OFFICIAL PAPER OF SOCORRO COUNTY.

SATURDAY, APRIL 12, 1902.

New Mexico demands statehood of the 9th congress.

The President's Exercise.

A mounted police sergeant, who patrols a stretch of wooded country near Washington, believes that a recent experience gave him a greater shock than anything which happened during his Civil War service. While riding over the most lonely part of this region one day, he saw two small children playing in the woods. The fact attracted his attention because there were no houses near, nor was any carriage in sight. Soon he saw a man, to whom the children evidently belonged, sitting on a rock, with what looked like a shawl wrapped about him.

The police officer approached the party, as was his duty, to make inquiries. The gentleman answered courteously. The officer seemed still puzzled, and then the man added, quietly, that he was the President.

"I came near falling off my horse," remarked the sergeant, in relating the incident, "to think that with the pictures of Theodore Roosevelt everywhere I should not know him when we talked face to face."

Unlike most people, Presidents of the United States, in getting out-of-door recreation, have to seek privacy at the same time. The glaring light that constantly beats on the presidential office makes it a pleasure to get away at times from the haunts of men—from the plague of the snapshot and the intrusion of the press.

President Harrison used to take long strolls about Washington, accompanied by his private secretary, but he sought the less frequented streets. President McKinley occasionally, but perhaps less often, took this form of recreation. President Cleveland, during his second term, rarely left the White House grounds except in a carriage, but once in the country, he was very fond of hunting and fishing.

The early Presidents as a rule found most of their recreation in horseback-riding. Washington was a small city, and its rural environs were readily reached. President Roosevelt rides horseback a great deal, and also takes long tramps across the country. He is more athletic than most of his predecessors, and consequently more dependent on vigorous exercise to relieve the weariness of the importunities to which he is constantly subjected during office hours.—Youth's Companion.

The Allied People's Party.

The new political organization formed in the convention which has just been held in Louisville will have to shorten its name if the name is to be popularized. The Allied People's party, which is its official designation, is too long for ready use. It will have to be the Allied party or the People's party. The latter was the official name of the Populist party, but the term Populist soon attached itself to it. The Allied People's party is composed chiefly of members of the Populists and of the extreme left of the Democracy. It had its rise in the municipal canvass in St. Louis in 1901, but, of course, it will get adherents, and has already got them, from all sections of the country.

A little closer drift toward pure or impure socialism is made by the Allied People's party than was made by the Populists. Its doctrines include Populism, plus government ownership of all sorts of public utilities. Many of the men who are its leaders were identified with the Populist organization, some of the others were Democrats, and there was a sprinkling of socialists and other brands of radicals among them. The chances that a party representing so many different sorts of "reforms" will hang together until 1904 may seem to many persons outside of that coalition to be rather dubious, but there is no doubt at all that the men who are at the head of it are enthusiastic and aggressive.

The chances are that the Allied People's party will hit the Democracy much harder than it will the Republicans. Most of its adherents will be drawn from the elements which otherwise would support the Democratic ticket. Most of the Populists fused with the Democrats, whether they were drawn from the Republican or the Democratic party. There has been a tendency recently toward a disintegration of the Populist party, its members in most cases going back to the parties to which they originally belonged. Probably the Populists as such will not figure to any considerable extent in the canvass of 1904, but the Allied People's party may attract some of their voters, and thus wield enough strength to arouse a good deal of interest in the campaign.—Inter-Ocean.

A Surplus of $100,000,000.

It is evident now that the prediction of Secretary Gage made in his report to Congress last December about the excess of revenue for the fiscal year will be verified. In the nine months which have just ended of the fiscal year the government's receipts exceeded expenditures to the extent of $61,000,000. At a proportionate rate of increase for the next three months, the excess at the end of June would be considerably short of the $100,000,000 mark, but the last quarter of a fiscal year almost always shows a broader margin of receipts over expenditures, when there is any such margin at all, than does the earlier part of the year. At this time last year the margin was only $42,000,000, while the surplus on June 30 was $79,000,000.

The revenue reduction bill which has recently passed Congress will cut down the receipts of the government to the extent of $70,000,000 or $75,000,000, it is estimated. This would still leave a margin of $25,000,000 or over, according to the present outlook. It is well to bear in mind, however, that the expenditures of the government for the next fiscal year will almost certainly be considerably in excess of those of the year which will end three months hence. Work will probably begin on an isthmian canal some time in the next fiscal year. A Pacific cable will probably be started in the year. The far West is asking for irrigation, and its appeal ought to be granted. If it is granted, another large sum of money in excess of present outlays will have to be made.

It is well for the Republicans, who compose the dominant party, and who are responsible for the management of the government, to keep these facts in mind. The reduction in taxation has been made, and the country will have to adjust itself to the situation which will thus be created. A surplus of $30,000,000 or $40,000,000 is always a handy thing for a government to have. In a growing country, like ours, there are always demands on the treasury which the law-makers may not discern far in advance, or if discerned, may be overlooked. It is to be hoped that Congress was not too precipitate in its sweeping repeal of all the war taxes. The repeal of the taxes will make an effective argument for the Republicans in the congressional canvass of 1902, but let the Republicans of Congress see to it that there shall be no treasury shortage next year or the year after to be used against the party in 1904.—Globe-Democrat.

Kilkenny Cats.

During the rebellion which occurred in Ireland in 1798, or it may be in 1803, Kilkenny was garrisoned by a troop of Hessian soldiers, who amused themselves in barracks by tying two cats together by their tails and throwing them across a clothesline to fight. The officer, hearing of the cruel practice, resolved to stop it. As he entered the room one of the troopers, seizing a sword, cut the tails in two as the animals hung across the line. The two cats escaped minus their tails through the open window, and when the officer inquired the meaning of the two bleeding tails being left in the room he was coolly told that two cats had been fighting and had devoured each other, all but the tails.

DISTILLING OF BRANDY.

Father Coudert of Bernalillo Tells History of a Bottle of Brandy.

MAKING OF CHAMPAGNE.

Rev. Father Coudert, of Bernalillo, Bernalillo county writes Captain Solomon Spiegelberg of Santa Fe, as follows:

"I find in The Citizen of Albuquerque a quotation from the Santa Fe Daily New Mexican, which interested me very much and I clipped it wishing to keep it. It says: 'Solomon Spiegelberg today opened a bottle of brandy presented to him in 1865 by Archbishop Lamy, etc.' I think that I can give the history of that bottle better than anybody else because I had manufactured it at Albuquerque in 1862. I took it with me to Santa Fe in 1863 and bottled it after a trip to California in 1864. The brandy was pure and was distilled in an old copper still which has not been in use for over twenty years. It was pure excepting a few bits of cummin, which gave it a bitter aromatic, astringent taste, very agreeable and a good stomachic. The industry of making brandy in the Rio Grande valley has not gone out of existence. I could furnish you with 100 gallons of the same kind in packages of ten gallons. I do not engage in the manufacture of the brandy for profit or speculation, but only not to lose the material I have and at the same time to encourage the industry that might be built up right here in New Mexico. I would be very much pleased to transfer it to somebody else and with pleasure I would teach him the experience I have acquired in the more than forty-five years I have spent in this territory. I would let my laboratory free to some industrial school together with an account of my experience in that industry which may be useful some day in the upbuilding of this industry, or such industry as the making of champagne, as the grapes here have the same properties as those of Chartreuse. Liquor of quince, etc., could also be manufactured and be made profitable."

Notice to Tax Payers.

All tax payers of the city of Socorro are requested to make their returns during the month of April, otherwise the assessor will make out such returns and add twenty-five per cent.

Respectfully,
BENJ. SANCHEZ.

BROKER HELD FOR FORGERY.

Charles J. Leonard Was Convicted and Sentenced for Six Months Friday Morning.

Charles J. Leonard, a ticket broker, was convicted of forgery in the fourth degree before Judge Ryan Friday morning, and sentenced to imprisonment in the jail for six months.

Leonard ran a ticket broker's office in Market street. Last summer the police raided his place and seized a lot of railroad tickets alleged to have been forged. From the evidence the jury was convinced that the tickets were forgeries and found Leonard guilty.—Post-Dispatch, 3-7, 1902.

Front Street, Nome.

It's a little zigzag street. Every building was erected according to an independent notion as to frontage and rearage. The effect is startling, and after negotiating a few blocks of it you feel like "the crooked man who walked the crooked mile." On sunshiny days the entire population sallies forth and occupies the sidewalk, overflows into the street and down the little byways on to the beach, with dogs filling all the intermediate space on the ground floor.—Seattle Times.

A WORTHY SUCCESSOR.

"Something New Under The Sun."

All Doctors have tried to cure catarrh by the use of powders, acid gases, inhalers and drugs in paste form. Their powders dry up the mucous membranes causing them to crack open and bleed. The powerful acids used in the inhalers have entirely eaten away the same membranes that their makers have aimed to cure, while pastes and ointments cannot reach the disease. An old and experienced practitioner who has for many years made a close study and specialty of the treatment of catarrh, has at last perfected a Treatment which when faithfully used, not only relieves at once, but permanently cures catarrh, by removing the cause, stopping the discharges, and curing all inflammation. It is the only remedy known to science that actually reaches the afflicted parts. This wonderful remedy is known as "Snuffles, the guaranteed catarrh cure" and is sold at the extremely low price of One Dollar, each package containing internal and external medicine sufficient for a full month's treatment and everything necessary to its perfect use.

"Snuffles" is the only catarrh cure ever made and is now recognized as the only safe and positive cure for that annoying and disgusting disease. It cures all inflammation quickly and permanently and is also wonderfully quick to relieve hay fever or cold in the head.

Catarrh when neglected often leads to consumption—"Snuffles" will save you if you use it at once. It is no ordinary remedy, but a complete treatment which is positively guaranteed to cure catarrh in any form or stage if used according to the directions which accompany each package. Don't delay but send for it at once, and write full particulars as to your condition, and you will receive special advice from the discoverer of this wonderful remedy regarding your case without cost to you beyond the regular price of "Snuffles" the "Guaranteed catarrh cure."

Sent prepaid to any address in the United States or Canada on receipt of One Dollar. Address Dept E 117, Edwin B. Giles & Company, 2330 and 2332 Market Street, Philadelphia.

State Conclave, Knights Templar. For the Texas state conclave, Knights Templar, at El Paso, Texas, tickets will be on sale April 15-16 at $8.35 for the round trip. Return limit April 21.

To Cure Constipation Forever. Take Cascarets Candy Cathartic. No or 50c. If C. C. fail to cure, druggists refund money.

Men and women who have been afflicted with obstinate coughs, bronchitis, bleeding of the lungs, emaciation and weakness, have been perfectly and permanently cured by the use of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. It cures the cough, heals the lungs, and builds up the body with solid flesh.

"When I commenced taking your medicine, eighteen months ago, my health was completely broken down," writes Mrs. Cora L. Sunderland, of Chatsworth, Calvert Co., Md. "At first I could not even walk across the room without pain in my chest. The doctor who attended me said I had long trouble, and that I would never be well again. At last I concluded to try Dr. Pierce's medicine. I bought a bottle of Golden Medical Discovery, took it, and soon commenced to feel a little better than you directed me to take both the Golden Medical Discovery and the Favorite Prescription, which I did. Altogether I have taken eighteen bottles of Golden Medical Discovery, twelve of the Favorite Prescription, and few sticks of Peppermint. I am now almost entirely well, and do all my work without any pain whatever, and can run with more ease than I could formerly."

Dr. Pierce's Common Sense Medical Adviser, in paper covers, is sent free on receipt of 21 one-cent stamps to cover expense of mailing only. Address Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y.

Absent-Minded.

A case of more than usual absent-mindedness happened in St. Louis not long ago. According to Lippincott's Magazine, a pale, nervous young man came into the grocery with his baby on one arm and a kerosene can on the other.

He set the can on the counter and said, gently, "Sit there a moment, dear."

Then, holding the baby out to the dazed clerk, he said, "A gallon of kerosene in this, please."

Good for Rheumatism.

Last fall I was taken with a very severe attack of muscular rheumatism which caused me great pain and annoyance. After trying several prescriptions and rheumatic cures, I decided to use Chamberlain's Pain Balm, which I had seen advertised in the South Jerseyman. After two applications of this remedy I was much better, and after using one bottle, was completely cured.—SALLIE HARRIS, Salem, N. J. For sale by A. E. Howell, Socorro; W. M. Borrowdale, Magdalena.

Chance For Invention.

"Shall I clip your hair a little—at the ends, sir?" asked the barber of his customer, who posed as a wit among his friends.

"I suppose you'll have to," was the sober answer, "unless you've invented some method by which you can clip it out from the middle and save the ends, which are curly. I should prefer that, of course."

A Monster of Fat.

In Vladosta, Ga., recently a hog was killed whose gross weight was 1,260 pounds; his net weight was 955 pounds. Each ham weighed 102 pounds. This fat monster produced 510 pounds of lard, or nearly a tierce and a half—enough to last a small family about four years. Besides the lard, there was nearly a wagon load of sausage from this one pig, to say nothing of big dishpans of hog's head cheese, liver pudding and other products.

PIMPLES

"My wife had pimples on her face, but she has been taking CASCARETS and they have all disappeared. I had been troubled with constipation for some time, but after taking the first Cascaret I have had no trouble with this ailment. We cannot speak too highly of Cascarets. FRED WATKINS, 3709 Germantown Ave., Philadelphia, Pa."

Pleasant, Palatable, Potent, Taste Good, Do Good. Never Sicken, Weaken, or Gripes, etc. 25c. 50c. CURE CONSTIPATION. Neither Candy Cathartic, Chicago, Montreal, New York, 114 No-TO-BAC Sold and guaranteed by all druggists to EX-111, Toronto, Mass.
