PIOCHE WINS FIRST GAME OF SEASON

Although a little delayed, the local curtain-raising of the 1920 baseball season occurred last Sunday at Caliente, the Pioche wildcats taking it upon themselves to register a sound and unquestioned victory over the crack team representing Caliente.

After the smoke had cleared away following a ninth-inning rally by Caliente, the Pioche boys still had the game sewed up and neatly tied on their belts, the final count revealing the astonishing fact that the score stood 7 to 5, with the miners on the long end.

Play was called at 3 o'clock with Caliente in the field, and as a result of the rather remarkable hurling of the pill by a young gent named Armstedt two of the Pioche lads were the victims of putouts, they being unable to do anything with the offerings of the red-headed youth. But, black and alas, after two men were down the ball went up, somebody missed up an infield drive, threw the ball away and another ungrateful Caliente ball player slammed the ball at the pitcher when he wasn't looking. The pitcher was struck on the throwing arm and was unable to finish the game. Before the ascension could be stopped by the frantic Caliente rooters three of the Pioche boys—Franks, Wilcox and Hames—had romped across the plate, registering three perfectly good scores. This lead was never overcome by the railroaders, although they made two scores in their half of the first.

No registrations were made at the home plate by the Pioche team during the second inning, bangup baseball being the rule in this inning, and the side was retired in professional style. Unwilling to allow anyone to put anything over on him, "Spec" Dolan, who occupied the slab in the center of the diamond for Pioche, proceeded to pull real stuff on the ball and vanishes three men, just to show them that he could do it.

The fireworks started again in the third inning, however, when "Spec" picked off a two-bagger and scored a few minutes later on a hit and run play, Caliente missing up the ball. In their half of the next inning the Caliente boys made two runs before their side was retired.

Nothing further happened to cause excitement among the fans until the ninth inning, when the score stood 5 to 3 in favor of the visiting team. With no one out, a series of errors on the Pioche infield allowed two of the Caliente players to leave the marks of their spikes in the home plate, with the second and third registering stations saturated with Calientettes. Here is where Captain Dolan of the wildcats again decided that the affair had proceeded far enough, and allowing one man to pop an easy fly, caught by Catcher Hames for an easy out, he showed some real stuff and retired the side with six thrown balls, every one being reached for frantically by the opposing batters.

The result of this battle has convinced those who were inclined to be skeptical that there is material present in the Pioche lineup to make a strong ball team. Their fighting qualities were forcibly displayed in the ninth inning of this battle. Not a man wavered and everyone was there to do his part if the test should fall to him.

The Caliente team was handicapped somewhat by the absence of some of their regular players, who were on the road and could not get home in time for the game. It is expected that the Caliente players will come to Pioche for the big game on the 3d, and if Caliente is able to muster her full team those interested in the sport will have an opportunity to witness a battle royal, in which both teams will be out to win.

Without question the most thrilling play of the game was when in the fourth inning, with the bases full of Calientettes, Alexander Orr made a hero of himself by a masterful catch of a long fly that would certainly have been good for three bases and heaved a perfect ball to second, doubling a runner who ventured too far from the base. The peg was one of the prettiest ever witnessed and had all the vim, vigor and snap of professional baseball. Needless to say, Alexander is a hero in his home town now and will continue to be until such time as he, perhaps, makes an error, when the wonderful throwing arm may be forgotten for the moment.

As a result of the victory the Pioche team won a purse of $50, besides numerous side bets by members of the team and their backers.

Fourteen automobiles loaded with Pioche fans attended the game, many of whom remained in Caliente until a late hour in the evening in order to make the return trip during the cooler hours. Other parties motored as far as Newman's ranch, where a picnic party was held, and still others located shady nooks at Caliente and enjoyed a picnic lunch with their friends and guests.

The lineup of both teams was as follows:

Pioche—Van Vleet, Dolan, Franks, Carlyle, Wilcox, Carter Hames, Orr, Rorison, Christian and Rutherford.
Caliente—Barton, Denton, Pleidson, Cook, Roberts, Forbes, Olson, Armstedt and Brower.

GURGLING LIQUOR ON FINAL TRICKLE

Herman E. Freudenthal, true to the trust imposed upon him by Judge William E. Orr, set about on Monday morning of this week to destroy, according to the dictation of the court, several hundred dollars' worth of intoxicating beverages, the consignment consisting of beer, wine and moonshine whiskey.

The scene of devastation is located directly across the street from the court house, and there for over an hour Mr. Freudenthal labored incessantly, emptying bottle after bottle, jug after jug and barrel after barrel of liquor, while many dry persons stood by and idly watched, with burning throats and aching hearts.

Four gallons of whiskey were emptied in this manner, as were 193 quart bottles of beer, one pint bottle of beer and 52 gallons of wine. The whiskey was taken from Tony Martello and J. B. Franklin and the wine and beer was found in the Al Emerick soft drink factory by officers of this county, as reported in the Record last week.

The bottles, jugs and barrels were not destroyed, these being preserved for the edification of future generations. Obsequies are still being held in the sacred spot where the gurgling liquors trickled down the hillside, as it is possible at any time to see one or more mourners standing at the scene of the last rites, where with shaking heads and trembling hands they are evidently bemoaning the waste of so much perfectly good drinking liquor, and with a near water famine in Pioche.

No instance has been reported of the earth upon which the liquor was poured being picked up and carried away in this case, as in other cases of like nature in the United States, and the only evidence remaining of the existence of the valuable beverages is a pile of ingredients, the principal component of which is grapes, and at least a million flies, the latter being permitted to help themselves generously of what remains of the forbidden fruits. If Pioche flies accumulate a food jag and go on a spree it will be the court's fault.

Ore Shipments of the Pioche District

Ore shipments from the Pioche district for the week ending June 24 lack only fifty tons of being double what they were for the previous week, as a total of 3,250 tons were shipped from the Pioche depot the last week. This is due partially to the fact that cars have been available for those who desired them, and also from the fact that the government guaranty price of $1 an ounce for silver has gone into effect, this acting as a strong stimulant to mining operations. The shipments were as follows:

Prince Consolidated.....	1,350
Virginia Louise.....	1,300
Bristol Silver Mines.....	400
Black Metal.....	150
Hybla Mining Company.....	50

Metal Quotations in Eastern Markets

Arising from the fact that the world market has been carried below the domestic market, there is now, as was generally expected, two silver markets in New York, one for foreign offerings and the other for domestic production. Recently, when silver fell below the dollar mark, there was only one market based on current London quotations, in spite of the standing offer of purchase by the United States treasury. This was due to the treasury's requirement that silver offered should be entirely a bona fide domestic production. As it was impossible to comply with this regulation the Pittman law became ineffective.

But the treasury has now modified its regulation so that vendors need only furnish affidavits as regards genuineness of that part of the silver coming from American mines. This silver will be purchased at $1 per ounce, less about three-eighths of 1 per cent for mint adjustment and costs, etc., and current price obtained for that part of silver of foreign origin.

This inevitably establishes a dual market. But as long as this arrangement is in force the American miner will always be able to get 99.5 cents per ounce. The arrangement also has the effect of stimulating the outside, or foreign, silver market. On the quotation of 99.1-2 cents for domestic silver in New York Thursday, foreign silver was quoted at 90 cents, an advance of 10 cents over Wednesday.

Following are the latest quotations for metals of local interest:

Silver, per ounce.....	$.99 1/2
Copper, per hundred.....	18.75
Lead, per hundred.....	8.10
Zinc, per hundred.....	7.50

Wamboldt Sells Ranching Interest to Geyser Land and Cattle Company

Raymond H. Carr, one of the owners of the Geyser ranch, announced while in Pioche this week that a deal had been concluded June 11 between the stockholders of the Geyser Land and Cattle Company and J. F. Wamboldt whereby the latter disposed of his extensive land and stock interests in that vicinity to the Geyser people for a consideration in the neighborhood of $25,000.

The Wamboldt ranch consisted of 889 acres. Included in the deal were a number of head of horses and cattle, together with the improvements on the ranch.

This property is a valuable addition to the Geyser ranch, as the natural water facilities located thereon, when properly handled, can be made a source of immense benefit to both properties. Possession was given at once and the property is now under the control and is being operated by the Geyser Land and Cattle Company.

Mr. Carr returned to the ranch Wednesday and expects to leave soon for

BOUNDARY DISPUTE AT BROKEN HILLS

What promises to be a bitterly fought and determined legal controversy between three counties of Nevada is rapidly developing in connection with the location of Broken Hills, Nevada's new silver mining district, six to eight miles southeast of Fallon and forty-eight miles north of Luning. Officials of Churchill, Mineral and Nye counties all claim that the much coveted new camp is located within the boundaries of their respective counties, and all of them have announced their intention of establishing their right thereto. The matter has already been taken up by the surveyor general of Nevada and within the next few days at least two of the counties—Nye and Mineral—will have surveying gangs at work to definitely establish their boundary lines.

It has been previously supposed that Broken Hills was located in the southern section of Churchill county near its southern boundary line. Among those who have held this belief are James Stratford and Joseph Arthur, locators of the now famous Broken Hills mine, since taken over by the Broken Hills Silver Corporation and which is the cause of the present legal dispute.

According to the calculations of F. C. Schrader of Washington, D. C., geologist for the United States geological survey, department of the interior, who has just completed a geological study of the district, Broken Hills is in a wedge-shaped piece of territory belonging to Mineral county, adjoining Churchill county on the north.

Geologist Schrader fixes the location of the new camp as about one mile and a half south of the Churchill county line, in the extreme northeast corner of range 34 east, township 13 north. There is no doubt as to the accuracy of his calculations, but claims are made by others, particularly "Happy Jack" Bierrier, sheriff and assessor of Nye county, that changes in county boundary lines have thrown the "wedge" in question within the boundaries of Nye county. Mineral county claimants to the camp dispute this argument, maintaining that when Mineral county was created in 1911 it was given dominion over the "wedge."

Sheriff Bierrier of Nye county, who is a miner and prospector of many years' experience, was a visitor to Broken Hills a few days ago. Within a week, he said, he would have the Nye county surveyors and gang of assistants visit the district and run out the boundaries to substantiate his county's claim to the new camp, which is already making new mining history for Nevada. The sheriff is noted for his dry wit and extreme loyalty to Nye county.

He said: "No silver came with the showings and future of Broken Hills could be located outside of Nye county. Tonopah is in Nye county. That makes it a sure thing that Broken Hills is in Nye."

Mr. and Mrs. David Empey and little daughter came in from Atlanta Tuesday to visit friends in Pioche.

Mrs. Florence Thomson-Verder will arrive in Pioche about the first of July for an indefinite stay, according to information received here.

Chester Cook came in from the Bristol mines Sunday and spent a couple of days visiting with relatives and his many friends in Pioche.

Roy Price, who is employed at the Pioche pharmacy, left this morning for Beaver, Utah, where he will enjoy a vacation of thirty days with relatives.

CELEBRATION TO BE ONE GRAND EVENT

Subcommittees appointed by the general committee representing the American Legion, especially the Pioche post, in connection with their activities for the Fourth of July celebration here, have worked hard on their various appointments during the week, and each committee reports favorably on the progress made.

The entertainment committee has probably been the busiest of the lot, they being saddled with the task of arranging the patriotic program which will occur in the opera house in the afternoon, it being necessary for them to make a general survey in an effort to locate the talent necessary for the different roles to be enacted as outlined by members of the committee. At this time the parts have all been filled and the first practice was held in the opera house Tuesday evening. The orchestra has been given some beautiful selections to be rendered for the occasion.

The committee on sports announces a baseball game between Caliente and Pioche, to occur in the afternoon. There is every possibility that there will be some bad horses on hand in order to test the ability of any who claim honors of being able to stick on and give them the rake and quart.

No doubt exists regarding the entertainment of the guests during the evening and at night. A big fire dance is being arranged, to be preceded by a grand display of fireworks. The latter will be touched off from one of the mountain tops adjoining Pioche.

The finance committee reports satisfactory results from the campaign in Pioche. They will also make a canvass of the adjoining mining districts in the course of the next few days. Business houses of Pioche responded generously to the request for funds, and it is believed that a sufficient sum will be raised before the end of another week for the successful celebration of the Fourth.

The baseball diamond will be put in shape before the day of the celebration, it being the idea to remove all rocks and debris from the ground and to cut down the sagebrush now standing in the outfield. There has been some consideration also of fitting up at least a temporary grandstand for use of those attending the big game on the 1d. The attendance at this game, which will be between Caliente and Pioche, will probably be a record-breaker for this county, and adequate arrangements will be made by the managers for the comfort of the spectators.

Ladies of the Episcopal church have announced their intention of serving lunch throughout the day in the store-room next to the postoffice, in addition to which two restaurants will be operating all day, thus insuring eating facilities for the visitors.

Liquor Cases Are All Disposed Of

Al Emerick, J. B. Franklin and Tony Martello were sentenced to fines of $100 and a sixty-day jail sentence each by Judge William E. Orr last Saturday evening. In the cases of Emerick and Franklin, however, the court granted a stay of execution of the sentences, which will enable the two men to ask for pardons before the state pardon board and were give their freedom in the meantime.

Tony Martello was not given a stay of sentence, however, and now languishes in the county jail, where he will be a guest of Jailor Roeder for the next two months.

The sentencing of the three men Saturday evening, instead of allowing a grand jury to act in their case, as reported in the last issue of the Record, was due to the fact that all three men changed their pleas from not guilty to guilty, thus doing away with the necessity for a grand jury at this time.

"Never Again" Says Orchestra

After the unfortunate fiasco at the opera house Saturday night it is refreshing to know that the jazz orchestra has quietly closed its tent, like the Arabs, and silently stolen away. It is safe to say that from information given by members of the orchestra that they have received sufficient encouragement and emoluments from a long suffering public to pay for their sheet music and other expenses incidental to their perfunctory performances. Owing to a severe case of pedallitis eximittis frigiditis the orchestra has announced that it will not, cannot and dare not give any more public dances at their own expense.

Sad Death of Viola Hames

The death of Viola, two-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Byron Hames, occurred Monday night at 10:30, following an illness of only a few days. The little child had not been in the best of health for a short time preceding her death, but her condition was not considered as serious until Sunday afternoon, when she collapsed and became unconscious.

It was necessary to rush the little patient to Panaca for the reason that Dr. J. H. Hastings was detained at that place with a patient whom he could not leave, and an examination by the doctor revealed the fact that the child was suffering from an acute attack of inflammation of the intestines.

Funeral services were held in Delamar on Wednesday, where interment was also made, Bishop Edwards of Panaca having charge of the services.

The many friends of the bereaved family extend their deepest sympathy to them in their grief. Many kind neighbors have willingly performed services which tend to lighten the burden of the loss sustained by the grieving mother and father.
