A telephone girl saved the lives of many people at Austin, Penn., last week. Telephone girls also save many family squabbles by not telling tales out of the office.

The premiums offered at the Bear Lake county fair are quite liberal, and the breeders of fine stock owe it to themselves to encourage this enterprise by filling the various classes with the best they have got. Those who have met with success in the breeding world should be glad of this opportunity to show the result of their efforts to the public and thus assist in creating an interest in the minds of others for raising better bred stock.

By coming out in a long letter in opposition to the candidacy of Governor Harmon of Ohio, for president, Chairman Nugent of the democratic state central committee, seems to have stirred up a big hornet's nest, and the indications now are that there will be a lively scrap among the "unterrified" in this state over the selection of delegates to the next national convention, and the endorsement of a candidate. Judge Perky of Boise and a number of other leading democrats of the state are for Harmon, and if we guess rightly, they are not going to lay down to Nugent and let him dictate whom the Idaho democratic delegation shall support for president in the convention.

Once again has "the greed for gold" has become directly responsible for the loss of several hundred lives and the destruction of millions of dollars worth of property. Had the men who comprised the company which owned the dam at Austin, Penn., heeded the advice of a prominent engineer and expended $25,000 in repairing their property, the annihilation of life and property would not have occurred. Seemingly for no other purpose than to keep down expenses and pile up dividends, this company went on operating its plant, when it knew that the dam was in an unsafe condition. If this company is not guilty of criminal negligence, then it would be indeed hard to determine what constitutes such a crime.

The mere mention of Judge Alfred Budge as a candidate for supreme judge, has been sufficient to assure his nomination at the hands of the republicans next year at the primaries. It is indeed seldom that a candidate, or aspirant for office, has the following within a few hours after the announcement of his name, that rallied voluntarily to the support of Judge Budge, at Boise last week, when some of his close friends made known the fact that he had consented to the use of his name as a candidate to succeed Judge Stewart on the Supreme bench. He is one of Idaho's best citizens and his support for nomination on the republican ticket for supreme judge, comes from every section of the state—Rigby Star.

Say, "one-two-nine" to central when you want a load of "That Good" is the quickest way to get it.

ROMAN CURES OF TOOTHACHE

Remedies Prescribed Included Head of Mad Dog, Snake's Vertebra and Cabbage Caterpillar.

If it be true that ancient remedies are always the best, it may be of interest to those afflicted with dental troubles to know how the ancient Romans dealt with such ills. The Quirites recognized two types of treatment, the magical and the medical. The following are some of the prescriptions advised by the magicians:

Take the head of a dog that has died of rabies, mix the ash with oil of cyprus and inject the product into the ear of the affected side.

A water snake's vertebra will serve to scarily the gum provid' that it be obtained from a white skinned snake. Or for the purpose may be used a lizard's frontal bone obtained when the moon is full, or, if that fail, a chicken bone will do, provided that it be dried in a hole in a wall and thrown away immediately after used.

It is good treatment to inject into an aching ear oil of lemon, in which has been macerated mallow bugs, even should this last give rise to itching.

A worm fed on a particular herb or a cabbage caterpillar can conveniently be placed in a hollow tooth, but it is equally simple to chew an adder's heart.

Prevention being better than cure, a sovereign preventive will be found in the eating of two rats a month.—The Hospital.

Cole's Hot Blast Draft on top of the fire burns the coal from the top—burns the gas, which is wasted with all other stoves. The force of this down draft forces the heat to the base which is made of steel—cannot burn out—and heats the floor. Thousands of testimonials have been written regarding the base heating qualities of

Cole's Original Hot Blast Heater

The ideal heating stove is one which radiates all the heat thrown off from the fuel—into the rooms—instead of letting it go up the chimney. The durable heater is the one which will withstand the severe use, year after year, which a heating stove is necessarily subjected to. Sheet steel is the quickest radiator of heat and is used as radiating surface only in Cole's Hot Blast heater. Wherever the fuel comes in contact with the linings—only first quality gray cast iron is used. Cast iron withstands the wear of the heat from active combustion better than any other material, and the large, sensitive, sheet metal body and base radiate all the heat into the rooms. Burns Soft Coal, Slack, Lignite, Hard Coal, Wood and lighter fuel. Make your selection now.

Dear Friend:
Have you gone back to school? I have.

What do you have for lunch? I get some nice cookies and chipped beef and cheese and things at the grocery. Mama says its lots nicer and cheaper and lots less trouble than baking up things for me.

And then Mama helps me with my lessons too. And she says that is better than spending so much time in the kitchen.
