CROZIER'S STATEMENT.

(Silver State Nov. 1st.)

On the last night of his existence and

On the last night of his existence and with no hope of escaping death he gave the following brief history of his life and statement of the crime, and incidents which led to its committal, to the writer:

"My name is Robert H. Crozier, aged 48 years. I was born in Tuscumbia, Alabama, November 6th, 1829. My parents moved to Texas when I was young. They gave me a fair common school education. I left Texas for Catifornia in 1853, by way of Nicaranga. My father was twice elected City Marshal of father was twice elected City Marshal of San Francisco, and he now resides in I believe in a future state and the existence of a merciful and All-wise God, and hope my troubles will soon be over. I have suffered much mental torture here, and have had no hope from the beginning of being granted a new trial or having my sentence commuted. Last fall I had been working on a ranch for five months; had drank no strong drink during that time. I saw no hope of working there any longer, and got to drinking, when I was paid off. I went to Mineral Hill and got drunk. I intended to go to another ranch; but before I got there I heard the owner had left, so I took the narrow guage road to Palis-ade, thence to Elko, where I was very drunk. I stayed in Elko a woile and went back to Lane's ranch again, where I worked a month, and did not drink. I was paid off then and went to Elko and got to drinking again. A man at Wells sent for me to keep bar. I went there and stayed 25 days, drinking hard. I "In the "Oh, and stayed 25 days, drinking hard. I got nervous from drink, and could not quit drinking. I went back to Elko, spent $60° or $70 in a few days, drinking all the time till the difficulty, which ended in the shooting of Siverstein Had tended our two or three nights in Barnard's saloon, where the shooting took place. I did not sleep for two or three nights, and was drinking day and night about 8 o'clock the night of the night about 8 o'clock the night of the difficulty, a young man who kept a barber shop at the saloon, asked me to take a walk. We went to Idaho street, and a walk. We went to Idaho street, and went into a house of ill repute, in which I had never been before. The girls were dressing, and the young man said "let's go," and went off and left me. I asked the girls to go to Barnard's saloon and take a drink. Two of them did so, and we danced and jumped around like drunken fools. One of them, Mollie Costello, said she wished her dear little Hogan was here. I foolishly asked what she wanted with that little pimp. She got very mad, and cursed and abused me. I tried to pacify her, and told her I meant nothing by the remark. I could not do so, and I told her I cared nothing for her or Hogan, she seemed to want to tantalize me and get me into trouble, for her or Hogan, she seemed to want to tantalize me and get me into trouble, and said I had better try to get her to leave the house; that she had a friend here to take her part. I said I cared nothing for her. Montana Charley then spoke up; said 'he had a good notion to put a head on me.' It was the first time I had noticed him, and I said, 'what's hip pocket, and said, 'you have been hunting a fight, and I will give you all you want.' As he stepped up I thought he had a 'whistler' in his pocket, but as I had promised Barnard to make no disturbance, I made up my mind to have no trouble with him unless he attacked would probably not think as I did, that Charley was drawing a pistol to kill me. I feel that I am a better man than I ever was, and would like to live and have opportunity to show the world that I am a

MIXED MARRIAGES.

Mrs. Elizabeth Bladen in the Philadolphia Sunday Times:
A new book, called Paul Douglass,

A new book, called Paul Donglass, tells the story of the proud daughter of a wealthy Southerner going on a visit to New England, where she falls in love with the son of a colored slave by her master, who is consequently illegitimate. They get married, and sail for Europe. If I had not heard of a few such cases in real life, I would have pronounced the fection entirely too imaginative, but as a few white women have married black men, I want to register my sentiments on that subject. It is not necessary to the respect and toleration due to equal the respect and toleration due to equal rights that mixed marriages should be permitted. I am totally opposed to them. If I were a young girl I would not marry a foreigner of any kind. The question of nationality is sure to be a subject of difference, and still more so the habits and customs familiarized by varying education. In fact, marriage should be founded on sentiments of mutual regard and esteem, which can only result from long and intimate acquaintance. The happiest marriages are those which occur between persons who have been brought up together.

"But," says a young lady by my side, "girls never do marry gentlemen they have been acquainted with all their lives. The get to know too much about

Well, even if they do, is it not better to put up with some little peculiararities that you are aware of, rather than run the risk of unsuspected traits cropping out in the character of your husband, after your play is made?

"But," continued the young lady,
"men don't usually fall in love with girls they have known all their lives. They want to wed a stranger, that their friends don't know anything about, so they can pretend she is something grand."

She went on to tell me how she had recently had an offer of marriage from a young country preacher, which she de-chined, saying she was already engaged "Where does he live?" asked the

"In the city," said the young lady, "Ob, Miss Grace," exclaimed the lover, "you had better marry me, and live in the country. It is a much better place to bring children up in." Miss Grace very properly fainted.

GRANT'S PROFITS AND LOSSES. - A wealthy man of New York, generally alleged to be one of the presenters of a residence at Long Branch to General Grant, said to me last Sunday:

Grant, said to me last Sunday:

"You make some inquiries about Grant's original cottage. I think you will find that it never was the proposition of anybody largely interested in Long Branch to bring General Grant here. The scheme had a Philadelphia origin. A subscription list was taken around among the residents and sojourn-ers by a Philadelphia person, and a number who subscribed never paid up, so that the balance had to be settled by one man mainly, and he not the Phila-delphian aforesaid. There is more matter for laughter than condemnation in this subject."
General Grant, it is reported here on good authority, got to be a tolerably bold operator on his own account in stocks, particularly mining stocks. He made $8,000 one forenoon in Cincinnati, and said I had better try to get her to leave the house; that she had a friend here to take her part. I said I cared nothing for her. Montana Charley then spoke up; said 'he had a good notion to put a head on me.' It was the first time I had noticed him, and I said, 'what's the matter with you?' He was leaning against the billiard table, and stepped in front of the stove with his hand in his him to the first time and the stove with his hand in his best known, that the General is worth $250,000 to $350,000, or less than half $250,000 to $350,000, or less than half his average salary .- [New York Herald,

There is a dark-skinned resident of Charlotte, Virginia, and she went into a store and asked the young man for flesh-colored stockings. He produced them, and they were as black as midnight is when the moon has a vacation. She saw them, and remarked: "Look here, young man, what do you mean?"

The surgeon told him he could never recover the use of his leg. "Then," said he, "I shall never leave this battlefield."

And he has kept his word. He has a tobacco lot and a little factory where he makes chewing and smoking tobacco.

"Young man, I want you to understand hat when I buys firsh-colored stockings, I buys 'em like a white lady; and I want you to understand fudder, sir, dat you are not de judge of dis case. Put dem things back and give me some stockings according to de white folks' grade."

A TRAMP'S TERRIBLE RIDE, -A tramp who arrived here a few days ago from the West gives his experience in dead-heading it over the Union Pacific from Cheyenne to Green River, on the Jarret & Palmer train, by climbing upon the roof of a coach. He says that from Chevenne to Sherman he rather enjoyed the ride, but that between Sherman and Green River his experience was one never to be forgotten. The rapid move-ment of the train and the rocking of the coach forced him to wind his arms and legs around the stove-pipe and hang on for dear life. His hat flew off early in the ordeal, and after the train left this city he was discovered by the engineer, who began throwing a heavy shower of cinders; but so rapid was the movement cinders; but so rapid was the movement of the train that the heaviest ones merely cut through his clothes like bullets, while the lighter sparks passed above him. His coat-tails flapped so hard that he realized he must part with them; but he dared not loosen a hand to tuck them under him, and they were soon torn off to blow away. Although he managed to keep his face behind the pipe nearly all the time, he was frequently struck in the time, he was frequently struck in the face by flying cinders, so that when he reached Green River his face and neck were badly cut and scratched. So great was the poor 4ramp's fear of being thrown off and killed that this, added to the terrible strain of hanging to the pipe by main strength for so long a distance, and the intense suffering from the wounds inflicted by the cinders, caused his hair to turn gray, and when he climbed down at Green River he looked like a man who had seen fifty instead of twenty-two summers.—[Cheyenne
