In this issue appears a very sensible letter in regard to the Medical and Biological chair of the University. We commend it to the attention of the Board of Regents.

WHEN President CLEVELAND saw that he was wrong in regard to that battle-flag order, he promptly and cheerfully corrected his mistake. We commend his example to the Intelligencer in regard to the mistake made at its office in regard to the action of the Invitation Committee.

THE New York Herald has heard "the dickey birds say" that this is to be the next Republican ticket:

For President, Rev. Dr. BURCHARD. For Vice President, JAMES G. BLAINE.

THE fifty year's of Queen VICTORIA's the luster of all is dimmed by the treatment of Ireland. While thousands and thousands of Englishmen yesterday were proudly celebrating the Jubilee, the consciences of many must be touched when they read this placard that Irishmen had posted everywhere possible: IRELAND'S JUBILEE.

What Has the Queen's Reign of Fifty Years Done for the People of Ireland; Persons evicted by landlords. THAT INTELLIGENCER OFFICE

We are sorry that any one was so indiscreet as to send out a dispatch from Wheeling saying that the Invitation Committee for the Reunion of the Society of the Army of this speculation, Chicago and Kansas of West Virginia had responded "no, thank | City, have loans outstanding at the beginident CLEVELAND to this city. Intelligencer, who sent the dispatch to the Commercial-Gazette has not vet, as we are aware of, made the slightest attempt to correct his misrepresentation, but allows the falsehood to go over the country to the detriment of the Reunion and of our people. And what adds still more to the insult to the veterans is that the Intelligencer does not even report that one of in the dispatch of the Intelligencer's city the Intelligencer's staff has misrepresented the Invitation Committee and aroused inial in vesterday's Intelligencer seems rather to glory in the sentiment expressed editor to the Commercial-Gazette. The only thing it seems to regret is that the REGISTER'S efforts have located the foundation of the whole matter at the Intelligence office. If we are to judge from the Intelligencer's course it doesn't want the matter set right. Even the REGISTER'S suggestion that if the mistake be not corrected by the Committee, the Mayor, as chief executive officer of the city, take steps to set our people right before the world does not please the Intelligencer, It suggests that it might be better to call out the Police and Fire Departments, Happily nearly all the members of the committee have placed themseves right, and it is not probable that the Mayor's action will be needed, nor the police except it be to protect the President should he make a visit to Wheeling, from the dangerous these were interspersed with music renwill be needed, nor the police except it be Intelligencer and some others who do not believe the war is yet over; nor will the Fire Department be needed, except it be to the anniversary of the Cosmian Literary. turn the hose on our esteemed neighbor to cool him off so that he may be in proper condition for the non partisan reunion to take place in August. We would suggest that the Invitation Committee ask the Intellgencer to explain its action. If the Intelligencer would try to make amends for the damage that originated in its office, it would be in a much better plight to enjoy the reunion.

A PLEASING CONTRAST.

On June 17 a banquet was given in Fanenil Hall, Boston, to the ROBERT E. LEE Confederate veterans and the sentiments expressed by both Northern and Southern men make a pleasing contrest to the silly success. On Wednesday evening was the vaporings of the men of the FAIRCHILD-HALSTEAD type.

Said Governor AMES, of Massachusetts: The time has gone by, I trust, never to return when Massachusetts and Virginia will fail to appreciate and understand each other. (Applause.) In the long feature that unrolls before the Republic, the peo ple of the Bay State and the people of the Old Dominion have to work out a common destiny. The bond of the Union links us together in the greatest parterniship, the mightiest league of States that the world has ever seen. For Virginia, Massachusetts has only the kindliest feelings and the best wishes, and I am glad that it is my privilege to say so here and now in this nistoric place, and in the presence of those from the "Old Dominion" who so well represent the people of that State and the spirit of its institutions.

Said the usually fiery Senator HOAR: We, too, have learned to know as we never knew before the quality of the noble Southern stock; what courage in war; what attachment to home and State; what capacity for great affection and generous emotion; what aptness for command; above all, what constancy—that virtue beyond all virtues, without which no people can long be great or free. (Applause.)

This is what the Hon. JOHN GOODE, of Virginia, said amid tremendous applause: While the war continued every inch of Virginia soil was pressed by its red, flery beel. Almost every field was a battle field and almost every house a hospital. When the war terminated the people of Virginia had literally nothing left but the soil. But they did not despair. They went to work with a resolute purpose worthy of the heroic race from which they sprung. What has been the result? No le on the face of the earth ever exhibpeople on the face of the earth the ited greater recuperative energies than the people of that State since the war. The stistical tables will show that they have produced more corn, more wheat, more bacco, more manufactures than in the same number of years before. We have built more miles of railroad than in any revious period of our history. We are sere to talk as brethren and friends. country. I profess to know that people, and I know whereof I affirm when I say that not a single man among them would re-establish the institution of slavery if he could. There is not a man among them who harbors in his breast one particle of animosity or resentment toward this proud American Union or its brave defenders. When they furled at Appomattox that torn and tattered banner which they followed for four long and weary years, and renewed their allegiance to the government of the United States, they acted in good faith. * * * I say, when any man in this broad land supposes that Virginia does not love this Union, he is mistaken—he is most egregiously mistaken. We are ready to grasp hands with the men of Massachusetts in starting our country upon a new career of prosperity. If the Government ever becomes involved in trouble with any foreign power, you will find that the mer of Virginia will respond with alacrity.

THE PRICE OF GRAIN AND LAND The collapse of the wheat and coffee deals means cheaper wheat and coffee. Cheap wheat means big exports and gold import. While cheap grain means cheap food for the workers in our cities, it means small profits for the farmers. The price of land is ultimately determined by the price of grain. Land values have been pushed away up by artificial means in the West. The low price of grain for a considerable time cannot fail to have an effect on this great expansion. The Philadelphia Press in speaking of the speculation in real estate says: "How far this land speculation has gone, there are no means of knowing; but from time to time strong side lights reign are full of proud achievements. But are thrown on it. Bradstreet's gives real estate transfers in forty-three cities, from from New York down, with an estimated population of 6,500,000. The aggregate of these transfers for the first five months of 1887 and 1886 were $296,156,698 in 1886, and $451,172,004 in 1887, an increase of $155,015,306, or more than one-half. Of this increase, however, $125,400,000, or fivesixths, is furnished by eight cities, Kansas City, Wichita, Minneapolis, St. Paul, Omaha, Denver, Topeka and Birmingham, 3,650,000 The population of these cities, after con. ceding all the claims of boomers, is not over 600,000. It is plain that swapping iack-kives on this scale cannot go on without somebody being left with the broken bladed knife. It is significant in this line that the banks of two cities in the centre you," to a proposal to secure a visit of Pres- ning of June, 1887, $18,500,000 larger than one year before. This is an increase of 30 banks of the three cities of New York. Miss Nor-ris' rendition of this was especially fine. After music Mr. Sheridan R. Griffin, of Harrison county, read an excellent essay on the "American Flag," and Miss Hester Hays read one on "Queen Victoria."

Clayton's March was then rendered in a nost beautiful manner by Miss Mary lagon. Two orations followed, one by Mr. E. N. Flowers, of Harrison county, upon "Personal Influence," and Mr. Jas. L. Smith, of Wirt county, upon the "Political status of the United States." The paper which was very well written was read by Miss Anna Cather. The "Clar-ion" still preserves its old eloquence and biting wit. The anniversary was a great prize contest. Miss Mapel had offered a prize of ten dollars for the best declamation that might be given, and Mr. Brown offered a prize of fifteen dollars for the

The music for the day was furnished by Miss Mary Eagen, Jesse Norris and Normal School choir. The graduates were Misses Ida M. Brannon, Rue C. Bennett, Emma E. Hays and Jessie C. Norris, of Glenville, Miss Annie E. Silcott, of Grantsville, Caloun county, Miss Carrie Wiesenfeld, of Cutlip's, Braxton county, and Mr. S. W. Varner, of Sand Fork, Gilmer county. Miss Brannon's essay, whose subject was "Excelsior," with salutatory, was written with her usual literary elegance and which was most excellently read, came first. The second was a well written essay by Miss Rue C. Bennett, upon "The Fallen in this she exhibited her well known love for Botany and wrote with sci-entific correctness. After music Miss Emma E. Hays read an essay written with exquisite literary polish, upon "Father Ryan, the Poet Priest of the South." The fourth essay was read by Miss Jessie Norris, upon "Poetry and a Poet." This essay showed a high critical taste and held that Bryant was the truest of our American poets. Music followed. The Miss Annie silcott read an essay upon "Friendship" which was well received by the audience and was indeed a good essay. Next Miss Carrie Wiesenfeld read an essay. upon "Representative Modern Historians and Their Work." This essay evinced wider reading and maturer thought than any of the essays, was written in rich, strong language and was admirable in structure. The last was an oration by Mr. L. W. Varner upon "Politics and Publie Schools." and in this he laid open with a fearless hand the method of politicians dealing with school affairs, and was heartily applauded at the close. The were then conferred upon the graduates by Hon. B. L. Morgan, who then made most an admirable address con sisting of wise admonitions and good advice. After a few minutes talk in a very

dience was dismissed. Owing to a mistake in time the Hon. Daniel B. Lucas did not arrive at the hour appointed for his lecture, but later in the vening he arrived and was greeted with an enthusastic audience, when he spoke in his usual classical and eloquent manner.
His subject was Daniel O'Connell. The lecturer declared O'Connell to have been the greatest orator who has lived since the days of Demosthenes; and said he was the first to contend for universal religious The whole lecture, of an hour and a half's length, was brilliant, able and captivating, and the audience showed its appreciation by frequent outbursts of ap-plause.
