1921 GAME LICENSES.

The 1921 fish and game licenses are now on sale at Thiel & Olsen Bros., Modern Drug Store, and the Christian Jewelry store in Montpelier.

Following is an extract from the fish and game law: Section 2686—It shall be unlawful for any person or persons subject to the exceptions hereinafter contained to hunt, trap, or angle, or kill or take any of the wild animals, birds or fish of this state or have in his or her possession any uncased shotgun or rifle while in the fields or forests of the state of Idaho without first having procured a license as hereinafter provided. Provided that nothing in this chapter shall be construed to prohibit the carrying of side arms for the protection of life and property.

The fish and game laws are fully explained on the backs of the licenses.

NEW SALEM BEING REBUILT

Historic Town From Which Abraham Came, Being Reproduced.

We do not want any reader to miss the unusually interesting article entitled "Rebuilding New Salem, Ill., Honest Abe's Town, 1831-37," that will appear in this paper next week. New Salem, on the Sangamon river, near Springfield, was settled in 1828, and was abandoned in 1845. It is now being restored in facsimile for a state park. Lincoln arrived there in 1831. "A stranger, friendless, uneducated, penniless boy," as he himself put it. In 1837 he left to practice law in Springfield. It was during those six momentous years that he earned his nickname of "Honest Abe;" that he studied grammar and law; that he was clerk and storekeeper, deputy surveyor and postmaster; that he served as captain in the Black Hawk War; that he was defeated for the legislature and later elected; that he wooed and won and lost by death Ann Rutledge; that he transformed himself from "a quaint Knight-errant of the pioneers" to a man who gave promise of becoming "a masterpiece of God." You will find this article about the rebuilding of the historic pioneer town well worth reading.

YOUTH MEETS SPRING

When youth and springtime meet in the mind of the designer of millinery we are presented with such conceptions as those in the group of hats shown above. One of the new shiny fabrics makes the draped turban with its audacious drooping bow at the right side. Knife-plaited ribbon is responsible for the cheerful hat in rose color that looks as if it might be made of sea shells at the right. The odd and dashing shape at the left has a satin brim and fancy braid crown with a cluster that comprises fruits, flowers and foliage posed against it. The wide-brimmed braid hat boasts of lovely lines not interfered with by a rosette and ends of satin ribbon posed at the side. These are only four among the myriads of hats made to grace the heads of young women, but from them may be gathered something of the vivacity and the general brightness of new shapes and materials for spring.

ANCIENT EGYPTIAN ANTIQUITIES

(By Lloyd Lehrbas)

In the days when the Sphinx was young and the pyramids still in the course of erection, Egyptian men of affairs had a custom of being buried with hand painted statuettes representing the members of his family and servants, according to a group of mortuary statuettes just installed in the Oriental Institute Haskell Museum, University of Chicago, by Professor James Henry Breasted.

Professor Breasted recently returned from an extended trip to Egypt to collect Egyptian historical and archaeological antiquities. Among the most valuable is a collection of twenty-five painted limestone statuettes that were buried in an ancient tomb with a prominent cemetery official of the Old Kingdom (about 3000-2500 B. C.) when he became mummified 4,500 years ago.

Those in the Collection The collection, as arranged by Professor Breasted includes six portraits of the deceased official and his wife four standing together, and two single statuettes, and members of his family and servants.

Beneath the official and his lesser half are a row of musicians who made wiled music on their three harps and drums. Below the orchestra is a battery of bread makers, revealing the importance of wheat growing on the rich banks of the river Nile. In the middle is a model granary with its row of cylindrical grain bins, each marked with the kind of grain it contains. On either side are grinders operating hand mills, and the takers, sifting molding or kneading loaves.

Cook Shown at Arch A cook is preparing some ancient succulent Egyptian dish on the left of the bottom row, and next to him is a baker poking the fire in his little furnace of baked clay. Next to the right, are two butchers, flaying a gazelle and an ox, soon to become Egyptian stew or beef a la Sphinx.

Prohibition was still centuries and centuries away, and the next statuette is of a beer maker brewing the "home brew" for Pharaoh's next shimmy party.

This collection according to Professor Breasted, formed the most extensive ever discovered in one tomb and is only part of the great collection of Egyptian antiquities brought back to Chicago by the Professor from Cleopatra's happy hunting ground.

"THE FLAPPER" STAR-RING OLIVE THOMAS

Attraction at the Gem Theatre Sat. Matinee and Night

What promises to be a photoplay of rare quality is "The Flapper," a Selznick picture starring Olive Thomas, which will be shown at the Gem theatre one day only, Saturday afternoon and night.

This photoplay, written by Frances Marion, has a delicious romantic and amusing plot, depicting the adventures of a boarding school girl who seeks excitement and "experiences." Her rose of sophistication and "wickedness" involves her in many odd scrapes. She is accused of being the accomplice of burglars in several "hauls." Besides, there are a number of other annoying complications which add zest to the performance and bring joy to the audience.

Olive Thomas displays various moods and various costumes, the latter ranging from school girl costume and saucy pajamas to the wicked outfits of a heart-breaking, home-wrecking adventuress.

There are a number of colorful and picturesque settings, including a snow-skiing scene, beautiful spots in sunny Florida, and an animated scene in the beautiful ballroom and dining room of the new Hotel Pennsylvania, in New York.

See this picture Saturday afternoon or evening.

Value of Mottos.

The object of mottos is to point out something we have not yet attained, yet strive after. It is good to keep them constantly before our eyes—Goethe.

THREE NEW

WESTERN STATES (Col. E. F. Hoffer in the Manufacture.)

Within a decade three new states will be carved out of the immense domain still known as the west.

Two-thirds of the area, four-fifths of the mineral wealth, three-fourths of the water power, and nine-tenths of the timber are in this vast area.

This great two-thirds area which grows the surplus grain and sugar and wool and livestock that feeds and clothes the nation, has only about one-fourth the representation in Congress.

The three new states will be formed from the western slope of Colorado, from Northern Idaho and tributary territory from Washington and Montana, and another from Northern California and Southern Oregon.

These states will be called Lincoln, Columbus and Jefferson, to preserve the great national traditions surrounding these American political heroes, who discovered and founded free America.

SOCIETY

Dr. and Mrs. George F. Ashley will entertain a large number of friends at a dancing party to be given in Staley's Olympic tonight (Thursday.)

The marriage of Miss Venus Williams of Ogden and W. D. Anderson of this city took place in the Salt Lake temple at 12:30 o'clock Wednesday, says the Saturday evening News. The ceremony which was performed by Elder Orson F. Whitney was followed by a wedding breakfast at the home of the bridegroom's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Scott W. Anderson.

The bride wore a navy blue tricot suit with blue hat and boots. She carried pink sweet peas.

In the evening the parents of the bride, Mr. and Mrs. Milford Williams entertained at a reception in honor of the marriage at their home in Ogden. The bride was attended by her sister Miss Lois Williams. William Armstrong was best man. After a short wedding trip Mr. and Mrs. Anderson will be at home at 474 J street.

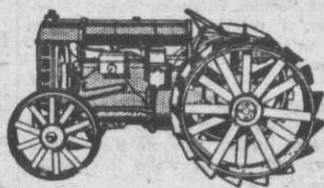

Mr. Ed. Clossner entertained at his home in this city Sunday evening. Music was furnished through out the evening by Albert Fienauer and Ed. Clossner. At twelve o'clock a delicious luncheon was served. Those present were: Mr. and Mrs. Van French, Misses Georgia Alley, Marcella Collette, Thelma Langford, Leda Gortefsky and LaVeri Peed, Messrs. Ioner Jensen, Albert Fienauer, Chas. Schick, Myrie Stevens and Ed. Clossner.

Mrs. Wilbur Bacon and Mrs. Geo. Hoff of Georgetown were visitors to this city Thursday.

Ford-son

More and more every day the demand for the Fordson Tractor increases because the Fordson has demonstrated so much usefulness, so much economy, so much labor saving, so much money saving, along so many lines of activity. The farmer has discovered that not only for plowing, harrowing, discing, seeding, mowing, reaping and threshing, but a multitude of other uses; cutting wood, feed grinding; churning; washing; furnishing water in the house making electric light possible in the house and around the barns; so that as a matter of fact there is hardly an hour in the day when the tractor cannot be made a profitable servant. There is ditching to do; there are roads to fix; and so all down along the line of the numerous calls that constantly face the farmer the Fordson steps in and does the work, shoulders the complete burden of the toil and the hard work, one might say "drudgery."

This is the age of machinery, the day when man plans the day's work, or the year's work, and then turns it over to the Tractor to execute. Get the book, "The Fordson at Work," because it is free. If you cannot call for it, write for it and we will mail it to you. The Tractor is not only a necessity to every farmer but is an established utility along a great many commercial lines. Our allotment is limited to so many each month. Let's have your order now. Price of Fordson Tractor now only $715.00 f. o. b. Montpelier, Idaho.
