CRAZY QUILT ARCHITECTURE.

agine the sensation that one of these modern, sawed-off cottages would create a hundred years from now, if it should survive.

But that is impossible. The only cheering feature of the whole matter is that these reatures of a disordered imagination must scon pass away, and the bright sunlight of hard horse sense shine in through the shattered dormers and gables and gnawed-off architecture of the average summer resort.

A friend of mine a few days ago showed me his new house with much pride. He asked me what I thought of it. I told him I liked it first-rate. Then I went home and wept all night. It was my first false-

The house, taken as a whole, looked to me like a skating rink that had started out to make money and then suddenly changed its mind and resolved to become a tannery

Then ten feet higher it had had lost all self-respect and blossomed into a full-blown drunk and disorderly surrounded by the smokestack of a foundry, and with the bright future of thirty days ahead with the hain gang. That's the way it looked to The roofs were made of little odds and ends of misfit rafters and distorted shingles that somebody had purchased at sheriff's sale, and the rooms and stairs were giddy in the extreme. I went in and rambled around among the cross-eyed staircases and other nightmares till reason tottered on her throne. Then I came out and stood on the architectural wart called the side poarch to get fresh air. This poarch was painted a dull red and it had wooden rosettes at the corners that it looked like a bran new carbuncle on the nose of a social wreck. Further up the demoralized lumber pile I saw now and then places where the workman's mind had wandered and he had nailed on his clapboard wrong side up and then painted them with the paris green that he had intended to use on something else.

It was an odd-looking structure, indeed. If my friend got all the material for nothing from people who had fragments of paint and lumber left over after they failed, and then if the workmen constructed its nights could look upon it without feeling a heartache for the man who built that house, and probably struggled on year after year, he could steal the lumber, getting a new workman each year, building a knob here and a protuberance there, putting in a three-cornered window at one point and a sellow tile or a wad of broken glass and other debris at another, patiently filling in around the ranch with any old rubbish that
