THREE clergymen of the Methodist Church have preferred charges against the Rev. Dr. Wm. Daily, President of the Indiana State University, for drunkenness, lewdness and bribery. The Indianapolis American, a paper edited by a member of Mr. Daily's church, says :

Our readers will learn with profound regret. Our readers will learn with profound regret, more than surprise, that Dr. Daily, the Presi-dent of the State University, spent most of last week in this city, so much under the influence of intoxicating liquors as to be seen staggering in street, and to demean himself in a rule manner in the Union Depot, offering insults to an unprotected female. For the latter he made acknowledgements to the friends of the female acknowledgements to the friends of the female and the officers of the internet of the remains of the female will be brought before a committee of the church at the earliest possible moment. We forbear comment for the present, further than to say that though Dr. Daily has long been suspected of a free use of intoxicating liquors; he has managed to keep the facts from the authorities of the church so far as to elude detection. The habit has, however, been growing upon him, until concealment is no longer possible.— His friends in this city and in the State are deepmortified over his conduct in the city las week, the details of which are too revolting for publication. The number of elergymen that have lately fallen very low from grace has attracted our attention. Only a day or so ago we published a sketch of the amours of a Peoria (Ill.) reverend with a beautiful and blushing young member of his flock. Not only did he ruin his frail parishioner, but he laid hands in secret on the unfortunate product of his and her unhallowed passion. Not only did he do all this, but after all, when the evidence was gathering and thickening upon him, he brazenly stood up for trial under an air of injured innocence. When, some months ago, the Rev. Kalloch, of Boston, was caught in flagrante delicto, the whole country became excited and horrified to think that a Boston clergyman-preaching midst an air of so much Platonic sentiment-and withal, quite renowned for his ability "to point a moral and adorn a tale" with fine drawn pictures of the weakness of the flesh in an unregenerated state -should have so sadly lapsed from out his spiritual armor. But case upon case has been happening since-(quite a noted one in Brooklyn, N. Y.,)-and many others to which we could refer upon a little reflection, were it necessary. But those named are enough to show that the ebulitious and gratification of either Luman or davilish propensities are not strictly any longer within the pale of the non-sacrificing laity-but that the the competition among their higher breathing brethren of the "immaculate tie" is really losing the excitement of novelty. Such revelations only show how weak are poor mortal men and women-sanctified or unsanctified. Men in the lower and less pretending walks of life sin daily, and are passed over as unworthy of gossip or remark-but when the man of the pulpit gives way to a gust of the "old Adam" within him, he falls like woman or like Lucifer, never to rise again. And all this goes to show, we think, how important it is that all men who take upon themselves holy offices, should at the outset obey the apostolic recommendations concerning marriage, which were no doubt intended as specifics against the "lust of the flesh." To expect that any set of men, even midst a great deal more prayer and fasting than is common among the devoutest of them, are to invert their natures, is to expect and look for the Ethiopian to change his skin or the leopard his spots. The one is about as possible as the other. Men who are born sensual and gross in their nature, in nineteen cases out of twenty. show sensual proclivities all their life through. And many, very many of them-for men are not to be reproached for their natural inheritance -make good and useful and honorable citizens when rightly and favorably circumstanced and settled in life. Some men are restrained from indulgences by fear, some by pride, but the fewest number by the strict surveillance of a well disciplined conscience. There is no safeguard to a community like putting men beyond the reach of temptation. And whenever the Clerk's records of the different counties in the different States show that marriages are continually falling off in number, then may we as certainly look for startling revelations as for the dropping of the rain after the gathering of the clouds. The acquired stoicism of no man-be he a religionist of ever so straight or strict a sect—when his nature is against him should be trusted. "Watch and pray," all such most as-suredly should, but more especially should those who have the guardianship of frail inexperience attend to the first part of the injunction.

"We impeach him (Letcher) of seeking to divide "We impeach him (Letcher) of seeking to divide this glorious old Commonwealth into two distinct and nostile parts, and we impeach him of trying to Abolitonize the Western half! We impeach him of waring upon the foundation interest of the State—upon the institution of slarery itself and of endeavoring to exterminate it root and branch! We impeach him of a hundred other grave political offences, and we call upon the people to return a verdict, in accordance with the facts and the testimony." the facts and the testimony." The above extract is from the Richmond

Whig, which paper, in common with some oth-ers, is putting itself and the people to a great deal of unnecessary excitement, turbulence and trouble touching the election of delegates to an opposition convention, to be held at Richmond some time soon, when, as every intelligent man, woman and child in the State knows, it is as hopeless a piece of business as ever was attempted. Nevertheless, if it was a good cause, if there was in it anything of good to our people here or elsewhere in the West, we should, hit or miss, succeed or fail, give our heart and hand to the work. But, as the old Roman philosopher so forcibly asked, Cui Bono? What is to be the result to us, here in the West? We have purposely underscored (italicised) this sentence in the above quoted extract: "We impeach him of waring upon the foundation interest of the State-upon the institution of slavery itself -and of endeavoring to exterminate it root and branch." It is more particularly that part of the sentence which speaks of slavery as "the foundation interest of the State," that we have singled out, and it is to it in particular that we call the attention of the white working men of Western Virginia. We ask them if they are prepared to enter into an opposition contest upon this issue with John Letcher? Do they for this reason also impeach John Letcher? Do they, high as heaven above us, raise aloft the nigger interest, and to it and under it subordinate all the other ten thousand inferests, all the countless capacities, wishes and expectations of the quarter of a million whites of the West? Let those who will, enter into a ontest of this kind. Let those who are willing to pass under this yoke of niggerism, agitate and nominate an opposition ticket. For ourselves, feeling as we do that the triumph of John Letcher, despite his discreditable retraction of the Ruffuer pamphlet, will be considered as somewhat of a modification of the ultra sentiment on the nigger question, we infinitely prefer it to the success of an opposition ticket that shall make his pamphlet antecedents an issue. We shall never vote or advocate such a ticket. In saying this much we do not stand for John Letcher. On the contrary, we are ashamed of him-ashamed of his moral cowardicesuch inglorious; Julianism as he has exhibited aghis all-absorbing desire for the Gubernatorial nomination. It is only because that the success of a ticket opposed to him would be construed and claimed as a visitation upon the nanly stand he once took, that we can bring ourselves to contemplate his election with any degree of satisfaction. As yet, there has been to election for delegates to the projected oppo sition convention, anywhere in the Panhandle counties. We hope there will be none. Let the white laboring men of Western Virginia refuse to have any hand in such self imposed degredation.

A letter in the N. Y. Times says Colonel Preston, our Minister to Spain, is the only Kentucky representative of a distinguished Virginia and South Carolina family -a fine specimen of the intellect and physique peculiar to the State .-Mrs. Preston, a brilliant conversationalist, and fluent French and Spanish linguist, is a worthy descendent of the celebrated Robert Wickliffe, known throughout the Ohio Valley as the "Old Duke"-a man of immense fortune, an eminent lawyer, trained to his profession by that distinguished patriot and statesman, George Nicholas. As they go to the Court of a woman, we are rebiced that the ladies are such as to do credit to America, and to illustrate to decaying royalty the dignity of the descendants of the women of the Revolution. Tur Boston correspondent of the Springfield Republican, in speaking of the meeting of the Legislature, thus alludes to Gen. Cushing:

It was a real pleasure last winter, to see him coming to the house early in the morning to at-tend to the sessions of the Judiciary Committee; then sitting down in his place, watching nar rowly every incident of legislation, little as well as big, explaining, suggesting, protesting, con-troverting, arguing, expostulating, anathemati-zing. His mind is like the trunk of an elephant, which can pick up a pin or rend an oak with equal ease. I have stolen this idea; if you want to know from where, ask Mr. Cushing, for he knows everything.

A beautiful illustration of the sleep of plants, discovered by Linnmus, is given in the House hold Words. The leaves of the common chickweed-stellaria medica-every night approach each other in pairs, so as to include within their upper surfaces the tender rudiments of the young shoots; and the uppermost pair but one at the end of the stock are furnished with longer leaf stocks than the others, so that they can lose upon the terminating pair, and protect the end of the shoot. Thus are exemplified the onjugal love and parental care of the plants.
