

HARDING MOST ECONOMICAL

President Harding is the world's most economical executive. The expenses of running the White House this year will be approximately $216,800. This sum includes the president's salary of $75,000; $80,000 office expenses, consisting of a personnel of approximately 40 clerks, 20 secret service men, messengers and stenographers and a score of other items such as telegrams, telephones, stationery, etc.; $36,000 for contingencies and $25,000 for traveling expenses.

President Harding is effecting a reduction in expenses in the executive offices in line with the policy of economy which he prescribed for other departments. One of the greatest cuts in expense is that of his own traveling bills. The appropriations made by the last congress were based upon the estimates furnished by the former chief executive. Up to date, President Harding has saved over one-third of the allowance made for traveling expenses. One of the first things President Harding did when coming into office was to purchase a large automobile for his private use, upon the ground that he did not feel at liberty to use the government automobile at government expense when he took trips for his own pleasure.

According to a report just issued by the treasury department the actual expenses of the executive offices for July and August, this year, were $91,803 less than for the corresponding months last year.

For simplicity and economy, the White House, under the present administration, sets the world's record. To maintain the office of the president of the United States, who is chairman of the world's largest corporation, costs each individual in this country two and one-half mills per annum.

The annual per capita cost of other departments of the government for the last fiscal year were as follows: War department, $10.50; interest on public debt, $9.51; payment to railroads under government guarantee, $6.96; navy department, $6.19; treasury department, $3.40; postoffice department, $1.28; shipping board, $1.24; agricultural department, $1.14; department of commerce, 30 cents; legislative dept.—the congress, 18 cents; department of justice, 16 cents; state department, 8 cents; department of labor, 8 cents.

It is the purpose of the Harding administration to radically reduce this per capita cost of operating the government and to effect that end is the duty of the budget bureau.

As one of the results of the economy drive by the Harding administration, the use of "official automobiles" has been greatly restricted. Under the former administration, practically every government official, no matter how petty, had an automobile assigned for his use. Hundreds of these automobiles have now been declared surplus property by the government and only those officials who really have need for automobile transportation are allowed free service.

Maud and the Judge.

Maud Muller on a busy day
Bossed the farm hands making hay.
The judge passed by and gave a glance.

It brought no feeling of romance.
And yet he spoke in accents bland.
And even tried to hold her hand.
But what he said, "twixt you and me
Was, "Maud, I hope you'll vote for me."

"THE INSIDE OF THE CUP."

An Unrhymed Review by C. K. U.
Oh, look ye, scoffers all, inside the cup.

And behold the shams and hypocrisies
It reveals to your unaccustomed gaze!

Rich churchmen of predatory instincts

Rule as despots, suavely cruel—
Each makes mockery of the House of God!

Waken to his long forgotten duty.
The rector, fearless and most resentful,

Scathingly grills the pillars of his church

In words that scar and burn most damnably!

Then love—sweet love, enters, while dark vengeance

Overtakes him who had defied God and man!

"The Inside of the Cup," like gold rings true.
Don't fail to see it—you'll enjoy the view.

Ask Some One Who Was There!

On Thursday, October 6th, at the Temple Theatre, Lewiston, the NEW EDISON proved that there is no difference between its RE-CREATION of music and the original music. It was proof that would be good in any court of law.

If you did not attend, take the trouble to find out exactly what happened. Investigate all the details of this drastic test. It was given particularly for the music-lovers of Lewiston,—so that they might know, through their own personal experience, that there is a phonograph which can give them the exact performance of the living artist.

Helen Clark, famous contralto, made the test. She stood on the platform, beside the New Edison. She sang. In the midst of her song, she stopped singing. The New Edison took up the song, and continued it alone. Thus, they alternated,—singer and phonograph.

THE AUDIENCE HAD TO WATCH MISS CLARK'S LIPS, in order to be certain which was singing. The New Edison's triumph was complete and spectacular.

A similar test was made by Joseph Phillips with the RE-CREATIONS of his baritone solos. Again the same result—there was no difference between RE-CREATED voice and living voice.

Remember that no other phonograph can sustain this test! Remember that you want a phonograph which does! And remember that the New Edison did it,—right here in Lewiston.
