

Somewhere about the month of July last, a neat looking young man in a blue suit and cork hat, calling himself La Belle and representing himself as a sewing machine agent and a horse jockey from the southern country, came to Pioche. He was a fluent talker, and without any apparent effort on his part, he amused crowds of listeners with well told stories of Mexico, Arizona and the southern country at large. In fact his make-up was that of a gentleman. So long as he remained in town, La Belle filled his trade of repairing sewing machines, etc. Subsequently he left here and worked in Bullionville. About a month since, as was published in the Record, La Belle hired a horse, saddle and bridle from John Hart, of Bullionville, for a trip to Pennsylvania District. After letting the horse go, it would seem that Hart had a revulsion of feeling which created a suspicion that all was not right on La Belle's part, as very soon after the transaction, he (Hart), telegraphed to Mineral Park, Arizona, that La Belle was a fugitive from justice with a stolen horse, and to arrest him at that place. Upon hearing the news La Belle returned from Mineral Park to St. Thomas and wrote to Hart to the effect that he would return the horse. Now comes the mysterious part of the affair. Soon after receiving La Belle's letter, Hart got himself deputized as an officer of the law and in the company of a man named Jack Longstreet, started out to arrest La Belle, which they succeeded in doing at Milford, Utah. The prisoner was brought from Milford to a point somewhere in the vicinity of Desert Station. The weather being cold, La Belle was permitted, at times, to trot along ahead of the team in order to keep himself warm. Suddenly, as La Belle was exercising at several rods ahead of the wagon, the team started in bucking finally balked and came to a standstill and during this little episode La Belle escaped. He was last seen standing behind a clump of cedars. His pursuer hastened to the cedars—all else was a barren desert with not even a sage-brush large enough to hide a fugitive rabbit in much less the form of a man. The prisoner had disappeared. Had the ground opened and swallowed him! After a lapse of several days the postmaster at Shosh Creek found the frozen remains of La Belle lying beside the road near Rock Creek. Was there a bullet hole through the brain of the unfortunate, or was there not? We seek the truth—we have been informed both ways.

DEATH AT HIRO.—From the Hiro mail rider, Gus Wilson, we get the following: Monday last, Wilson on his return trip from this place to Hiro, found a sick man at Bennett Springs. Wilson took the man to his home in Hiro and cared for him. Tuesday night the sick man got worse and a bottle of medicine was procured and given him through the night. At a late hour Wilson retired, he being obliged to get up early next morning to leave with the mail. Early Wednesday morning Wilson went into the room occupied by the sick man and found the man dead. Wilson informed Mr. Stearns, Justice of the Peace, of the death and then left for Pioche. The deceased was a stranger in those parts; name, occupation and destination unknown.

From a party, recently having made a visit to the Onondaga mine, Jackrabbit District, we learn that the mine, during the week, has steadily improved both as regards the quantity and quality of the ore, a great many tons of which have been taken out within the past four days. A frame building has been put up on the dump, to be used as an ore house, for sorting and sacking purposes. Here's success to the Onondaga boys, they deserve it, and a big one too.

Thursday morning, Chas. Ball, in the employ of the Floral Spring water company, while delivering water to his customers, lost two $20 greenbacks. Mr. Ball thinks the loss occurred between the printing office and Wertheimer's cigar store. He will pay a reward of $10 to the party returning the same to him.

Thomas McManis has entered suit in the Fifth District Court, in Lander county, against Lincoln county, for the sum of $25,650 bonds and interest, and $5,967 on unpaid interest, making a total of $31,617.

The dancing academy, formerly under the management of B. C. McDonough & Co., closed down Wednesday night.

PIOCHE CON. LEACHING WORKS.

The Pioche Consolidated Leaching works, under the contractor's supervision, W. T. Rich, are rapidly approaching completion. These works are being constructed on a larger scale than they were supposed to be, and it is evident that the Pioche Consolidated Mining Company have come to stay, and again place Pioche in the leading ranks as a bullion producer. From a flying visit we were able to obtain the following in regard to the leaching works. They are to be of sixty tons capacity, and everything throughout is to be constructed on a labor saving principle. The roll and engine room is 35x30 feet. The ore is to be run from the mine to the works in cars, and it then goes directly into a separator, the fine going into a large bin of 100 tons capacity and the coarse is conveyed back by an elevator and is then run through what is called the bolter, which again separates the ore, the fine going into the bin and the coarse is carried back by the elevator over and over again until it is all run through and deposited in the bin. The leaching room is 52x40 feet, the tanks occupying the space, which are fed by shutters from the bin, the tailings being dumped over the road, where there is sufficient dumping room, and it was on this account that the site was chosen.

A GIRL ASSASSINATED.—A most diabolical murder was committed in San Francisco on the 19th of the month. A young man (brute would be the more proper term) an artist by occupation, and by name Alexander Goldenon, shot and instantly killed Mamie Kelly, a school girl. Goldenon is 19 years old and his victim was 14. The murderer awaited the unfortunate girl on the street corner and when she appeared, he coolly put his pistol to her head, sending a bullet through her brain. The cause assigned by the murderer was that the girl was in love with him, chased him around and that he was tired of being followed by her. The excitement of the populace was intense and the murderer went to the City Hall and gave himself up. He should have been swung to the nearest lamp-post and then cut into giblets.

At the instigation of C. H. Patchen, Robt. Husband and G. H. Fish, defeated candidates, according to the official count of the votes on election night, a re-count of the votes was made in behalf of the above named gentlemen by our county clerk on the 17th, the result being a loss of 5 for Rice, 4 in this precinct and via Hiro. This leaves Fish and Rice now standing at a tie. The re-count did not materially affect the positions of Husband and Patchen, the former having lost one, while the latter stands at the original count. Another re-count will be held by the commissioners to-day.

During our brief career in the newspaper business we have heretofore been called upon to chronicle but one birth. This we did. At the earnest request of a gentleman well and favorably known to everybody hereabouts, we hereby chronicle another birth, viz: that of the Hon. Wm. Culverwell, who was born November 18th, 1837, just 49 years ago. We sincerely congratulate you, Billy, on this, your 49th anniversary. Shake, old man, let the festivities over the walnut counter go on and may you live to be 49 years older.

Hon. R. A. Riepe, of Taylor, was in town Thursday, full of mining items, political news, etc. He reports Taylor, with the Argus mine not yet started up, as about holding its own. A railroad through this part of the country is what Dick is desirous of seeing, and when he gets to Congress he will further our interests in regard to a railroad and cheap transportation of ore, Mormon bull-beef and hogs.

A minstrel entertainment is on the tapis and will come off at Brown's Hall on Christmas night, December 23th. Several new features are promised, among which will be the performance of the famous Welsh quartette, club singing and trapeze performing. But then for fun, the jolly boys in black will cause your sides to crack wide open. A social dance will wind up the entertainment.

A grand ball will be given at Brown's Hall by the Pioche string band on Thanksgiving night, November 23th. The grand march will take place at 8:15 sharp. It is the aim on the part of the management to make this the most enjoyable dance of the season. Let all attend. Tickets can be had at the postoffice at $1.

What is the matter in the county wickon, gentlemen? Who'll be the first little Jack Horner to sit in the corner, and stick in his thumb and pull out the plum from the depleted county Christmas pie?

THANKSGIVING PROCLAMATION.

WHEREAS, The President of the United States has designated Thursday, November 23rd, 1935, a day of Thanksgiving and prayer. Now, therefore, I, J. W. Adams, Governor of the State of Nevada, in accordance with the custom of my predecessors in office, do hereby proclaim Thursday, November 23rd, 1935, a day of Thanksgiving and prayer; and I earnestly recommend a proper observance of the day.

Done at Carson City, State of Nevada, this 6th day of November, 1935.

J. W. ADAMS,
Governor.

JOHN M. DORMER,
Secretary of State.

The devil is a mystery. We don't refer to "Satan" down below, but simply to our office devil. The world revolves well, and so does the press; mightily slow, however, when he manipulates the crank. It is a comparison though, the world and the press, with the devil grinding away at the press, thereby sowing broad cast to the world, gems of such literary brilliancy and scintillating witicism and broad humor as to fairly bedazzle and shake nine-tenths of the denizens of this terrestrial sphere who occupy mistle false teeth. These (not the false teeth, but the literary gems) are the devil's own personal property, they being the emanations of his prolific brain. And when he has sent them through the distributor of universal information, they then having become the property of the world, he wipes his cooling brow, smiles complacently and says "I am content."

A cold night, that of Monday last; why the devils absolutely froze on one's mousethe. To elongate one's self out of bed at the early hour of dawn, with the mercury playing away at how many degrees below zero we don't exactly know, as there isn't but one thermometer in town and that is loaned; then to take a dip in ice water full of shivers, well, it is simply ugly. Then your shoes (sandals would apply better, they being so confidently full of holes) won't go on by many degrees of stiffness. The teachings of early piety here come into play and cuss words are used. Next the fire is built and after indulging for an hour in its general warmth, a sally is made down the street where we take in with a cold admiration the antics of Jack Frost on the windows and respond to every one we meet, "Yes, terrible cold morning."

By all means go to the social dance on Thanksgiving night. No expense or pains will be spared to make this the creme de la creme of social gatherings of the season. The string band, consisting of eight pieces, will discourse by far the best dance music ever given in Pioche. Secure your tickets at the postoffice.

MICHAEL STROGOFF.—Mr. O. C. Staley while playing the leading part in "Michael Strogoff," at Oakland, Cal., became so hoarse from a severe cold that he despaired of being able to continue his part. Two bottles of Red Star Cough Cure entirely cured him. Does not nauseate.

The Pioche Consolidated Mining Company have about 23 men employed in and about the Raymond & Ely mine, the shaft of which has been cleaned out and retimbered to the 933 foot level.

The Pioche Consolidated Company are now blowing two whistles. That they may blow two times twenty-two, are another year has passed, is the earnest wish of the community.

FINGERS AND THUMBS.

"The thumb," says Newton, "is a convincing proof of immortality;" without it the hand is useless. The only animal that has a thumb is the ape, but it is an imperfect member, and does not assist the animal to a more intelligent use of its hand or paw. Human slaves used to cut off their thumbs because they lacked the courage to go to war, and were considered with abhorrence. Infants while very young, and idiots, who cannot control thought, have no use of their thumbs and keep them clasped tightly in the clenched hand.

Beware of the person whose fingers turn backward. He is unjust, spiteful, ingenious, and the nearer his fingers seem to be, the more treacherous is he, and as enemy to virtue.

Long, pure white nails, especially on a woman's hand, are an indication of a deceitful nature, with great strength, and cruel, crafty love.

Fingers that stand apart from each other, poverty, wretchedness and much talk about self.

Small taper fingers on a woman show indecision of character, faintness and deceit.

Long and large fingers betoken liberality, true friendship, good condition.

A large, well-made hand inclines to a generous, unselfish disposition.

Fingers too short, with thick ends and fat, will be dishonest and sly.

Fingers which cling to each other denote a changeable character.

Little round nails, mean obstinacy and anger and violent love.

Nerveless fingers denote want of character—trembling.

Spots on the edge of nails, violent death.

Red nails signify cruelty, desperate love.

If the nails are oblique, want of courage.

Twisting fingers a drunkard.

"Here, boys, stop that fighting." "We ain't fighting, mister; we're playing politics."

"What do you mean, then, by scratching each other and pulling hair and kicking each other's shins?" "Oh, you see, him an' me is one side an' we're lettin' the other boys see how much harmony there is in the party."—Chicago News.

Two reports in contrast with each other have lately been current. One is that the last resting place of Father Ryan, the "Post Priest of the South," is unmarked, neglected and overgrown with weeds, and the other is that the grave of Jesse James looks like "a bed of flowers."

A good many physicians never think of advertising. "It would not be professional, you know," but they lump about pretty lively in order to have their names appear in a newspaper account of an accident where they collide.

Mechanicsburg's ghost has been caught and unveiled. Who would have thought that a woman had the nerve to dare to risk so much? It is next to a miracle that she was not hit with a stone.
