FOREST SERVICE.

Planting on Rough Lands and Over Coal Deposits.

A variety of causes are awakening an interest in forest planting on lands owned primarily for some other purpose than the use of timber, but capable of yielding an added revenue from crops of trees. In Pennsylvania especially large forest plantations are actually under way. There are enormous areas in Pennsylvania from which the original timber has been cut and which are too rough for profitable farming. In the coal regions much of the land overlying the coal is useless for farming at any time. Both these classes of land may be planted to trees with advantage and the timber used in the mines, the old fields on which farming has been attempted being particularly desirable for planting.

Water sheds owned to prevent further denudation and the contamination of streams and reservoirs rarely yield direct returns to water companies, but if properly planted their water conserving power would be increased, and at the same time future revenue would be in prospect.

The possibilities of forest planting have been realized by several large companies which have applied to the forest service for assistance.

Detailed information and application blanks for assistance of this kind can be secured by writing to the forester, United States department of agriculture, Washington.

Hanging a Hay Door.
There has been great trouble in finding a suitable method of hanging doors for unloading hay with fork or slings from the outside of the building. The method shown by my diagnosis requires the very best wire or iron New York correspondent.

Please your track on an incline with the roof and put on rollers on the doors at the same incline. They will open very easily and shut hard, but they can easily be managed from inside.

Crop Conditions.

The crop reporting board of the department of agriculture finds the area under winter wheat remaining in cultivation on May 1 to have been about 29,025,000 acres. This is 6 per cent, or about 1,718,000 acres, less than the area reported as sown last fall and 1 per cent, or about 24,800 acres, less than the area of winter wheat reported as harvested last year.

The average condition of the growing winter wheat crop on May 1 was 91 as compared with 92 on May 1, 1908, and 88 the mean of the May averages for the last ten years.

The average condition of winter wheat on May 1 was 92 as compared with 94 on May 1, 1908, and 88 the mean of the May averages of the last ten years.

The average condition of winter wheat growing on May 1 was 92 against 93 on May 1, 1908, and 88 the mean of the May averages of the last ten years.

DETAILS OF PROGRAM.

R. D. Hudson Tells of Southern Cotton Association's Arrangement for Farmers' Congress.

R. D. Hudson of Waxahachie, state secretary of the Southern Cotton Association, was in Dallas earlier in the week. He said he had been ill since the latter part of April and had just returned from Corpus Christi, where he spent several weeks recuperating.

"The officers of the Texas Farmers' Congress," he said, "had kindly consented to grant one day during the session to be held July 10, 11 and 12, for the discussion of Southern Cotton Association matters, and how the organization can be more thoroughly perfected in the state. To this end several able speakers from different sections of the state have consented to deliver addresses, and in addition to the programme already published for the Southern Cotton Association day at the congress, I will name Hon. T. J. Thornhill of Dallas county as one of the speakers upon the subject of warehouses and the benefits to be derived from them by Texas farmers.

I will also mention J. H. Connell, president of the congress, whose subject will be "Naming the Price at Which We Should Turn Our Cotton Loose This Fall." I also name Hon. N. A. Shaw of Texarkana to speak on the subject of warehouses and cooperation of the union and Southern Cotton Association in this great work.

"The Texas Farmers' Congress soon to assemble at the A. and M. College promises to be one of the best meetings yet held and with the addition of the gentlemen named on the program for that day the movement for maintaining better prices for our main money crop in Texas can be given a boost that can but result in good to the whole state.

We know the agitation for winter and spring in Texas and the whole south upon the all-important matter of reduction of acreage resulted in great good and now that 'the bears' have not an overwhelming acreage to quote on us, it gives us the whip hand on them. We have the hearty co-operation of the Farmers' Union and all other Southern organizations and are now in a position to name a fair valuation for the proceeds of our labor.

"I was surprised at the recent expressions in Central and South Texas of appreciation of the grand work accomplished by the efforts of the Southern Cotton Association along the lines of reduction of the acreage, and that in counties where no organization has as yet been perfected."

Friends of the Odd Fellows will oblige the members by bringing flowers to the grave at the cemetery at 4 o'clock p. m. tomorrow. They will have a quantity of elegant flowers on hand, but can use all you may bring.

C. O. Adkins and E. Z. Jenkins have returned from Coleman City, near which place Mr. Jenkins bought 416 acres of land. For half of the land he paid $40 per acre and for the other half $45. The land adjoins Coleman City.

J. C. Wood, who lives near Sterrett, brought in a load of old corn this morning which he sold at 55 cents a bushel. Since the last rains the farmers around Waxahachie have been selling their old corn to make room for the new crop.

Ed. Hudson, the photographer, is back in his studio after a rest and vacation of two weeks in West Texas. He is better prepared than ever to execute high grade work, and invites his friends to call when they need anything in the photographic line.

Mr. and Mrs. R. L. Timmins and Mrs. C. E. Schuster have gone to Corpus Christi, where they will take cottages and spend the summer. C. J. Harris, Esq., and Walter Timmins will leave Monday night for that place and Mr. Schuster will join the party about August 1.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Rogers, W. A. Rothrock and family, Mrs. Lucile Clark and Tom Stuart have returned from Chambers creek, where they spent two days fishing. They were camped on the Anderson ranch and report a number of nice catches. They landed a cat fish that weighed between eight and ten pounds.

Prof. G. C. Embry, teacher of Engish at the Agricultural and Mechanical college the past three years, is visiting his sister, Mrs. Ruth Williams. Mr. Embry said that of the forty odd graduates this year all who desired positions had secured splendid places. He said that $155 would pay all expenses of one term in the A. & M. college.
