Everything starts out lovely in this good old town on this Monday. Fact is, this old town is all right every day in the week, and is especially good on Sundays.

Let the officers keep after the loafers and the vagrants. Such characters are a standing menace to good government and good order. There is plenty of work in the fields for all idle labor, and to all who will not go to work, the rock pile should be submitted to them.

Imagine a Palestine man going to the Houston Chronicle staff correspondent for instruction as to what a blanket primary is. There isn't a sixteen-year-old boy in this county, who knows anything, but that can tell you what a blanket primary is, and that the people of the state wanted it adopted.

The Commissioner of the General Land Office has completed and printed his list of school lands which go on the market on July 1. There will be over one hundred thousand acres, located in the following counties: Barbera, Brewster, Crane, Crockett, Dimmitt, Duval, Dawson, Ector, Edwards, El Paso, Frio, Garza, Hidalgo, Howard, Irion, Jeff Davis, Kerr, Kimble, Kinney, LaSalle, Lynn, Maverick, Menard, Midland, McMullen, Pecos, Presidio, Reagan, Reeves, Schleicher, Starr, Sterling, Sutton, Tom Green, Upton, Uvalde, Val Verde, Ward, Webb, Yoakum, Zapata and Zavala.—Bryan Eagle.

Old John D. Rockefeller contributed $100,000 to the relief of sufferers from the San Francisco earthquake. Now, this would have been real generous on the part of John had it not been for another accompanying fact: John caused the price of oil to be raised one-half a cent a gallon. John made his contribution on April the 19th, the day following the disaster.

He signed the order increasing the price of oil that same day and it became effective April 20. One-half cent a gallon is not much, but it is sufficient to pay back to John his $100,000 contribution in three days' time. The increase was made ten days ago, and is still in vogue. Now, really, did he make or lose by the donation?

A Houston Post staff correspondent has discovered after a lapse of more than a week that the speech of Hon. T. M. Campbell delivered at Athens is too vague and too mystifying for the average mind to grasp its meaning. He has the sympathy of thousands of clear minded people all over Texas, who have had no trouble in getting Mr. Campbell's meaning. If there ever was a straight-forward political speech delivered in Texas we think Mr. Campbell made it in Athens. The Post correspondent was indeed straining at an excuse to attack the merits of such a speech when he could find no better argument against it than that it was beyond comprehension.

Texas towns have gone clean entirely teetotally daft on skatin' rinks. All other business paralyzed. No more new houses—lumber all engaged way ahead to build skating rinks. Carpenters quitting all other jobs and dropping dead 'tween midnight and day from overwork on skatin' rinks. Noise of freight trains drowned by roller skates and folks being run over and ground into mince meat. Express trains just before reaching Noogadelpia where the skate factory is located, robbed of seven million dollars—all skate money. Ships bringing army surgeons home from the Philippines to bind up broken bones of the amateur skaters. Burglars reaping a harvest—nobody at home, all gone to the skatin' rink. Editors confused and hardly able to write the exact truth about skatin' rinks. It's awful! Awful! But skatin's bully old fun.—Abilene Farmer's Journal.

HON. T. M. CAMPBELL AND THE GOVERNORSHIP.

In Tom Campbell there is material of the Jim Hogg stripe. He is for the people and in favor of making trusts and corporations obey the laws. A thing they haven't had to do since Hogg was in the saddle.—Athens Banner.

Hon. T. M. Campbell, candidate for Governor, opened his campaign with a speech at Athens last Saturday. His speech was published in full in the daily papers of Sunday, and was one of the ablest which has been delivered by a candidate for this office since the days of James S. Hogg.—Mt. Pleasant Times-Review.

Tom Campbell's opening address in his campaign for Governor of Texas at Athens last Saturday was a masterful presentation of the issues of the day, and his critics find but little in it to condemn—in fact, nothing. Those who know Tom Campbell know that he meant every word he said, and realize that if he is made Governor of Texas he will carry out every reform mentioned if he is supported by the right kind of a legislature.—Madisonville Meteor.

Hon. Thomas M. Campbell of Anderson county opened his campaign for governor last Saturday at Athens. The speech was a great state paper and every citizen of Texas should read it and reflect on governmental problems. The average citizen only wants good government and the protection of his home, life and property. Campbell stands for the rights of the people—he ought to be elected Governor as a rebuke to the machine and selfish interests.—Georgetown Commercial.

From perusing the editorial page of the Waco Tribune one would be impressed that the talented editor of that excellent journal may be numbered in the Campbell column for Governor. It is not surprising, as Bro. McCollum has always impressed us as a man of good business sense and sound judgment, and in proclaiming the merits of a man like Tom Campbell, it is only further evidence that we have not been mistaken in our estimation of the man. If Tom Campbell is not the next Governor of Texas the man who is will not have much to "brag" over. And in saying this no reflection is intended to be cast on the other candidates. Every one is fully worthy and qualified to fill the exalted position, but just at present we are inclined to favor Tom Campbell over the others. We like his style, we like the reputation he bears for honesty and firmness, two very important requisites for Governor.—Stamford (Jones County) Tribune.

While there are chronic office holders who have fed at the public crib ever since the civil war, have provided for relatives, and would, when obliged to give up a soft snap, pass it on to a favorite, T. M. Campbell has never held public office. He is no barnacle on the ship of State, but will bring to his work the strength of fresh enthusiasm.—Eagle Lake Headlight.

That opening speech of Tom Campbell's at Athens meets with the approval of the boys in the "forks." His position on the trust problem and railroad matters is very plain. In fact Tom Campbell is a very plain man, and is the candidate of the common people.—Nacogdoches Sentinel.

Avoid the candidate for office who cannot give you an honest answer upon the question of greatest interest to the common people of Texas. The reader will please observe that Tom Campbell, Democratic candidate for Governor, is opposed to the railroads regulating the laws of the state, and to this end he has to pay his way while touring the state. He is bitterly opposed to the nuisance of free passes to state and county officials and points out the possible evil this habit may lead to.—Nacogdoches Sentinel.

Notice, Physicians.

POLITICS AND POLITICIANS.

Interesting Items Gathered For Herald Readers.

Politics in Wisconsin is shaping for the first general primary election in September, when the parties will make their nominations by direct vote. Governor J. O. Davidson is the leading Republican candidate for that office, with Speaker L. L. Lenroot, the LaFollette personal choice, second, and State Senator J. J. McGillivray and State Chairman W. D. Connor also in the race.

William H. McFall is the candidate of the Socialists for governor of New Hampshire.

Illinois Prohibitionists have held their state convention and named candidates for the offices to be filled at the state election next fall. Of the three candidates named for trustees of the state university two are women.

Republicans of the First congressional district of Oregon have named W. C. Hawley of Salem to succeed Binger Hermann, who loses his seat in congress as a result of his alleged complicity in the land frauds.

The Republicans of Kansas meet in Topeka this week to name a state ticket. Despite the early talk of opposition every sign points to the re-nomination of Governor Hoch.

Three of the Republican state officers of Wisconsin are candidates for third terms this year, a situation unprecedented in the history of the state.

"Makes me Bilious"

Is said of "green beer"—not of Schlitz.

Schlitz beer is aged in glass enameled steel tanks for months before it is marketed. Fermentation is finished long before you get it.

That is an apparent virtue. But the chief distinction of Schlitz is its purity—a virtue that you can't see. Yet the cost of that purity exceeds all other costs

Ask for the Brewery Bottling.
Common beer is sometimes substituted for Schlitz.
