

LINCOLN LINES

Rene Hazelton, janitor for the Wardwell building, has been busily engaged the past few days tearing up some of the old floor and laying new in its place, as well as making other minor repairs about the Lincoln building. Mr. Hazelton states he is not supposed to be a carpenter as is no relation of Noah that he knows of, but that circumstances have forced him into harness of a wood butcher. From what we saw of his work generally, on inspection the other day, he will pass as one.

The early hay-makers had their spirits slightly dampened by the little showers of last week. Of course, it never really damaged the hay any more than to bleach it some, but it's the fact that a feller can't put it up without it being rained on that hurts. Fred West is turning his over and exposing the mether side to the sun at the time this is written.

We have noticed that we are not the only ones who can boast of strawberries, but it sure does one's heart good as well as satisfy the stomach to see so many big, red, juicy, fellers just ready for the sugar and cream.

Another one of the Groomer boys is stopping with his uncle Howard Harper. He arrived last week from the Basin country as best we have been able to learn. This makes two good hay hands for Howard, counting Jim Groomer all ready on the grounds and there is no doubt but that he will need them.

Mrs. Bob Coonrod and Mrs. E. R. Kelly passed thru here on their way to Boise, Sunday, where they will be engaged in taking a summer course at normal school. Mrs. Coonrod expects to be gone some two months.

Sunday witnessed many visitors from Boise in our midst; in fact, the roads were kept pretty warm with the tin lizzards and limousines from the state headquarters. The old dog almost run his legs off chasing the cars as they passed; best day's work he ever did, he acted like.

Dad Howick and the Chadwell family have again moved back to Emmett and are living on Fifth street. Art Chadwell, however, is still among the pines near Cabarton and his younger brother herding goats at Alpine for Swindler.

Joe and Roger Tyler were in town last Saturday investing in fishermen's supplies, as they expected to catch all the fish in Lake Lowell on Sunday. We never heard what luck they had yet.

Ed Tyler is kept pretty busy with his work on the ranch and his carpenter work that he is doing, assisting Charlie Tyler on his house. It may be rather tough sledding now, Ed, but it's only the matter of a few short moons until you will have two big huskies to help you out more than to put their feet under the table.

We dropped a biscuit on our big toe the other day and injured it so we have not had much chance to get around this week and catch anything off the wires.

A letter from Mr. and Mrs. Irl Shaw, who are now located at Payette Lakes, says: "We arrived home four days after leaving Emmett, having a very pleasant trip all the way thru from the time we left until we pulled into the Lookout ranch." We were pleased to learn that Irl had no trouble with his flivver and now has it painted up like new. He said, "Give my regards to all my Emmett friends which we will attempt to do. He states Lake trout start biting good about the 14th on for about a week.

James Cannon has almost had another attack of pneumonia, but is getting slowly better now. His grandma says, "That young 'un just seems like thrives on sickness." Brace up, Jimmie.

Bill Beutler is again grasping the rudder of the Foston on the Westlake, making it do its duty among the trees.

Hot weather is settling down around us and we are in its seething grasp for all summer from the way work piles up ahead of us. Haying will be started with renewed energy this week and commence where they left off last week on account of the rain.

Karl Coonrod is now staying in town at Mrs. A. Bird's while employed by Emil Stahl.

Cherries are fast shading more to the pink. Only a few more hot sunny days and they will be a riot of red.

A certain young man asked us last week if we were referring to him when we stated that some birds who fly past here might some day decorate the landscape. A guilty conscience warrants asking such a question. He is one of our fastest young set.

Frank Hall, who has been assisting Fred West the past week with his pay was telling us that he had had a bad case of the flu since he last saw us. That is the way things are in this community; people and neighbors are so friendly that if some one was to die you would never know about it unless the wind was in the right direction. Frank is raising quite a number of turkeys and other fowls again this season.

Emery Rynearson intends to build himself a derrick this week to handle his hay which he has mostly in the swath at this writing. Anything beats the armstrong method of pitching unless you are training for a Jack Dempsey tryout like we read the Bramwell boys are.

We are curious to know who it was a roamin' in the gloamin' past our domicile the other evening. Judging from the gait they were traveling Boise Boulevard will soon be turned into a Lover's Lane.

L. L. Alsager still continues to hobble around with a crutch. If he does not cast aside this impediment pretty soon we will begin to think he is just doing it on purpose. He told us it was the longest rest he had had since he went back to the "old country."

Mr. Heck, who composed another part of the West haying crew, is a typical Missourian and we don't care who knows it. His ready wit is always prepared for every emergency. He was telling what a good fisherman he was, the other day, especially when the fish are cleaned and fried nice and crisp on the table. This subject came up as a result of our suggesting that we bet two bits against a plugged nickel that the fish were biting good on such a day as last Monday was. When we said this gentleman was typical, we did not say whether he was a native of that country or not, but we know he is from there; just how far we do not know.
