Mrs. Clara Tripp was the recipient, Monday evening, of a happy little surprise party from the Junior Christian Endeavor and her Sunday school class, at the home of her aunt, Mrs. Z. N. Hungerford. Mrs. Tripp expects to leave for her home in Michigan next Friday, and the girls and boys could not think of allowing their beloved leader to depart without expressing to her their love and high regard.

About three months ago Mrs. Tripp reorganized the Junior Endeavor, which ceased to exist, as a distinctive organization, about two years ago. She leaves the society with a large membership and in a flourishing condition.

Mrs. Tripp will be succeeded as Superintendent of the Juniors by Mrs. John Phillips, who, last night, consented to take up this important work with the young people where Mrs. Tripp was compelled to drop it.

For the past four months Mr. Bryant has been suffering from the effects of an acute attack of pleurisy. An abscess had formed in his right side, from which, on Friday afternoon, the surgeons removed two quarts of matter, affording the patient great relief.

Holding Her Own.

Dr. Nieu Kirk spent the time between trains here Monday. He reported that Mrs. Nieu Kirk is holding her own, and is doing as well as could be expected under the circumstances.

The old Tanner residence, which was recently removed from the corner lot on which J. H. Garrett and associates will soon have a business building, has been placed on ground just south of the F. W. Boyd home, and is now occupied by R. W. Bruce and family.

The 86th I. O. O. F. anniversary—Wednesday, April 26—was the occasion of a sociable supper in the evening, all three branches of the order participating. About 80 plates were laid, only Odd Fellows and their families being present.

J. H. Garrett has assumed the interest of his associate in the livery business—Wm. J. De Coursey—and the latter will devote his attention to racing interests until the close of the season. He will then return here and push matters in connection with the thoroughbred stock farm to be established by Garrett & De Coursey.

LIVE STOCK INSPECTOR

Official Business Painfully Punctured by Rheumatism.

F. W. Boyd, Deputy State Live Stock Inspector, who returned Friday after spending eight days in the Little Camas country, is still suffering from rheumatism.

Mr. Boyd reports quarantining a band of about 4500 sheep owned by A. W. Beck, which will necessitate shearing at the present camp. The Inspector says that the scab law was violated by hand-doctoring the sheep and moving them within eight miles of the lambing range.

Two other bands—about 4300 head—belonging to Mr. Beck, are on land just below Dixie, where they were quarantined by the Inspector.
