BRILLIANT EXERCISES.

The Twenty-first Annual Commencement of the Visitation Academy at Parkers-

Special Correspondence of the Register.

PARKERSBURG, W. VA., June 24.-The twenty-first annual commencement of the Academy of the Visitation took place Tuesday afternoon in the large school hall, which was invitingly fitted up for the pleas ure and comfort of the vast and cultured audience that was assembled there. The stage was decorated in the most tasty and graceful manner, rich curtains of dainty lace draped the windows, and the walls and casements were festooned with the sweetest.

freshest flowers. The afternoon was cool and pleasant; the western sunshine slanted in warm yet delightful floods through the hall. The performances were of the rarest enjoyment to the audience, so successfully were they conducted and so exceedingly entertaining were they. There will be a good cause for the pupils who took part in these exercises to look back upon this date in future years with feelings of pleasure and satisfaction. The first feature of the exercises was the grand entrance march, played by the following young ladies

Murphy, Teresa Carney, Annie Kelly, Rose Hebrank, Amelia Hebrank and Mary

Caddin, and by Miss Mary Campbell on the guitar. This march was grand, both in Bells of Long Ago," was rendered so ten-derly sweet, the music sounding so faint and far, yet clear and strong, that it was perfectly inspiring. The salutatory in English was delivered by Miss Gertie Campbell, and in German by Miss Francis Carr, and both young ladies "saluted" merrily, and their performances were well nigh faultless.

graduates, Misses Teresa Carney and Maggie Murphy. Premiums were then distributed to the meritorious pupils in church history and christian doctrine.

A piano sextette, next in order by Misses osephine Schneider, Mary E. Clark, Laura

"On Moonlight Stream," by Epstein, Frances Partridge, Mary Hughes, and Bernie Caswell, was executed in the most cunning and expressive atyle. A the class, Miss Amelia Hebrank at the piano, was especially enjoyable.

A recitation by Miss Annie Kennedy, a little Miss, was highly pleasing. Next came an instrumental duo, executed by Misses Campbell and Carr, the sweet strains that flowed forth under their graceful touch charmed their listeners. Premiums in rhetoric, grammar, analysis and composisong, so gently did the sounds float out. A gramme, which was also excellent. Pre miums in logic, chemistry, philosophy, as-tronomy, geography, familiar science and history, were then given. A chorus by the little ones was a delightful harmony of cute voices, nicely blended. An instrumental sextette, participated in by Misses M. Murphy, T. Carney, F. Carr, G. Campbell, was wholly artistic. Essay, "Omnia pro Te, vocaltrio, "Life has no power," by Misses T. Carney, M. Murphy and G. Campbell sung so clear and in full round notes was inescribably sweet. An instrumental duo by Misses Bernie Caswell and J. Schneider, was vary entertaining. Instrumental trio, by Misses Kate Henry, A. and R. Hebrank, was finished and expressive. Recitation, "A Dream, by little Miss Hannah Kain, was a comely effort and was well prepared.

Premium in German, Kensington and Arrasene, embroidery and ribbon work were next given. A vocal duo, "Two Forest Nymphs," by Misses K, Kennedy and I.

Carney, was just too charming, their silvery sweet voices were in splendid harmony.

Recitation, a selection from Mrs. Hemans, by Miss Sadie Ault, was highly enjoyable, although a very lengthy recitation, Miss Sadie did not make the least hesitation or error, and her hearers would have been delighted with a repetition. A grand galop, by Misses Lillie and Ruth Richardson, E.

Norton, B. Rapp, Lena Schafer and Kate Kennedy, was well played. Premiums in music, oil, pastel, and Kensington painting and draw-factory. Then followed the valedictories by Miss Teresa V. Carney and Miss Maggie M. Murphy and for both these young ladies their effort was a crowning charm, their essays showed genuine refinement, were pure-ly original and their graceful happy speeches were listened to with the most in tense interest. Their parting with teachers, pupils and friends was truly touching.

Miss Maggie Murphy, surprised her friends by renouncing the world and entering the Convent, after the exercises were over she expressed her will-ingness to remain in the Academy forever

Silver medals were a warded to Misses Mary Cadden, Lillie Rich-ardson, Mary Stephenson and Ber-nadine Hoben. A chorus by the class was followed by the grand march which closed the commencement exercises.

Especially noticeable was the well cared for appearance of the grounds about the in-stitution so neat and trim and in such good order, while the inside of the abode was precision itself. Rev. Fathers O'Connor of Clarksburg, Kuhn of Marietta, Brennen and Cattle are sold at these figures live weight. Hogs are sold at net weight, that is 20 per cent. (generally) of from live weight. Sheep are sold gross, that is live weight, or nothing off.) AT CALVERTON YARDS. Beef Cattle.-The offerings on the mar-et to-day were in excess of the usual de mand, and trade was slow. The quality averaged something better than it did last reek there being fatter tops and more me dium and good grades of butcher cattle with fewer common ones than there werein last week's offerings. Dealers generally report a shade decline in prices in view of the rather improved quality of the offerings. We quote the rauge at $3 25@6 00, with most sales at $5 75@5 75 per 100 lbs. The ahipments to Liverpool numbered nearly 600 head, chiefly from Chicago. Prices of Beef Cattle ranged as follows:

Most of the sales were at $4 75@5 75 per 100 lbs. Of the Cattle received, 306 head came from Virginia, 168 from Maryland, 195 from Pennsylvania, 193 from Ohio, 357 from Illinois and 70 from West Virginia.
