PORTUGUESE RULERS IN THE PUBLIC EYE

SITUATION HAS BECOME VERY GRAVE, AND REPUBLIC MAY BE PROCLAIMED AT ANY TIME.

Special to the Herald.
London, July 6.—The news from Lisbon this week has been of the gravest character. The situation has become so acute, indeed, that London would not be surprised to learn at any moment that King Carlos has been forced to leave Portugal, and that a republic had been proclaimed at Lisbon. Still, the fat and jolly King Carlos has weathered many a storm during the past few years, and he may be able to pull through the present crisis.
But when the principal newspapers of a monarchial country begin to hold up their sovereign to public obloquy as a "manifest coward," as an "incapable fool," and loudly demand that he take his departure and make way for the establishment of a republic, the "only form of government consistent with human dignity," common sense suggests the possibility of a revolution and the overthrow of the throne as at hand.

Peasantry Are Discontented.
For a long time past there has been growing discontent among the peasantry, due to the excessive and ever-increasing taxation to which they are subjected. It is safe to say that they will cheerfully welcome and submit to any change of rulership, no matter what it is, that will tend to alleviate the crushing burden of imposts with which they are at present literally overwhelmed. As for the urban population, it is republican to the very core. The chambers of commerce and the chambers of manufactures, the associations of wine growers and wine dealers, the industrial guilds, the banking classes, the legal and medical professions, the faculties and students of the various universities and colleges, may even the very officers and soldiers of the army, particularly the scientific branches of the latter, are nearly all openly professed foes of the monarchy, and acknowledged republicans, who are firmly convinced that Portugal will never recover her former prosperity, as well as her prestige among the nations of the universe, unless she adopts a form of government that exercises a less blighting influence upon the life of the people than the deplorable rule of the house of Braganza. As for the urban labor element, it is almost wholly socialistic.

Carlos Not to Blame.
Really, Carlos is not responsible for this state of affairs. He is a fat and lazy fellow, good natured and easy-going, and probably would be happy if he were well rid of his job, provided he received a good sized pension for himself and family. It has always been said that the political ideas of King Carlos are liberal and progressive, but unfortunately he lacks the energy and courage of his convictions. His chief desire is to worry himself as little as possible about the condition of public affairs. He is extremely fond of sport and pleasure. He is a first rate shot, can use his fists in the most approved style, is an adept both with the pencil and the brush, and is a splendid swimmer and diver. His appetite is proportionate to his size, and he is the biggest and fattest of all the monarchs of Europe.

Queen an Able Woman.

Carlos is said to be faithful to his wife. Gossips have it that he is in too great fear of her not to be, if he were inclined otherwise. Queen Amelie is homely, being large-boned and tall, with prominent features, but she has a good deal of political sagacity, more than any other, perhaps, of the Orleans family. Some of the Orleansists say that if she had been born a man she would be King of France.
But she has a hard enough time of it to keep her own throne. She is very fond of every kind of sport, is strong minded, and smokes strong cigars. Yet she is domestic, as she shows by occasionally making her own dresses, and she learned medicine in order to properly care for one of her children, who was suffering from an incurable illness. Her strong common sense has saved Portugal from many a financial and political crisis, and she may be said to be the real master of Portugal today.

Fatality Pursues Braganzas.

Such is the pair that rules Portugal. But over them there seems to hang the fatality that has pursued the house for the last two generations. Queen Stephanie's death in 1880, King Louis's death in 1889, and the supposed death of her husband, King Don Joa, died by poison, as did Prince Ferdinand. Don Augustus and King Luis were also poisoned, but escaped death, although the latter never recovered from its effects and remained an invalid to the day of his death.
The traditions of the house of Portugal from first to last have not been such as to make the people anxious for a continuance of their rule. That a republic will be proclaimed at no distant date is the prevailing belief among Englishmen well acquainted with the situation in Portugal.

To Revive Life of the Middle Ages.

Special to the Herald.
Berlin, July 6.—At Eisenbach there was opened today a notable festival in celebration of the seven hundredth anniversary of the Sangerkrieg on the historical Wartburg and of the birth of St. Elizabeth of Eisenbach, a celebration for which the Central states of Germany have been preparing for a year past.

The festival is to last three days, during which time the life of the Middle Ages is to be followed out in closest detail. The inhabitants of the castle will not only be clothed in thirteenth century costumes, but thousands of the inhabitants of Eisenbach have agreed to follow the example. The days are to be devoted to contests of song, while the evenings will be given over to popular games and the roasting of oxen. One of the most interesting events will be the procession next Monday, when the townspeople in costume will march up to the castle, where they will be received by the Grand Duke of Saxo-Weimar and his court.

Admiral Reiter Retires.

Special to the Herald.
Washington, July 6.—Rear Admiral George C. Reiter closed his active career in the navy today, having been transferred to the retired list by operation of the law on account of age. Admiral Reiter comes from Pennsylvania and graduated from the United States naval academy in the class of 1865. He has seen service in many parts of the world, and during the past five years has commanded the battleship Wisconsin and served as a member of the lighthouse board.

NEWS FORECAST OF THE COMING WEEK

QUIETUDE PREVAILS AT WASHINGTON—CONVENTIONS TO BE HELD AT DIFFERENT PLACES.

Special to the Herald.
Washington, July 6.—With the president settled at Oyster Bay and the members of the cabinet and other high officials scattered to their homes throughout the country, the National capital has entered upon its customary period of midsummer dullness.

Several large conventions will attract public attention during the week. The most important of these gatherings will be the International Christian Endeavor convention at Seattle, the golden jubilee convention of the National Educational Association at Los Angeles, and the triennial convocation of the Knights Templar at Saratoga.

King Edward and Queen Alexandra will start Tuesday for a visit to Wales and Ireland, which will keep them away from England for about a week.

Several events of interest to sports and athletics are scheduled for the week. The National amateur golf championship will be played over the links of the Euclid Golf Club at Cleveland during the five days beginning Tuesday.

The fourth annual tour of the Automobile Association of America for the Glidden and Hower trophies will start from Cleveland next Wednesday and will end at New York two weeks later.

The National Rifle Association's meeting at Bisley will begin Monday and continue until July 20. The contestants will represent England, Canada, India, Australia and other portions of the British Empire.

BULLDOG KILLED A CHILD.

Animal Took the Baby from Cradle and Mutilated it.

Guthrie, Ok., July 4.—A savage bulldog entered the home of Don Manning at Durham last night and took from the cradle and killed a 2-year-old child of Mr. Manning's which had been left asleep in the house by its mother. The father, working nearby, responded to the child's crying, but arrived too late. The child was horribly mutilated.

Letter from Prof. Bryan.

Springfield, Mo., July 4, 1907.
Messrs. Hamilton—Gentlemen: Accept my congratulations for your many and frank presentation of the unfortunate conditions of Palestine's school question as presented in your editorial of June 16, headed "Solution."

Springfield being my headquarters, I travel over a territory of 200 miles' radius. I have made inquiry into the conditions here relative to the school fund and school tax question.
Lebanon, Mo., a town of 2500 inhabitants, levies 7 1/2 mills or 75c on $100 worth of taxable property. Marshallfield, 1500 inhabitants, levies 8 mills or 80c on $100; Springfield levies 10 mills or $1 on $100; Topeka, Kan., levies 12 mills or $1.20 on the $100.
None of the cities or towns that I have visited levies less than 7 mills or 70c on the $100.
Palestine levies 2 1/2 mills or 25c on the $100.

How does this sound to those who are interested in Palestine, her citizenship and the uplift of humanity in general?
With kindest personal regards, I am very truly,
R. D. Bryan.

Episcopal Church Workers.

Special to the Herald.
North Adams, Mass., July 6.—The fourth summer conference of Episcopal church workers opened here today, to continue until July 21. The conference is held under the auspices of the Seabury Society of New York, an organization named after the first Episcopal bishop of America.

Prominent among the speakers to be heard at the session this year are Bishop Tuttle of Missouri, Bishop Vinson of Western Massachusetts, Bishop Partridge of Japan, Bishop McVicker of Rhode Island, George Foster Peabody, Rev. Dr. William C. Brown of Brooklyn, Rev. Dr. E. H. Wellman of Brooklyn, and Rev. Dr. Randolph H. McKim of Washington, D. C.

HURLED TO DEATH.

Three Miners at Spring Valley, Ill., Instantly Killed.

Spring Valley, Ill., July 4.—Three men were hurled down the shaft of the La Salle County Coal company yesterday, and were instantly killed. The shaft is 252 feet deep. Four men were descending in a cage with a load of iron pipe when the chain broke. William Smart, foreman of the crew, managed to save himself by grasping the chain. Hogan Johnson and Chas. Agnew were taken out dead. A long iron pipe was driven through the body of Frank Bassalla, nailing the body to the wall of the mine 72 feet from the bottom, where the corpse hung suspended all night.

Brushy Creek.
Special to the Herald.

Brushy Creek, Texas, July 1.—We have had timely rains in the greater part of the county, and the crop prospects have improved, but the boll weevil is present in large numbers. Some seem to think that they are leaving. We would be glad indeed to bid him good-bye, and that he might never return.

There is some sickness in the community; the measles, whooping cough and mumps prevail in and around Poynor.

Jno. M. Herrington, an old citizen of this county, died on Thursday, June 20, and was buried the next day at Olive Branch cemetery. A large crowd of relatives and friends were present. He was 71 years old, and had come to this county about fifty-seven years ago. He went to Virginia early in 1861, where he remained until the surrender of Appomattox. He then returned to his home and has been here since that time. He was a good citizen, and possessed a rigid honesty that commended him to all good men.

Dr. Shoemaker has gone on a visit to his son in Hill county, for rest and in the interest of his health. We hope to see him return soon with improved health.

On Thursday night, June 27, we had a considerable storm in this community; wind, rain and hail came down in quantities. Considerable timber was blown down, and the dwelling of Will Warren, a very worthy negro, was blown down, destroying all the furniture he had, and came near killing himself, wife and baby. They were saved by the bedstead holding the timbers of the building off them. Some of the roof of the building was blown onto his buggy that was standing near the house, and in a manner destroyed it. The hail did considerable damage to the crops. Mr. Joiner, who lives about a mile south of Poynor, had an exceptionally good crop, but the hail has about destroyed it. Mr. Pruitt had two acres of cantaloupes that were about ready to be shipped, and they were all destroyed. Several other crops were damaged more or less.

This part of the county is very well represented at the Jacksonville Normal, Miss Lizzie Herrington, Mrs. J. M. Patterson, and Mrs. J. C. Miller.

Robert Mills are from Brushy Creek. Several from Frankston are in attendance also. The attendance is large. I understand that Prof. Walter Quick will teach the Brushy Creek school as principal, and Mrs. Mollie Patterson as assistant. Prof. Jno. Oldham will teach the Pine Hill school. Mrs. Carrie Murphey will teach the Elmton school. Miss Ethel Atkinson will teach the Clear Springs school, near Pert.

Benny Parmer, who was born and raised here, but now claims Palestine as his home, paid a visit to us not long ago, coming on foot until he reached Joe Moffitt's at old Fosterville; he here conceived the idea of riding awhile, and as Joe was asleep he did not wish to disturb him, so he caught up a mare, and with her colt and a mule following he went on to Poynor. There he decided that he needed some medicine, and not wishing to disturb the druggist, Mr. Rob Dickerson, he managed to get into the store, taking such things as suited his fancy. He then returned by the same road that he had gone up. At Brushy Creek he stopped and went into the drug store, helping himself to jewelry, knives, etc. He left the mare he had been riding hitched there and went on. At Mr. Arthur Reeves' he again became weary, and not having time to sit down and rest he borrowed Mr. Reeves' horse and rode it some distance and abandoned it. The next night, after arriving in Palestine he was apprehended by Deputy Sheriff Jambrell, and he is now waiting for his turn to go down the road. Benny may have intended this trip all as a joke, but if so I am afraid that it will set as a boomerang.

On July 4 the Frankston people are planning for a big day. The Woodmen are to give a barbecue, and a large crowd will be there. That would be a good place for a hungry editor to be, and I would bet on Brother Yantis being there, and the Hamilton boys might be profited by the visit. Frankston is a good little town, and it is growing.
The Baptist brethren are having a meeting at Frankston now. Do not know just how long it will last.
Mr. Sam Beard, who has been postmaster there ever since an office has been there, has resigned, and Mr. Garrett has been appointed in his stead. Mr. Beard has many friends there who regret to see him give up the office, but he concluded that it would be of benefit to his health for him to get out on a farm.
The saw mill industry seems to be in a flourishing condition thereabouts. Several new mills going up, and a new planer will soon be put in operation by Mr. Lacy, who has bought the output of several mills and contemplates building another soon in order to get work for his planer.
Wm. Foster Lodge No. 312, located at Frankston, installed officers for the ensuing Masonic year on June 24. Dr. Lloyd, district deputy grand master, was present.
Mr. B. C. Cely and his wife are on a visit to relatives and friends in South Carolina. Mr. Cely is thinking of returning from the mercantile business soon.
