavy to bear longer.

OWLS GOT REVENGE.

Revenge is sweet and the Owls were filled with joy on yesterday afternoon when the ball game between Harvey and their team resulted in a decisive victory for them. The same tale is true as it was in the first game only it was reversed. The Owls out played Harvey and deserve the game they won. It was close and fast throughout the entire game but the Owls never lost the lead and the final score was four to three. This is about the last game of the season and it is a settled question that the Owls are the winners of the imaginary pennant.
