Down in Oregon some weeks ago an old farmer's daughter died and the family pastor preached the sermon. In the course of his remarks he said: "Our dear sister has gone to a better land." This made the old man, who was trying to sell out, highly indignant. "A crow never flew over better land than mine," he said. "And, besides, just look at it! I'm offering it for fifty dollars an acre—one-fourth down and lars an acre—one-fourth down and the balance on deferred payments. We with good security." with good security.
