Orofino High School News

Bruce Blake, Editor

Former High School student Harry Mullikin is in Orofino, spending his Christmas vacation.

All of the country children are leaving for their homes in the country to enjoy their vacation.

Tom Skeyhill gave a most excellent description of the conditions in Russia Friday evening. His talk was certainly enjoyed by all who heard it.

The back to school campaign begun by the Rotarians of Blackwell, Oklahoma, has resulted in hundreds of boys returning to school to finish their uncompleted work in the 8th grade or high school. This movement is now taken up by Rotarians in various parts of the country with good results.

The program given by Mrs. Kimble's musical students was certainly enjoyed. The high school Christmas tree was a dandy and everybody had a good time. The domestic science class passed out pop-corn balls to everyone. Everybody got a present and some of them were quite comical, especially the small dolls.

From the looks of the Christmas tree in the room of the second grade a few days before Christmas, after the Huns and Vangals had broken into the corner school building, carrying off all Christmas presents and decorations, it seems that some one needs a few lessons in Sunday school, learning the ten commandments.

School will not open again until January 4, 1922.

Joy Armstrong and Norman Brown are also showing signs of improvement.

All of the high school students are happy to know that Gertrude Kolb is recovering nicely from her sudden illness.

The enrollment of school children in New York City totals 669,854. The total population of Montana, Wyoming, Idaho and Nevada does not exceed this number. It is a sad some budget to educate that army of children in New York. Dr. Estinger, the school superintendent has a man's job.

The girls of a West Virginia school are beginning to see their foolish habits and passed the following resolutions: 1. We approve of a plain and simple dress for school. 2. We feel that lightweight georgette and chiffons are unsuitable for school wear. 3. We disapprove of extreme low necks and formal evening gowns. 4. We disapprove of soft clinging materials which reveal the form. 5. We approve of dress lengths being regulated to fit the physique of the individual. 6. We disapprove of rolled and loud hose. 7. We consider silk hose unnecessary for school wear. 8. We believe school shoes should be comfortable with low heels. 9. We disapprove of the use of eyebrow pencil, lipstick, rouge and heavy face powder.

New Year Parties

Here's to the days that have fled,
Here's to the friends, old wine, old memories,
Here's to the joys that are dead.

Here's to the New Year stretching ahead,
Here's to the days that are blithesome and gay,
Here's to the joys of the old be the joys of the new,
Here's to the sorrows fade gently away.

ANOTHER New Year comes to us with a volume all pure and unspotted, on which we will soon begin to write a history that will go on to be bound with the thousands of other records we call years. 1922 bring us counterparts of the best days of the year just closing, in a heart for "any fate," and may all learn the lesson of how "to stand and wait."

Now for a jolly New Year's eve that you may like to get up, and out invitations for a "watch party" or "remembrance" party, as one girl is going to call the little affair she is arranging for New Year's eve. If you can sketch an hour-glass, a "Father Time" clock face with the hands at midnight or the last leaf on the calendar "December 31" done in scarlet, each one to tell of their happiest moment in the year that is past and in the month it happened.

You may play cards, dance or "remembrances," just as suits you best. Bake a cake with 12 candles surmounted by a wreath of holly and mistletoe, and the favors symbolic of the special days; for instance, a card for January, a Cupid or a heart for February, a kite for March, an umbrella for April, a posy or a set of artificial flowers for May, a May pole; a doll bride or a set of roses for June, a firecracker for July, a golf set or picnic basket for August, bunch of grapes or a tiny tub for September, the latter signifying "Labor day."

Present October with a wee Jack-o'-lantern cut from an orange, a skin or football for November, or a key, and for December a miniature Christmas tree. These articles to be procured in duplicate and be to find partners, or they may be used in a Jack Horner pie made to present the face of a clock, red ribbons going to each place.

This is an occasion when the fortunes may be used, taking perfect care of walnuts and removing the shells, inserting a narrow strip of paper bearing a pleasant prophecy for the coming season, and then gluing the shells closely together. These are to be glided and passed at the table. A wise hostess who knows her well will be clever in making forecasts right.

With merriment ensues when the boys to dance, invite to supper, and in general reverse the usual order of social conventions.

A Stitch in Time.

When the lining next the collar of your wrap begins to show signs of getting a few inches of wide silk braid, matching the color, and neatly over the worn part. By stitching a thread at the edge the braid will be perfectly smooth and the garment will not appear patched.

Observing New Year's

NEW YEAR'S day isn't what it used to be. This is in a small way attributable to the addition to the Constitution of some dry reading matter. In still greater part it is because the International Commission for celebrating whenever Father Time takes a fresh start in piloting the earth around the sun is thousands of years old. The manner of observing the day has changed greatly through the centuries.

The urge to give presents at least once a year was felt even before Christmas and Santa Claus came into the scheme of things, and the ancient Greeks, Chinese, Egyptians and Romans tendered their gifts to one another on the first day of the year. Kings got into the habit of receiving extra gifts from their subjects on these days and liked it so well they began extorting larger and larger sums. This practice got so bad in Rome under the Caesars that Claudius called a halt.

It spread to other countries, however, and the English had their New Year's celebration spoiled annually by rapacious sovereigns until Queen Elizabeth's modest demands of her subjects cut gifts down to a minimum. In those days the celebration of New Year's day had become worldwide. With variations to suit all nationalities, it consisted everywhere of eating, drinking and motley merriment.

Christopher Columbus, so far as is known, was the first white man to jubilate on New Year's day in the western hemisphere. While his ships were undergoing repairs on January 1, 1493, he enjoyed a sumptuous dinner with two savage monarchs on the island of Haiti. After this meal, history says, the discoverer of America had his first smoke of tobacco. Whether he enjoyed it is not recorded, but he left it to a later generation—Sir Walter Raleigh is generally credited with the function—to introduce tobacco to Europe.

The Pilgrim Fathers and the first families of the older states of the Union enjoyed a quiet holiday as each year came around. They feasted, but not until they had attended religious services.

For 25 years up to the dawn of 1820 and the era of war-time prohibition, the celebration in large cities became noisier and more expensive each year. Thousands used to crowd into places of merriment, while principal thoroughfares were packed with throngs of merry-makers with squawkers, clappers, bells and confetti. Every hotel and most of the restaurants were jammed with gay diners. In 1808 it was estimated that $1,000,000 was spent in the New York white-light district on New Year's eve. After that statisticians gave up trying to figure out the sum.

HER RESOLUTION.
"Have you made any good resolutions for the new year?"
"Yes, I'm going to quit bushing men's hearts."
