Saved His Life.
 J. W. Davenport, Wingo, Ky., writes, June 14, 1902: "I want to tell you I believe Ballard's Snow Liniment saved my life. I was under the treatment of two doctors, and they told me one of my lungs was entirely gone, and the other badly affected. I also had a lump in my side. I don't think that I could have lived over two months longer. I was induced by a friend to try Ballard's Snow Liniment. The first application gave me great relief; two fifty cent bottles cured me sound and well. It is a wonderful medicine and I recommend it to suffering humanity." 25c, 50c and $1.00. Sold by Pope Drug Co.

Must be Paid by the 15th.
 Subscribers to stock of the canning factory must pay 10 per cent. of the amount of stock subscribed on or before Saturday, the 15th inst. Soon after this date a meeting of the stockholders will be held and arrangements made for getting up charter, locating site and erecting building.
 The Reveille would like to see every truck-grower a stockholder in the factory. The stock will be called in as needed, 10 to 20 per cent. at a time as necessity demands.

Our niece, who had Consumption in an advanced stage, also used this wonderful medicine and to-day she is perfectly well." Desperate throat and lung diseases yield to Dr. King's New Discovery as to no other medicine on earth. Infallible for Coughs and Colds. 50c and $1 bottles guaranteed by J. A. Shreve, Druggist. IT BEATS COTTON.
The Truck Farmer is the Man Who Makes the Money.
 There is no question but what truck farming and fruit growing can be made very much more profitable in and around Wesson than the all cotton policy which so many of our land owners have consecrated themselves to, and who year after year find themselves after they have disposed of their crops, in debt to those who have advanced them the money with which to make their crops. Right here in this community, we have examples or demonstrations of this fact, and yet were it otherwise every farmer, large or small, could by paying less attention to cotton and more to fruits and the smaller crops of vegetables that are always in demand both at home and abroad, have a better balance to his credit at the end of each year.
 It is a well-known fact that the Gulf coast counties, particularly Hancock and Harrison, have thousands of dollars brought to them every year by the production of early vegetables for the Northern and Western markets, and they send out daily car loads of radishes, lettuce, cucumbers, etc., that find ready sale in the greatest quantities at Chicago, Pittsburg, St. Louis and other points to which they are shipped, and never fail to bring good returns. What can be done in the coast counties in this direction, can be done at Wesson. And then there are other places that load whole trains in season, with strawberries and early varieties of vegetables the returns for which are making them the most wealthy in the State.—Wesson Enterprise.

Testimony of a Minister
 Rev. Jno. S. Cox of Wake, Ark., writes: "For 12 years I suffered from Yellow Jaundice. I consulted a number of physicians and tried all sorts of medicines, but got no relief. Then I began the use of Electric Bitters and feel that I am now cured of a disease that had me in its grasp for twelve years." If you want a reliable medicine for Liver and Kidney trouble, stomach disorder or general debility, get Electric Bitters. It's guaranteed by J. A. Shreve, Druggist. Only 50c.

MISS LOUISA PARSONS.
 A Plucky Nurse, Now in Johns Hopkins Hospital at Baltimore.
 Miss Louisa Parsons, head nurse of a ward in Johns Hopkins Hospital, has an interesting history. Miss Parsons is one of the Nursing Sisters, a Nightingale nurse, trained in 1879 at St. Thomas' Hospital, London. Florence Nightingale, after the Crimean war, started this field of instruction under the name of St. Thomas' Training School for Nurses. For service in Egypt during the Sudan war Miss Parsons has been highly commended and handsomely decorated. She received from Queen Victoria the Royal Red Cross, which the Queen, the Princess of Wales and other members of the royal family of England wear; a silver medal from the English War Office, and a bronze medal from the Khedive of Egypt.
 Miss Parsons is an Englishwoman of medium stature and active movement. She sailed from London for the Sudan March 8, 1885, and landed at Suez, from which place she had a two and a-half days' trip to Suakin. She was stationed on the steam transport Ganges, fitted up as a hospital. The boat received its complement of patients from the seat of war, wounded and fever-stricken. There were about four hundred sick on the Ganges when Miss Parsons was assigned to that post. During her stay on the steamer the ship was cleared off of all who could be moved. They were transferred to the Iberia and sent to London. Suakin is said to be the hottest place in the world—so hot that flies can't live there. The last popular belief, Miss Parsons says, is a mistake, for she saw and fought millions of flies there and all the plagues of Israel.
 Miss Parsons, with two other sisters, took back to England four hundred patients on the Iberia and only lost four on the way. She returned overland to Brindisi and crossed the Mediterranean to Alexandria, whence she went to Suez by rail, passing the battlefield of Tel-el-Kebir, where the Arabs in 1885 lost five thousand in killed. The journey is described as terrible, on account of the heat. With three other sisters she was stationed at Suez, and received all sick forwarded from Suakin. As soon as convalescent they were put aboard home bound ships.
 It was intensely hot at Suez, and Miss Parsons had a thermometer, from excess of heat, to burst in her pocket. The hospital yard was gorgeous with beautiful flowers, but they had to be gathered before four o'clock in the morning or the hot atmosphere robbed them of their fragrance. In some of the marches the men, suffering with dreadful thirst, would drink water that had been lying in the sun for days in the skin bags. The result was always a largely increased number for the hospitals. She was herself attacked with typhoid fever at Suez, suffered a relapse on the homeward voyage on the steamer Ganges, and had a second relapse after she reached her home.
 Miss Parsons sent her resignation to the War office before coming to this country. She came to the United States on a visit, but circumstances caused her to remain longer than she expected, and finally to accept a place in the Johns Hopkins Hospital. She has never served in any other hospital in the United States.—N. Y. Express.

How to Make Noiseless Slippers.
 These are intended for the use of those who are nursing, or watching with the sick, but they will be found to give great comfort to any one who has tired or lame feet. Rip the soles from a pair of old slippers, knock the heels off and cover the soles of both sides with a thick woolen cloth. Excellent material for this, as well as for the uppers, may be found in skirts of old coats. With the old slippers for a guide, cut a paper pattern for the uppers; or better still, have a pattern of the right size cut for you by a shoemaker. The pattern will be in two pieces, the vamp and the quarter. Cut two cloth pieces by the vamp pattern, and four by the quarter pattern, taking care to have two of the latter right side out and two wrong side out. From dark silks cut linings to all these pieces. Close and press the seams of the cloth pieces, then those of the linings; then baste the two smoothly together, seams inside, and bind the upper edge with galloon. Now slip the heel stitching (saved from the old slippers) up between the lining and the outside and catch it there with two or three basting stitches. Then sew upper and sole together, holding both wrong side out, and your slipper is finished. Turn it and put it on; and if your feet are lame or tired you will not be in a hurry to take it off.—Good Housekeeping.

—The four books that have had the largest circulation at the Mercantile Library of New York during the past year are "Robert Elsmere," "John Ward, Preacher," Bryce's "American Commonwealth," and Motley's "Correspondence."—
