BERGER

H. C. Ericson, Correspondent.

Living well beats dying rich.

Life is as hard as we make it.

The average man of today gets more out of fifty years of life than Methusala did out of 969.

Will there be enough water in the reservoir for a season's irrigation from the amount of snow that is above the reservoir at the present time? Is a question asked by everyone who is interested in the Salmon river tract. It looks mighty slim at the present time.

"Let's grow!" is the motto of southern Idaho, a motto good enough for the entire nation. Let's grow—bigger in purpose; braver, better, kinder—let's grow all through 1916.

A. S. Hanson, of Buhl, was calling on his friends in Berger, Saturday and Sunday.

W. J. Trueblood, one of the enterprising farmers on the north end of the Salmon river tract, was looking after business matters at the county metropolis Saturday.

The railroad men of the Rogerson branch have abandoned hauling water to Berger and Haggardt since the cold weather set in, and as a consequence, some of our cisterns are getting rather low.

Quite a number of our settlers are making preparations to move to some other tract or back to their home state. A big percentage of settlers in this vicinity have already moved back to their former home in other states, owing to conditions existing on this tract. What is our honorable and worthy board of land commissioners doing about it? Can the state of Idaho afford to lose these settlers? What is the business men and the commercial club of Twin Falls doing for the settlers of the Salmon river tract in regard to the existing troubles on the Salmon? It seems the settlers who have come here with the intention of making homes on this tract and help build up the country and the state of Idaho, have to fight the unscrupulous and unjust corporation and bondholders who are trying to crush out the life of the settlers. The Twin Falls Commercial club could render the settlers valuable assistance by either petitioning or appearing before the state land board and lay out their troubles before them as their influence might have weight and bearing on that honorable body, is the opinion of the writer. Do the business men of Twin Falls realize what it means to them in a business way to have their water proposition adjusted—justly and satisfactorily to the settlers. If this tract is cut down to the proper size for this amount of water, we have with which to irrigate, the settlers on that new Salmon river tract would be enabled to get a just reward for their labors, to create wealth out of the fertile soil of the remaining acreage, and Twin Falls would be benefitted thereby as the business houses of Twin Falls provided.

Berger Literary society will meet Friday evening this week and an interesting program will be given. On Friday evening, January 28, when the Literary will meet again, a very interesting program will be in store for the people. The program consists of Aunt Amelia's Family Album, which promises to be one of the best and most interesting programs ever given by the society and a large attendance is expected.

Will Sumner was transacting business in Filer Wednesday.

Miss Bertha Noel, county superintendent of public instruction, visited Berger schools Monday. The work done by our schools was highly complimented by the superintendent.

We inadvertently omitted to mention in our last week's communication that David Abramson was rejoicing over the arrival of a baby girl at his home. Mother and child are doing well.

Tuesday being his birthday the members of the Berger Sabbath school decided to give their superintendent, J. M. Pierce a surprise. Everything was planned, prepared and in readiness to proceed to the home of their victim on the evening of his birthday. Upon the approach of the jolly crowd Mr. Pierce came to the conclusion that our German friends across the water had taken advantage of our unpreparedness and were making an invasion and was about to take steps for defense when he discovered his mistake. Seeing a peaceful and national people and of course the doors were thrown open and gave up possession of his beautiful home. The evening was pleasantly spent at games, speeches, vocal and instrumental music and last but not least a bounteous repast was served that the ladies had provided. The crowd did not break up until a late hour. A nice and appropriate present was given to Mr. Pierce by the members of the Sabbath school as a memento of the occasion and appreciation and love for their superintendent.

TAKES LAND FROM RESERVED CLASS

WASHINGTON—Secretary Lane announces that during the month of December, 1915, eight orders of designation were approved, increasing the area of land classified as nonirrigable under the 320-acre homestead law by approximately 3,000,000 acres, making a total of nearly 251,000,000 acres thus designated. The states affected are California, Idaho, Kansas, Montana, South Dakota, Washington and Wyoming.

In Idaho two designations were made classifying more than 47,800 acres, of which approximately 39,800 acres were designated under section 1 to 5 and the remainder under section 6 of the enlarged homestead act. (Sections 1 to 5 are the sections which require residence on the land, and section 6 is the nonresidence section.) The classifications made under section 6 are located in 10 counties of the state, but in view of the limitation placed on the area that is to be designated under this provision no lands are involved on which applications to file have not been already received. The classifications made under the general provisions of the act (sections 1 to 5) are located in 14 counties of the state. General areas were designated under these provisions in the following counties: Fremont, 19,000 acres; Blaine, 4,000 acres; Twin Falls, 1,800 acres.
