BRYAN, TEXAS, MARCH 4, 1908.

It isn't always the bit dog that howls—sometimes a lion does the howling for him.

The Republican presidential situation is so muddled that an attempt to forecast the result is like guessing at what the weather is going to do.

The election law of Texas plainly prescribes the test for primaries and no man has any right to demand any other test, nor will any other be permitted.

Nobody can dispute that there are good people over in Kentucky, but they must be in a hopeless minority and without authority. No wonder the Republicans have captured it.

Nobody is exulting more hilariously over the appearance of the American flotilla in the Pacific than the Australians. They look with uneasiness upon the growing naval power of Japan and are more hopeful from protection from the United States than from their mother country.

A great captain of industry and a man beloved for the good he has done laid down his earthly labors and was called to his reward when on Monday morning, Mr. James Oliver, the manufacturer of the Oliver chilled plows, died at his home at South Bend Ind. Mr. J. Allen Myers of this city, a personal friend of the deceased was advised of his death by telegram.

The Pastors' Associations of Texas are now discussing the position of the preacher in politics. The consensus of opinion seems to be that when a moral issue is before the people the preacher ought to take a hand; otherwise he ought not to butt in. It is now up to the preachers to draw the line of demarcation between moral and political issues—a difficult undertaking.

If you had a bank account and constantly drew on it and never made deposits the account would play out some day. So it is with the farmer. Planting and selling the crops, with no effort to rebuild or replenish the soil, will some day leave the land impoverished—bankrupt—and the check, or if you want it plainer, your labor will be unrewarded.—Huntsville Post-Item.

Liverpool, March 2.—Thomas B. Wanamaker of Philadelphia, son of the late former Postmaster General Wanamaker, died suddenly at a Liverpool hotel Monday. Mr. Wanamaker arrived Thursday from Egypt, where he had been traveling with his mother in search of health.

Washington, March 2.—The interstate commerce commission decided by a unanimous vote to deny all petitions for extensions of time within which to comply with the so-called hours of service laws—the nine-hour law.

GRAND JURY HAS RETURNED SEVEN FELONY INDICTMENTS.

Jury Dismissed For the Week—Civil Cases Set—Several Divorces Granted—Other Orders.

The Brazos county grand jury reported three indictments for felonies yesterday morning, two of them being charges of horse theft against Jerry Shorter, colored; and the third case against Will Gray, colored, charging assault with intent to murder.

Yesterday afternoon, upon adjournment for the day, the grand jury returned four more felony indictments, making a total of seven. One of these is against a young Italian named Tony Corabo, who is charged with theft of cattle. The nature of the other indictments could not be learned.

The petit jury was dismissed for the week yesterday morning, and the attention of the court was directed to civil business, the docket showing the following results:

Addie Elmore vs. Jake Elmore, divorce. Granted.

W. W. Barker vs. Edna Barker, divorce. Granted.

McKenna vs. Wells-Fargo Express Co., damages; judgment by agreement for $225.00.

Mollie Furman vs. Furman, divorce, granted and children awarded to plaintiff.

WRITES OF WASHINGTON MEETING.

Supt. W. C. Lawson Tells Something About the Work of Great Educational Body.

Texas is a great State and does great things. It did a great thing in sending the superintendents of all the leading cities to the recent meeting in Washington, D. C.

Ten of us went by way of Houston, New Orleans, Mobile, Montgomery, Atlanta, the Carolinas, and Virginia. The trip was very enjoyable, in such congenial company. We reached Washington Sunday night, and were ready for work Monday morning. As the meeting proper did not open till Tuesday we spent Monday in a careful examination of the city schools, and of the City Normal School. Teachers, there, must be professionally trained, as they should be everywhere. We carefully inspected the work of regular teachers, critic teachers, and pupil teachers. The system is too great to describe in limited space. The training of those who wish to teach is done in the City Normal School. I visited that, and saw the work. It carried me back to the time when I went through the same process and wondered what the future had in store for me. Such schools are common in cities. I met the man in charge of the St. Louis Normal, the first time I had seen him since as young men, we were both in training in the same normal school. Since then we had drifted apart, received our degrees from different Universities, and had lost sight of each other.

The meeting opened Tuesday morning. As I had been a member many years, I only had to register and take my badge. It was refreshing to meet the great men in the educational world, and to listen to their inspiring and helpful addresses.

I can only mention a few such as Dr. Draper, Dr. Gregory, Supt. Poland and Supt. Emerson.

I spoke of training of teachers before appointment. What to do with the young college graduates, who had never been to a training school, hence did not know how to teach, was a much discussed but unsettled question. Another prominent feature of the Superintendent's discussion was what to do to help teachers. How to help the self-satisfied teacher, the showy teacher, the teacher with lack of spirit, the teacher who lacks preparation but spends time with outside matters instead of preparation for school work. These, all admit, are the hard ones to help. Of course the hungry teacher, who wants to know and do the best possible, is the kind all wanted. Time and space fall me to tell of the many good and helpful things we had. Like all great meetings it had an end, and everybody want home, carrying new ideas, and inspiration, and determined to make the schools better than ever.

W. C. LAWSON.

FIRES FIVE TIMES.

Ex-Texas-Oklahoma Woman Shoots Negro Who Insults Her.

Kansas City, March 3.—Mrs. Callie M. Long fired five shots from her revolver at a negro who entered her little restaurant on East Fifteenth street. Two bullets took effect, but the negro escaped. The negro had saluted the woman with "Howdy do, honey!" and Mrs. Long began firing almost before he had finished the salutation. Mrs. Long was born and reared at Texarkana, Tex., and lived at Shawnee, Okla., before coming to Kansas City.

Much Powder Explodes.

Litchfield, Ill., March 3.—Powder carried by a Big Four freight train exploded while the train was running at full speed two miles from here. Two men were fatally injured. The train was badly wrecked, several cars were burned. The concussion shook houses and shattered windows for miles.

Lady Fatally Burned.

Fort Worth, March 3.—Mrs. H. S. Bunting was fatally burned. She lighted her gasoline stove. The flames flared up. Her clothing was ignited and her face, hands and body badly burned. Her son, Howard, sixteen years old, was severely burned trying to save his mother.

Woman Charged With Arson.

Oakland, Cal., March 3.—Mrs. Isabella J. Martin was indicted by the grand jury on charge of having dynamited the residence of Superior Judge Ogden in March, 1907. Her bail was fixed at $50,000. Mrs. Martin was jailed.

George Wilson Electrocutted.

Trenton, N. J., March 3.—George Wilson, a negro, was electrocuted at the prison early Tuesday for the murder in December last of Frederick Romer of Orange, an undertaker, who was killed in his room at a hotel.

Normal Conditions Restored.

Tegucigalpa, March 3.—The president of Honduras, General Davila, the vice-president and the magistrate of the supreme court appeared before the National assembly and swore to uphold the constitution. This step completes the reestablishment of normal conditions throughout the republic.

To Tax Sale and Transfer.

Washington, March 3.—A bill to tax the sale and transfer of stocks was introduced in the house by Representative Hepburn of Iowa.

Banker Dies Suddenly.

Jamestown, N. Y., March 3.—E. B. Crissey, a leading banker, died suddenly.

MERELY MENTIONED.

Lamar county, Texas, farmers are planting corn.

Katy railway shops at Denison have resumed work.

San Angelo, Tex., waterworks plant is valued at $158,840.

Senator Bradley of Kentucky favors Vice-President Fairbanks for president.

W. J. Neill, a prominent railroad man, died at Selma, Ala., aged seventy years.

Willie Glenn, a boy, died at Brady, Tex., from injuries sustained in a football game.

Bubonic plague prevails at Guayaquil, Ecuador. There have been over twelve deaths.

W. G. Venable, a Texas pioneer, departed this life at Falling Springs, Va., aged eighty-nine years.

Thousands of employees in the St. Louis shops of the Missouri Pacific Iron Mountain system were laid off Monday.

Truthful.

Mark Twain once missed the train which should have taken him to his work. He did not wire any excuse. His telegram to his employer took this form: "My train left at 7:20. I arrived at the station at 7:35 and could not catch it."

Lack Right Qualities.

Mrs. Hix—Mrs. June strikes me as being entirely too masculine for a woman. Mrs. Dix—Yes, indeed. Why, every time she has an ache or pain she makes as much fuss about it as a man would.—Smith's Weekly.
