MANY LIVES A CHANCE ARE LOST FOR MINERS

DEATH ROLL IN FIRE BELT MAY REACH ONE THOUSAND—ONLY RAIN CAN STOP FIRES, AND RAIN IS NOT PROBABLE.

Warroad, Minn., Oct. 10.—At least two hundred persons have perished in the forest fires raging in this district for the past three days, and the death roll, when all of the names have been secured, may reach between seven hundred and one thousand, according to information received here today.

Only rain can stop the flames, and rain is not very probable at this season of the year.

The towns so far destroyed are Beaudette, Spooner, Swift, Graceton, Roosevelt, Pitt, Cedar Spur, and possibly others.

Lumbermen estimate the loss at six thousand dollars to the square mile, and practically three thousand mines have been burned.

Frightful Forest Fires.

Rainy River, Ontario, Oct. 9.—This town was on fire today from the international bridge to Sixth street, a distance of a half mile. Included in the burned area are the Rat Portage Lumber company's mill and lumber yard, containing 10,000,000 feet of lumber; the Western Canada Flour Milling company, and surrounding buildings.

Fifty houses were destroyed and scores of people are homeless. Fire is raging in the woods as far as can be seen along both banks of Rainy River.

If the wind remains in the north it is possible the rest of Rainy River will be saved. Most of Old Beaudette, situated in Minnesota, and the international bridge have so far escaped the fire, as well as the building of the Shevlin-Mathis Lumber company at Spooner, through the activity of the Canadian Northern Railroad company.

Most of the women and children of these towns have been taken on special trains to points east and many more are on steamers ready to leave should the wind change and the fire spread.

The fire, driven by a furious north-west wind, is beyond control and must burn itself out.

While a wind is sweeping a sea of fire eastward on the north side of the Rainy river at a velocity of fifty miles an hour, the great body of flames has passed this section, revealing a calamity that already reaches the proportions of an international disaster.

Sixty blackened crops have been found in the path of the flames, and a vast area is yet to be searched for the dead, while the towns of Spooner, Beaudette and Pitt have been totally destroyed, with a property loss that cannot be intelligently calculated at present.

With the exception of the destruction of the mills and stock of the Rat Portage Lumber company, Rainy River, although in the course of the flames, escaped great damage. The flames touched a corner of the town, but the principal loss is confined to the south side of the river and was chiefly sustained along the American border.

BELIEVED THERE IS SOME HOPE FOR THE ENTOMBED MINERS IN MINE OF COLORADO FUEL AND IRON COMPANY.

(Herald Special.)

Starkville, Colo., Oct. 10.—There is a chance, though slight, that the miners entombed by the explosion in the Colorado Fuel and Iron company's mine here, may be alive. By use of the gigantic fan installed in the main tunnel the rescuers were able today to gain one mile on the "after damp," which filled the mine. State Mine Inspector Jones, in charge of the rescue work, said he hoped to reach the point of explosion this afternoon. The mine is one of the largest in the state and contains numerous crosscuts and airways, and it is believed possible that some of the miners, if not caught by the explosion, were able to find refuge in these secluded chambers formed by the labyrinth of tunnels.

Early Report.

Starkville, Colo., Oct. 9.—Entombed by an explosion in the Starkville mine of the Colorado Fuel and Iron company, at least fifty-two men are the objects of heroic effort of rescuers who worked throughout today trying to penetrate the black depths of the mine in the hope that some, or probably all, of the imprisoned miners might be rescued alive.

The presence of black damp, which almost invariably follows in the wake of coal mine explosions, made the work of the rescuers extremely hazardous and time and again today members of parties were overcome, necessitating a retreat to the open air in order that their lives could be saved.

Late this afternoon those superintending the work of rescue decided that none should enter the mine until a medium of protection in the shape of a portable fan was installed and rescue work was called off for the time being. The fan reached the portal of the mine at 4 o'clock and under the supervision of the chief electrician of the Colorado Fuel and Iron company, was mounted upon an electric motor car and gradually pushed forward into the new slope, working as it went, driving the gas ahead and, as was hoped, to an airshaft thousands of feet inside the mine, where it might escape into the open air.

The greatest caution possible was exercised that the motor carrying the fan should not be advanced too rapidly and a sudden rush of gas, or kick-back, overwhelm the men operating the machine and snuff out their lives.

A touching feature of the rescue work was the self-sacrifice and devotion to duty of James Wilson, superintendent of the Starkville mine, who left a sick bed to lead the men who bravely volunteered to face the deadly black damp that their entrapped comrades should be rescued dead or alive.

TROUBLE STILL BREWING

In Honduras — Honduran Soldiers Have Taken Charge of American Mines Against Owners.

(Herald Special.)

New Orleans, La., Oct. 10.—A private message received today from Central America indicates that trouble continues in Honduras. A cablegram declares that Honduran soldiers have taken possession of the American mines above Amalpa at the order of the commandante. The mine managers today sent tugs down the river to Amalpa, where they hope to secure United States marines from the gunboat Princeton and bring them up to the mines and recover the property.

Ely Has More Trouble.

(Herald Special.)

Chicago, Oct. 10.—Aviator Ely narrowly escaped injury in lighting this morning. His engine went dead when he was five hundred feet high, and he glided to the ground, lighting in an open field, but striking in a ditch. The lifting planes of the machine were broken. The aviator expects to resume his flight this afternoon.
