Chicago, Feb. 23.—A dispatch to the Tribune from Lawrenceburg, Ind., says: Warren Mitchell, a young inventor, lost his life while testing an apparatus which he had invented for the purpose of saving human life from preventing the loss of life from skating on thin ice. The device consisted of a light framework to be fastened about the skater's body and extending three feet on each side. Mitchell took his contrivance to Tanner creek. While skating, his foot came in contact with an obstruction and he was thrown headlong upon the ice. The ice gave way, and the upper part of his body went under water. The device about his waist hampered him so that he could not raise himself up, and when taken from the water he was dead.

THE STATE OF TEXAS. To the Sheriff or Any Constable of Ellis County, Greeting:

You are hereby commanded to summon the heirs of James B. Gardner, who are alleged to be unknown to plaintiff, by making publication of this citation once in each week for eight successive weeks previous to the return day hereof, in some newspaper published in your county, to appear at the next regular term of the District Court of Ellis county, to be holden at the court house thereof, in Waxahachie, on the fourth Monday in February, A. D. 1906, the same being the 26th day of February, A. D. 1906, then and there to answer to a petition filed in said court on the 4th day of January, A. D. 1906, in a suit, numbered on the docket of said court No. 6977, wherein J. T. Burleson is plaintiff and the heirs of James B. Gardner, deceased, alleged to be unknown to the plaintiff, are defendants, and said petition alleging in substance:

Suit to remove cloud from title to 15 3/4 acres of land, situated in Ellis county Texas, a part of the Hans Smith 640 acre tract, about 8 miles N. E. of the town of Waxahachie, and being a portion of the 77 acre tract owned by D. R. Risinger. SOME SENSATIONS.

These Were Developed While Defendant's Witnesses Testified.

Austin, Feb. 23.—Some of the witnesses for the defense in the Roland Browne trial testified that the late Congressman Pinckney always was armed, and was regarded as a dangerous man. The defense also sought to prove that despite the fact that no weapon was found on his body, a small revolver lay near by it.

During the cross-examination of the county attorney of Waller county, District Attorney Warren Moore of Travis endeavored to prove that in Waller county there has been great laxity in the enforcement of the laws regulating prohibition and against what he termed "the pistol-toting habit." The county attorney admitted that neither one of these laws was enforced in his section as he would like to see them enforced. He placed much of the blame on the juries which tried the cases, and the method of selecting these juries was made the subject of inquiry.
