DRYS WIN OUT AT CLARKSTON

Spring Surprise at Primaries and Nominate Entire Ticket.

Special to the Inter-State News.

Clarkston, Wash., Nov. 21.—The annual primaries were held last evening. According to the call, it was supposed to take place at the city hall, but owing to the large attendance an adjournment was taken to the Masonic hall where the battel opened in earnest.

As soon as the ado was over A. S. Burnett was placed in nomination as chairman and R. B. Hooper for secretary. Both were acceptable to all parties concerned and then business opened.

Nominations for two councilmen for two years were called for and the following were brought forward with the vote each received: W. H. Ferguson, 51; C. W. Hunter, 49; R. M. Yount, 42; D. H. Ransom, 34; J. H. Clear, 14. The two first named receiving a plurality of the vote cast were declared duly nominated.

Then came the struggle for one councilman for one year term. S. T. Ramsey and R. M. Yount were placed in nomination, the former winning by a vote of 57 to 42.

L. S. Lahm was nominated for the office of city treasurer by acclamation.

All in all the evening's work was a complete surprise to the opposition of the cold water element.

After the primaries were over there were several caucuses in various places and just the exact outcome is still a matter of conjecture; only this far, that there will be two tickets in the field and a hot contest is on deck December 5.

The ministers and their faithful followers were out in full force, and let it be said of them, worked hard for the cause they follow.

The real wet element is much concerned, for they fear if the regularly nominated ticket is elected the council will be of a color that will either refuse to grant a liquor license or raise them so high that no one can afford to stay with the ante.

One man declared himself in this wise: "I have the credentials in my possession—$100, that the nominated ticket is defeated, and $100 more that the man who takes me up has poor judgment."

The registration before the primaries showed about 150 entitled to vote, but only 90 of these turned out Monday evening. Both sides claim a majority of the stay-at-home voters. There were no boisterous proceedings and it is surmised that when a few puffs of smoke roll away all will be clearer and come out correct in the grand finale.

Other Clarkston News.

John Getty returned Sunday from Blue Earth, Minn., where he has been operating his threshing apparatus all the fall. John says that Minnesota was all froze up when he left.

The Woodmen lodge gave a dance at their hall after their regular meeting Monday evening which proved a pleasant affair.

William, the 10-year-old son of M. W. Turner, died aturday of typhoid fever. Interment was made in the Clarkston cemetery, Monday at 10:30 a. m.

Clarkston is again without a photograph gallery; the atmosphere or the people proved too chilly to the gang in the tent and the picture takers with a palmistry graft have moved to new fields.

Bud Percival has moved his household effects from his former eventh street residence to Fourth.

Daniel Pigott, of Yankton, S. D., arrived in Clarkston this week and has purchased a section of land near Anatone. He will hold this land for speculation and will make his home in Clarkston.

AS GOOD AS CUBAN TOBACCO

Orofino Product Accorded Flattering Notices at World's Fairs.

"Eastern capitalists have acquired options on several large farms near Orofino and it is their intention to engage extensively in the cultivation of tobacco," reports L. A. Jahnke, a business man of Orofino, who was in the city Monday.

"Orofino people are deeply interested in the successful experiments recently made by Mr. Buckley, whose tobacco took the premium at the St. Louis and Portland world's fairs, at the Spokane fair and at the Lewiston-Clarkston fair last fall. Mr. Buckley, in addition to his premium, received letters from members of the committees on awards at the St. Louis exposition stating that his tobacco is of finer texture than any other tobacco produced in the United States, and comes the nearest to being a Cuban product of any tobacco grown outside that island."

The soil on which this tobacco was grown is very deep and rich. Being near the lake, there is sufficient moisture so that irrigation is not necessary. The climate is warm during the summer months, and altogether conditions are very favorable for the production of such tobacco on an extensive scale.

Mr. Jahnke states that business is increasing at Orofino, the postal receipts for the month of October being larger than any previous month in the history of the town.

TALES FROM THE POLICE COURT.

"I was never drunk in your city before and if you will let me off this time, I can go to work on the ditch," pleaded big Mike Flynn, who appeared before Judge Coburn this morning, charged with having been drunk and disorderly yesterday afternoon.

"But we can give you a job on the streets," sternly replied his honor. Four days was the sentence.

Mike Flynn claims to have been a prize fighter in his palmy days, and Chief Masters will admit that he had the hardest tussle for years in landing Mike in the cooler last night. Ab secured a jujitsu hold on the ex-prize fighter, whose struggles and 200 pounds pounds of avordupois soon had the chief where he would like to have let go, but couldn't. Henry Remer, of the Cash Hardware Co., came to the assistance of the officer, and Mike was quickly placed on a wood wagon and hustled to the station. Mike was sober after a night behind the bars.

"I only took a little beer on an empty stomach," W. L. Allen started in to remark.

"We've heard that story too often," responded the judge. "Four days on the street will sober you up."

"But my shoes will be al worn out by that time; I'll be out of a job with no money, and how can I get home," pleaded the youth who regarded a beer drunk as a very minor offense.

"Line up, big fellow," commanded Officer Tabor, and the trio of yesterday's sprees, including Harry McNee, aged 22, marched out of the court room to serve time on Lewiston's thoroughfares.

Five entries were made the first thing this morning in the big book in the municipal court room, and the "arresting officer" column contained the names of the five members of the police force. There were three drunks and two offenders of the bicycle ordinance. All pleaded guilty.

Frank Moore, whose father conducts a lodging house in Seattle, and a man named Donaldson, were arrested last evening for riding bicycles on the sidewalk. Each increased the city exchequer with a dollar fine.

CHARGE OF ASSAULT TO KILL

Ernest Anderson, of Orofino Cannot Give Bonds and Goes to Jail.

Unable to furnish $1,000 bonds, Ernest Anderson, of Orofino, charged with assault with intent to kill, was placed in the county jail Saturday morning where he must remain until the spring term of court. Believing he had a grievance against J. W. Blake, president of the Fidelity bank at Orofino, Anderson sought to stab Blake last Wednesday, and would have succeeded in his attempt but for a protecting suspender buckle.

P. H. Blake, brother of the bank president, was near at hand and promptly knocked the assailant down. Anderson was given a hearing Friday afternoon before Justice C. J. Williams, and was bound over under $1.00 bonds to appear before the district court. Attorney A. L. Morgan represented the state. Constable Charles Belmer brought Anderson to the city.

Merely a Trifle.

"I suppose your late uncle didn't fail to remember you in his will, said the sympathetic friend.

"You could hardly call it a remembrance," replied the poor relation. "It was more like a faint recollection."

There Are Fads In Corsets

But Not in the HENDERSON

Women buy and wear the Henderson because it is stylish, comfortable, durable and reasonable in price. It's not "the" fad to wear a HENDERSON—for fads are of education.

But It Shows Good Judgment to Wear a HENDERSON.

And we show our good judgment by keeping a full line; models suitable for your figure. We'd be glad to show them, whether you want to buy immediately or not
